nice white cloth, when, stars of the east, I went plump into a big egg custard pie. I thought John would die laughing, for he said I had mashed that custard all to thunder, and the plate right in two. You see we had to be awful quiet so that the old man would not hear. I was now ready to get in bed, so I put out the light and picked up my boots, thinking to put them in a more convenient place, when down my leg went through a pipehole, which had been covered with paper, up to my hip. Now one part of me was upstairs, while the larger part of me was in the kitchen. As my leg was very long it reached a shelf which was occupied by dishes, pans, coffee pots, etc., and turned it over with a tremendous crash. The girls had not yet retired and we could hear them laughing fit to split their sides. I felt awfully ashamed and was scared until my heart was in my throat, for I expected the old man every moment.

"I extracted my leg from the confounded hole just in time, for the old lady looked into the kitchen from the room door, and asked what all that noise was about. The girls put her off as best they could, and I went to bed, while John was strangling under the covers to keep from laughing aloud. We soon went off into the land of dreams with the hope of waking early. I wish I could tell you my dreams, but it would take too long. One moment I would fancy myself by the side of Sadie, sipping nectar from her heaven bedewed lips, and the next I would be flying from the old man, while he would be flourishing his cane above my head. Then all came to an end by John giving me a kick. On waking up and looking around I saw John's eyes as big as my fist, while the sun was beaming in the window. What to do we couldn't tell, for we heard the old man having family prayers in the kitchen. John looked out of the window and said we could get down over the porch roof. 'Get out and dress as soon as possible,' he said. So in my hurry my foot got fast in the bed-clothes, and out I tumbled head foremost, turned over and down the steps until I struck the door which was fastened by a wooden button and it giving away, out I rolled in front of the old man. He threw up his hands and cried, 'Lord save us,' for he thought I was the devil. The old lady screamed till you could have heard her a mile. I was so scared and bewildered that I couldn't get up at once. It was warm weather and I didn't have anything on but a shirt. When I heard the girls snickering it made me mad and I jumped up and rushed out of the door, leaving the greater part of my shirt on the old iron latch.

"Off I started for the barn, and when half way through the yard the dog set up a howl and went for me.

"When I got into the barn-yard I had to run through a flock of sheep, and among them was an old ram, who backed off a little and started for me. With one bound I escaped the blow, sprang into the barn, and began to climb up the logs into the mow, when an old mother hen pounced upon my legs, picking them until they bled.

"I threw myself upon the hay and after John had slid down the porch into a hogshead of rain water, he came to me with one of the legs of my pants.

"He found me completely prostrated. Part of my shirt, my hat, one leg of my pants, my best stockings, necktie, and one of my boots were left behind.

"I vowed then and there that I would never go to see another girl, and I'll die an old bachlor before I will." D. M. B.

Little Mary was discussing the great hereafter with her mamma when the following ensued:

"Mamma, will you go to heaven when you die?"

"Yes, I hope so, child."

"Well, I hope I'll go, too, because you'll be so lonesome."

"O, yes, and I hope your papa will go, too."

"O, no, papa can't go; he can't leave the store."

Study is the band of boyhood, the ailment of youth, the indulgence of manhood and the restorative of old age.

MEN'S FIVE SENSES.

For some unknown reason different parts of the tongue are assigned for the perception of different tastes. With the tip we taste sweet substances and salts, with the back we taste bitter things and with the sides we taste acids. The middle part of the tongue's surface has scarcely any sense of taste at all.

The long named substance parabrombenzoic sulphinide produces a most remarkable effect, for it gives a sense of sweetness to the point of the tongue and of bitterness to the back. Pure water tastes sweet after sulphate of magnesia.

We can only taste things in solution; hence if the tongue were perfectly dry it would not be affected by the strongest flavored substance in a dry state.

The taste nerves are paralyzed by very hot or very cold liquids. After drinking very hot or ice cold water we could not taste even such a substance as quinine. This fact supplies a useful hint for consumers of ill flavored medicines.

