RESULTS OF THE ELECTION.

Substantial Republican Victories.

NEVADA AND RHODE ISLAND

The Only Northern States carried by the Democrats,

And the Legislature of Rhode Island Republican.

Maryland and West Virginia also Give Substantial Republican Majorities.

It Was an "Off Year" and the Democrats Were Thoroughly United, But the Republicans Got There Just the Same.

The Country Does Not Want Cleveland Free Trade, Nor Bryan Free Silver.

Republican Divisions give Delaware to Democrats by Plurality on State Vote, but Republicans Control the Legislature.

The People Prefer Republican Prosperity to Democratic Adversity.

What Has Become of Anti-Imperialism?

President Roosevelt Sustained and the Memory of McKinley Honored by the Result.

Maryland Elects Four Republican Congressmen.

The returns of the elections held throughout the country on Tuesday, as they are given in the SENTINEL this week, are, of course, unofficial in most cases and slight changes may appear in the number of Congressmen elected by each party when the official result shall fully appear. The Republicans, however, will have a good working majority in the house of Representatives—not much less than thirty—and will about hold their preponderance in the Senate.

Delaware is not represented in the Senate and probably may not be in the 58th Congress. The Republicans have a majority on joint ballot in the Legislature, but the party is divided into Addicks and Union factions and a deadlock will probably occur as it has previously done. The Union Republicans are determined that Addicks shall not go to the Senate and the Addicks men are equally determined that he shall or the State shall not be represented. The division in the party has given Delaware a Democratic Governor and Congressman.

The Democrats made a desperate effort to carry the State of New York and rolled up an unprecedented majority in Greater New York, but the Republicans overcame it in the counties and re-elected Governor Odell by 8,000 to 10,000 majority, carrying also a majority of the State Legislature.

Pennsylvania gives about 140,000 Republican majority, Ohio 100,000, Illinois 60,000, Iowa 70,000. Other large States well maintain previous Republican strength and point the way to a Republican victory in 1904.

Carroll county and the State of Maryland still stand in the Republican column on national issues.

CARROLL COUNTY---OFFICIAL.

The following table exhibits the result of the election in Carroll county on Tuesday, according to the official returns, and in comparison with the vote of a year ago. The latter is selected for comparison because there were only 15 voting places two years ago:

American Sentinel.

WESTMINSTER, - MARYLAND

W. L. W. Seabrook, - Editor.

Entered at the Postoffice at Westminster, Md., as Second-class matter.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1902.

Senator Wellington said Pearre would be defeated. This is the second wonderful prediction made by the Senator and both times he has been mistaken.

The result of the election in Carroll county, on Tuesday, exhibits strongly the fidelity and devotion of the Republicans of the county to the principles of their party.

As readers of the SENTINEL well know it is not given to boasting of its share in the work done for the promotion of Republican success and the maintenance of Republican principles. It can, however, say very truthfully that no Republican newspaper in the Second Congressional District was more earnest and effective in its support of the candidacy of Mr. Page for Congress. It is gratifying to know that its efforts are appreciated outside of the county. A prominent Republican in Baltimore—a resident of the Third Congressional District—writes as follows: "I wish to congratulate you on the success of the ticket in Carroll county, and the excellent work done by the SENTINEL in bringing about the splendid results."

CARROLL COUNTY AND MR. PAGE.

While the Republicans of Carroll county deeply regret the defeat of Mr. W. Tyler Page, for Congress, they have no cause to reproach themselves with the result. Probably a more vigorous campaign would have considerably increased his plurality in the county, but without avail in promoting his election. The plurality against him in Baltimore county was much greater than was anticipated by either party and could not have been overcome by any amount of effort. It was a fight against heavy odds and few Republicans were at all sanguine of winning in the district.

REPUBLICAN PRINCIPLES ENDORSED.

The result of the elections on Tuesday, throughout the country, is a thorough endorsement of Republican principles and policies, and an evidence that the party fully possesses the confidence of the people. The Democrats were united, as they have not been since 1892, and manifested great confidence in their ability to wrest the House of Representatives from Republican control. They made Herculean efforts to accomplish that purpose, but all without avail. They used the great miners' strike in Pennsylvania as an object lesson to frighten the voters into the belief that the policies of the Republican party are hostile to the welfare of the wage-earners of the country, and rung the changes on the trusts and the tariff, the tariff and trusts, in the hope and belief that they could persuade the country to accept their theory of a logical connection between them. The effort was a failure. The people have realized that the tariff-trust cry is as thoroughly claptrap as was the taxed dinner-pail and tin-cup of the poor-man-slogan which misled the country in 1892 and brought poverty and distress into many previously happy homes.

The cry of Imperialism, which was raised against the Republican party in the campaign of 1900, was either not heard at all in 1902, or was but a faint echo of the noise then raised about it. It is a dead issue. It was unpatriotic and the Democratic party blundered in making it an issue against McKinley in his second Presidential campaign. Realizing that fact the question was tacitly ignored in the campaign of 1902.

For the third time in succession the people have notified the Democrats that free trade is not acceptable to them, and the party that advocates it must abandon all hope of winning in the future.

The silver service which is to be presented to Gen. John M. Hood, for many years president of the Western Maryland Railroad, is about completed, the inscription being the only thing unfinished. This set is to be presented as a recognition from the people of Baltimore of Gen. Hood's services to the business interests of that city during his presidency of the Western Maryland Railroad.

A Locomotive Explodes.

The explosion of a railroad locomotive engine on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, on Sunday morning, caused the death of the engineer, fireman and head brakesman of the train it was drawing. The explosion occurred at the point where the tracks of the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad pass under the tracks of the B. and O. R. R., a short distance from Baltimore. The engine was attached to a freight train bound for the city. It is said that the train was proceeding at a moderate rate of speed when, without warning, the boiler exploded with a terrific crash, and the ponderous locomotive was thrown forty or fifty feet into the air and hurled 120 feet from the point where the explosion occurred. The force thus exhibited indicates a tremendous pressure of steam and the possibility that, for some cause, the steam-gauge was not registering. The tender and cars were not thrown from the track but ran about 40 yards after the explosion. The engineer, Eli W. Biggs, was instantly killed and his body hurled into the cut of the B. and P. R. R. The fireman, Orville W. Hunt, was also instantly killed and his body thrown into a clump of bushes twenty yards from the point of explosion. Charles O. Stallings, the brakeman, was fatally injured and died at his home in Baltimore, to which he was taken, on Sunday evening. All the victims of the explosion resided in Baltimore. Engineer Biggs was 36 years old and Fireman Hunt 25 years, and both were married men. Brakeman Stallings was 24 years old.
