WESTMINSTER, - MARYLAND

W. L. W. Seabrook, - Editor.

Entered at the Postoffice at Westminster, Md., as Second-class matter.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1902.

President Roosevelt has been sharply criticised for the reappointment of Mr. Byrne, an Addicks Republican, as United States Attorney for Delaware. It appears, however, that the appointment was based upon Mr. Byrne's efficiency as a public officer, and not because of his connection with one of the Republican factions in Delaware. Mr. Byrne, as a candidate for Congress, was required by the President to resign the U. S. Attorneyship, although in other cases of a similar character this had not been demanded. After the election the President reappointed him because he had been commended by the Department of Justice as a capable and efficient district attorney, and not as a recognition of the Addicks or Union wing of the Republican party of Delaware. It is well known that with President Roosevelt merit and efficiency override all other considerations, in the appointment of federal officers, and in this case he simply adhered to a rule of conduct for which he is entitled to commendation rather than censure.

THE REAL OBSTRUCTIONISTS.

Representative William Richardson, Democrat, of the Eighth District of Alabama, is quoted as saying that the talk about a constitutional amendment to give Congress the power to control trusts is all nonsense; that it is impossible. Mr. Richardson says what is needed in relation to the trust question is the abolition or reduction of the duties on trust-made goods. This is, probably, the common opinion of Democratic Representatives in Congress. They are, while constantly denouncing those organizations, determined to prevent any action by which the General Government shall be entrusted with power over trusts. They are, it may be conceded, honest in supposing that protective duties foster trusts, although free-trade England is full of them, and some of the most notorious and oppressive in the United States are absolutely independent of all tariff influences. But they simply stand as obstructionists to all efficient legislation by Congress against these monopolies in opposing the concession of constitutional authority to the government for their regulation and control. There can be no objection to a revision of tariff duties in any case where it can be made reasonably certain that such duties foster and promote the existence of a monopoly; but when such trusts as the Standard Oil monopoly, the most gigantic of them all, flourish under circumstances which make it absolutely demonstrable that tariff duties have nothing in the world to do with them, some other remedy than tariff revision must be looked for.

The Republicans in Congress propose to use whatever authority may be constitutionally within the power of that body to enact a measure in restraint of monopolies, but such legislation, without a change in the constitution, must necessarily be only partially effective. The Democrats, with all their protestations of hostility to trusts, are the real obstructionists to their control by law.

Mr. B. H. Griswold Promoted.

Mr. B. H. Griswold, the well known general freight and passenger agent of the Western Maryland Railroad, has been promoted to the office of general traffic manager of the road, and, it is said, his jurisdiction will soon be extended over the West Virginia Central and Pittsburg Railway Company's lines. Among railroad men the promotion is regarded as a just recognition of the ability and efficiency exhibited by Mr. Griswold in the station he has so long filled to the great advantage of the Western Maryland.

Mr. Griswold is a native of St. Louis, Mo., and is about 57 years old. He is a son of the late Rev. Whiting Griswold, a prominent Episcopal clergyman. He was educated at St. James' College, Hagerstown, and Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., graduating with honors from the latter in 1866. For a time he followed civil engineering and then entered the service of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company where he remained until 1872, when he was appointed agent of the Western Maryland Railroad at Hagerstown. His ability was speedily recognized and two years later he was appointed general freight and ticket agent of the road and transferred to its Baltimore office. Nine years later, in 1883, he became general freight and passenger agent, filling the position with great acceptance to the directory and to General Hood, the president and general manager, next to whom he is entitled to credit for the remarkable development and prosperity which have been achieved by the road.

Added to his skill and ability as a railroad officer Mr. Griswold is a courteous and affable gentleman and is very popular with his associates, the public and the employees of the road. About the time he became agent of the Western Maryland at Hagerstown, in 1872, he married Miss Carrie Robertson, of that place, and they have three children—Mrs. Jesse H. Reeves, of Richmond, Ind., and Messrs. B. H. Griswold, Jr., and Robertson Griswold.

A Letter From Oklahoma.

Mr. Wm. F. Jordan, of Gist, received quite recently a letter from his cousin, Mr. William Jordan, of Hulen, Oklahoma Territory, in which some interesting facts in relation to weather conditions and other matters not personal or private are related. We are permitted by the recipient of the letter to make some extracts from it which will doubtless be of interest to readers of the SENTINEL. Its writer says that from October 31st until the day it was written, November 14th, they had rain or clouds, more or less ever day. "Still," he continues, "we have not had the slightest frost up to the present time. Everything is still growing the same as if it were spring time. The only way in which frost would benefit us would be by robbing the cotton stalks of their leaves and causing the bolls to open, to make picking easier. However, we have both corn and kaffir that would be injured by a freeze at this present time. Of course we did not intend to have anything so late as to be caught by probable frost, but this year we were obliged to plant late or not at all. Our cotton now occupies all our time and it is fortunate for us that it is rather slow opening, or we would not be able to keep up with it.

Incidentally Mr. Jordan refers with pleasure to a statement made by his cousin, Mr. Wm. F. Jordan, in a letter to him, in relation to a matter of ancestral history, and says: "That the Jordans were among the original colonists who founded the town of St. Mary's in the Province of Maryland, in 1833, I leared from my father's own lips, as he doubtless learned it from his father."

Referring to political conditions in Oklahoma, he says "the honors between the Democrats and Republicans were pretty equally divided. * * McGuire, the Republican Delegate to Congress, snowed under Cross, the Democratic noninee, by 400 majority. The Territorial Council is Republican, but in the Lower House the Democrats have a majority of one. * * * * This county, however, went Democratic. The people are largely Texans. We are only 20 miles from Red river and the Texas line at its nearest point." Mr. Jordan is a Republican and says he is "a Roosevelt man, first, last and all the time."

Mr. H. B. Henson has been appointed comptroller of the Western Maryland Railroad, Mr. L. F. Zimmerman secretary and Mr. J. T. M. Barnes treasurer and assistant secretary.

Football at New Windsor.

The game of football played here on Thanksgiving Day between the Linwood and New Windsor teams resulted in a victory for the latter, by the score of 25 to 0; two touchdowns having been made in the first half and three in the second, though the goal was missed in each instance. Although the teams were about equal in weight the N. W. boys had it all their way. The only time the visitors got past the centre of the field was on their kick off. The N. W. boys put up a very good game considering the little practice they have had. Englar and Rouzer deserve great credit for their gallant efforts in trying to get around the New Windsor line. The line up was as follows:

Linnwood.		New Windsor.
Smith	C.	Roop
Fitz and Grayham	R. G.	Richardson
Gilbert	L. G.	Roberts
Dayhoff	R. T.	Hann