Smell, though the least useful, is the most delicate of our senses. We can smell the three-hundred-millionth part of a grain of musk. No chemical analysis can detect such minute quantities. The most powerful microscope would not render a particle ten thousand times as large visible. We could not taste it were it many thousand times as large.

While we taste liquids, we can smell only gasses. Fill your nostrils with eau de cologne, and you will experience no odor whatever. Fine as our sense of smell is, it has deterioriated immensely since the time when our forefathers were wild men. The Calmucks can smell an encampment twenty miles away; the Peruvians can distinguish all the South American races by their odor.

But smell is a sense highly susceptible of cultivation even by the modern white man. Dealers in tea spices, perfumes and drugs, in consequence of their training, can distinguish the faintest differences in odors.

The organ of hearing is one of the most marvelous pieces of mechanism in the body. In animals the external ear acts as a trumpet to collect the sound waves; in man it is little more than an ornament, but the internal ear is alike in both. So wonderful is its construction that we can distinguish sounds varying from forty to 4,000 vibrations per second. This feat is performed by a portion of the ear called the organ of Corti. What a wonderful organ that is may be understood from the fact that it consists of 5,000 pieces of aparatus, each piece being made up of two rods, one inner hair cell and four outer hair cells—that is, 35,000 separate parts. In some mysterious manner the rods, with other things, are tuned to different notes, and when they vibrate they cause the hairs to transmit an impulse to the nerve of hearing. To be musical, therefore, is to have a good organ of Corti.

Why is it that scratching a piece of glass with metal causes such an unpleasant sound? Because it is what is called the fundamental tone of the ear, which is very high. What the fundamental tone exactly is would take too much space to explain, but if you blow across the mouth of a bottle, a hollow globe, etc., you get its fundamental tone.

The ear is a deceptive organ, and it is often a matter of guesswork to tell whence a sound comes. Indeed, if you place the open hands in front of your ears and curve them backward sounds produced in front will appear to come from behind.

Human beings and monkeys see most things with both eyes. Our whole field of vision extends over 180 degrees or half a circle. The middle half of this we see with both eyes together, but the quarter at each side is seen only with one eye.

All other animals see most things with one eye only. Scarcely ever can they fix both eyes on anything at the same time. But there are considerable variations. A bulldog, for instance, somewhat closely approaches the condition of a monkey. The larger the pupil the greater the quantity of light which enters the eye. Large pupiled people, therefore, see the world in a brighter and more cheerful state than those with small pupils. They can see things better in the dusk or at night.

As every one knows from the optical illusion pictures, the eyes are easily deceived. A white square on a black ground appears larger than a black square of the same size on a white ground. Red near green looks redder; blue near yellow looks bluer; white near black looks whiter.

Touch really includes several senses. Thus there are spots on the skin which feel heat only, spots which feel only cold, spots which feel only pain, spots which feel only pressure and spots which feel tickling. These spots are supplied with nerves capable of doing only one particular duty. The sensations of the skin are grouped by physiologists into three kinds—touch, pain and temperature. The skin which covers a scar has only one kind of sensation. It can feel neither pressure (touch proper) nor temperature, but perceives pain very acutely. The tongue is the most sensitive of all parts to touch, the forehead and elbow to heat or cold.

We only dream sights and sounds. We never dream tastes or smells. If we dream of a flower garden, we see the flowers, but do not smell them. If we dream of a dinner, we see the dishes, but do not taste them.

LOVING WORDS.

—:o:—

Loving words will cost but little,
Journeying up the hill of life;
But they make the weak and weary
Stronger, braver for the strife.
Do you count them only trifles?
What to earth are sun and rain?
Never was a kind word wasted,
Never was one said in vain.

