PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S GREAT TRIUMPH.

President Roosevelt settled the coal strike and in doing so won a great personal triumph. He has by moral suasion brought together the coal operators and the miners without taking sides in their controversy and without using any official power with which he is clothed as President of the United States. President Roosevelt took an unusual and an unprecedented action regarding this strike because the effects of it were unusual and unprecedented. He recognized that as President he is the representative of 80,000,000 of people and that in the case of great emergency where there is absolute necessity for some concrete expression of public opinion it is his duty to use his influence in behalf of the people outside the formalities of the law and outside the precise official duties of his office.

After the coal strike had continued for more than five months and threatened a fuel famine in the country, President Roosevelt decided that there was an emergency and that he should try to bring to an end a situation that had become intolerable. He invited the coal operators and John Mitchell, President of the United Mine Workers' Union, to confer with him and try to reach an agreement. That conference was held Oct. 3, and President Roosevelt first called the attention of these men to the fact that there were three parties affected by the situation, the operators, the miners and the general public. "I speak for neither the operators nor the miners, but for the general public" said the President. He added: "I disclaim any right or duty to intervene in this way upon legal grounds or upon any official relation that I bear to the situation; but the urgency and the terrible nature of the catastrophe impending over a large portion of our people in the shape of a winter fuel famine impels me, after much anxious thought, to believe that my duty requires me to use whatever influence I personally can to bring to an end a situation which has become literally intolerable." He closed his address to the operators and miners' representative with this practical appeal: "I do not invite a discussion of your respective claims and positions. I appeal to your patriotism, to the spirit that sinks personal considerations and makes individual sacrifices for the general good."

That conference brought no immediate result. But the position taken by the President was so in keeping with the highest ideals of the office of the Chief Executive of the Nation that it met with universal approval throughout the country. There was neither political nor official power used, only that power which belonged to the President as the one man who could speak for the whole people, and when the operators found from the expressions of the newspapers of all political parties and from the resolutions of public gatherings, that the President had spoken truly and represented correctly the great American people, they reconsidered their first refusal and agreed to arbitrate all differences they had with the miners.

President Roosevelt has saved the American people from a fuel famine and the suffering and embarrassment which would necessarily follow. In doing this great service for the people he has won such a personal triumph as has rarely been won by a President of the United States. He demonstrated again and in an unofficial way that he is the President of the whole people and ever zealous of the rights of the people without arbitrarily assuming any authority not given to his office by the Constitution.

His action and attitude has been in keeping with the democracy of Jefferson, the courage of Jackson, the wisdom of Lincon, the tenacity of Grant and the diplomacy of McKinley. He has demonstrated completely the wisdom of the Republican convention in naming him as the heir to McKinley and the resolution to again make him the standard bearer of the Republican party. He is the great leader of the party that does things, and that is the party now in complete control of the Government, and should remain so by the voice of the people in this campaign.

* * * * * *

Good times, good prices and good money are the returns the Republican party has given the people in return for their vote of confidence. Democracy stands for principles which if endorsed at the polls would bring hard times, low prices and cheap money.

"OH, PUMPKIN PIE!"

—to:—

Oh, pumpkin pie!
Athwart thy face
An hundred fancies may I trace!
I see the glint of summer sun;
And twilight, when the day is done;
The sober peace of musing cows
Who in the meadow grasses browse;
The radiant glory of the morn
That sweeps across the nodding corn,
A thousand happy fancies start
When thou art nestling near my heart!

Oh, pumpkin pie!
I hear the breeze
That whispered in the maple trees;
I see the swaying fields of wheat,
And hear the birdsongs, clear and sweet;
And low across the land at night
I catch that ballad of delight—
The chant the cricket sings in glee,
And summer comes again to me!
Oh, pumpkin pie! Thus dost thou cast
Thy joyous glamour o'er the past!

Oh, pumpkin pie!
Within thy breast
These gladsome summer fancies rest,
The golden sunshine and the dew
Have paid their tribute through and through;
The song the lark trilled in the air
Within thy form is echoed there:
And all these things of joy to me
Were caught and firmly held by thee.
Oh, pumpkin! Thanks, for all thou didst!
I welcome thee unto my midst!

The Aftermath of the Coal Strike.

From Scientific American.

The effects of the great strike in the anthracite coal regions will make themselves felt in a very practical way long after the more dramatic incidents of the strike have passed from the public mind. That the immediate pecuniary losses both to capital and labor resulting from the strike will be enormous, goes without saying; but in addition to these the anthracite coal trade will unquestionably suffer a serious loss, because of the widespread public attention which had been directed to the great question of utilizing other domestic fuel supplies than that of anthracite coal.

After all is said and done, we are very much the creatures of habit, even in America. We have used anthracite coal so long, and so exclusively, that to the majority of workaday citizens it has never occurred that there might be substitutes which would be superior to anthracite in economy, and greatly superior to it in convenience and cleanliness of use and operation. There are thousands of homes, in which, previous to the strike, the use of gas and coal oil for heating and cooking purposes was unknown, that have been driven by necessity to the use of these fuels, and have formed such a good opinion of their qualities, that they are certain to continue their use, either in whole or in part, to the prejudice of the interests of the retail coal dealer. Just how far the consumption of coal will be affected, will only be known as the winter months advance; but it is certain that the vigorous campaign of instruction which has been carried on by the gas companies and the manufacturers of coal-oil stoves and ranges, will result throughout the anthracite-using districts in a great increase in the domestic consumption of oil and and gas fuel.

Wall Paper! Wall Paper!

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a potter pup nine days to get his eyes open. I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store therefore I have no opposition. Is you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollar on all Wall Papers.

Finest and Cheapest Lines of WALL PAPER

COAL! COAL!

My stock of coal is exhausted, but my stock of WATCHES, CLOCKS, JEWELRY, Silverware, Stationery, Blank Books, Cut Glass, China,

Bric-a-Brac and Novelties, is increasing every day. Remember Christmas is drawing near, and the old as well as the young will get married, and I am prepared to serve those who wish to remember their friends with a gift for Christmas or Wedding.

Waterman's Fountain Pens are the best in use, a stock of which I have on hand.

School supplies, Inks of all colors, in sizes from 2 oz. to quart bottles.

Repairing of Watches, Clocks and Jewelry done and guaranteed.

Eyes examined FREE and Spectacles and Eye Glasses fitted to your face, just the same as the Dressmaker and Tailor fits you with clothes.

All goods must be as represented, or money refunded, or new goods in their place.

Awaiting your coming, I am sincerly yours for business,

JAMES H. CASSELL, successor to A. H. Wentz.

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?

WESTMINSTER, April 10th, 1900.

MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:

Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very troublesome cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough, and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy I ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,

EDWARD LYNCH.