When the cares of life are many,
And its burdens heavy grow,
Think of weak ones close beside you—
If you love them, tell them so!
What you count of little value
Has an almost magic power,
And beneath their cheering sunshine
Hearts will blossom like a flower.

So, as up life's hill we journey,
Let us scatter, all the way,
Kindly words, for they are sunshine
In the dark and cloudy day.
Grudge no loving word or action,
As along through life you go,
There are weary ones around you—
If you love them, tell them so!

Mr. Poeit—"Genevieve, if the house should ever get on fire while I am away I hope you will remember to save my poetry before anything else."

Mrs. Poeit—"Yes, I suppose I will. During a fire they say one always does the most foolish things."

Jack—"Tom calls his little trained dog 'Postage Stamp.'"

Kate—"What ever did he give him such a queer name as that for?"

Jack—"Because he will carry a letter and he can lick him easy."

He—"You are so beautiful while she is so plain."

She—"But Elsie has a splendid intellect."

He—"Well, you can't expect her to have everything."

Mamma—"You have drawn the horse very nicely, Charlie, but you have forgotten one thing. Where is his tail?"

Charlie—"Oh, that horse doesn't need any tail. There ain't no flies on him."

He (bashfully)—"May I—er—kiss your baby sister?"

She (in disgust)—"Oh, I suppose so—if you're too cowardly to tackel a girl nearer your own size."

Teacher—"Is there any connection between mind and matter?"

Small Boy—"Sure. If a boy does not mind, there'll soon be something the matter."

Ida—"They say it was a case of love at first sight with him." May—"What a pity he wasn't a medium and could have taken a second sight."

Miriam—"Are you going to Dakota for your health?"

Melicent—"Yes; marriage doesn't seem to agree with me!"

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF DESIRABLE PROPERTY,

Near Reese P. O., Carroll County, Md.

By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Carroll county, sitting as a Court of Equity, passed in cause No. 4033 on the docket of said Court, the undersigned, as Trustee, will sell at Public Sale, on the premises first mentioned below, on

SATURDAY, THE 9th OF MAY, 1903,
at 2 o'clock, P. M.

1st. A parcel of land containing
2 ACRES, 3 ROODS AND 9 PERCHES, more or less. The improvements thereon are a Two-story Log and Weatherboarded Dwelling House, Log Barn, Corn House, Chicken House, Hog House and other outbuildings, well of excellent water at the door, garden, apple and other fruit trees in bearing condition.

2nd. A parcel of land containing
1½ ACRES, MORE OR LESS.
There is a Two-story Log Dwelling House on the premises. Apple and other fruit trees.

3rd. A parcel of land containing
13 ACRES, MORE OR LESS.

All the land is in a good state of cultivation.

These properties are in the 4th Election district, in Carroll county, Md., and about one-quarter of a mile from Reese P. O.

The first parcel is located on the Baltimore and Reisterstown turnpike road and the county road leading from the turnpike to the Deer Park road, and adjoins the land of Frank A. Eckenrode and Milton Chew; the second lot is also on the turnpike road, about 200 yards from the first parcel, and adjoins the land of Mrs. Bush, the land of the late John Zehner and John Poisal, and the third parcel is on the county road leading from the said turnpike road to the Deer Park road, is about one-half mile from the first parcel and adjoins the land of Harry Caple and Moses Barnes, was formerly owned by August Miller, now deceased, and now occupied by Wm. Arnold. The location of these parcels of land make them worthy the attention of purchasers.

Terms of Sale.—One-third cash on the day of sale, or on the ratification thereof, one-third in one year and the other one-third in two years from the day of sale, the credit payments to be secured by the notes of the purchaser or purchasers, with approved security, bearing interest from the day of sale; or all cash, at the option of the purchaser.

Wall Paper!
Wall Paper!

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a pointer pup nine days to get his eyes open. I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store therefore I have no opposition. Is you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollar on all Wall Papers.

Finest and Cheapest Lines of
WALL PAPER
