trix in the arrangements of her house.

"Once I ventured to say to him, 'Wouldn't it be nice if you and I had a home like this, all to ourselves, every bit our own?'

" 'Don't let us covet our neighbors' goods,' he answered playfully.

"We had been here six weeks and the time had flown. Every morning when I arose I made a half resolution to tell him the truth before that day wore out, and yet somehow a nice opportunity never seemed to offer itself. Dear Beatrix was very patient, and I knew that her sense of humor enabled her to enjoy a situation which many would have thought a bore. Still, she warned me that her yachting husband would soon be on the return wave and that her own home would claim her. As the leaves began to turn yellow on the trees I pondered my dilemma and acknowledged that I had only deepened my difficulties by my cunning plot.

"It had come to this, that I feared nothnig except lowering myself in my husband's estimation by confessing that I had deliberately deceived him.

"Meanwhile I was recklessly airing a variety of pretty frocks, and even some of the old jewelry. Max said:

" 'Mary, you look charming in all these pretty decorations, yet sometimes I think regretfully of my white coifed maiden.' That was both hard and sweet to bear. He also said:

" 'I begin to think you might have belonged to people who were once exceedingly well to do. And I fear——'

" 'That I am one of those rich women whom you dislike, who left their luxuries for the hospital."

" 'I did not mean to say,' he said, but he began to appear troubled and restless at making so long a stay in the hospitable house of another. I felt that matters were coming to a crisis, and yet I do not know how I should have acted, for I was growing more and more nervous and demoralized, had not Beatrix suddenly at breakfast one morning cut the knot by saying:

" 'Now, Mary, I shall be obliged to leave you tomorrow. I have enjoyed my visit extremely, but Will is coming home and I must be there to welcome him.' Max raised his eyes and looked from her to me, then quietly went on with his breakfast. He had seen us both smile and thought we were making a frivolous joke which seemed to him rather meaningless. But Beatrix was desperate.

" 'Have I not done the honors very nicely'? she said, looking full at Max, 'I have played housekeeper to Mary in her own house that she might imagine she was somewhere else passing her second honeymoon.'

"Max looked at her silently and gravely.

" 'If this jest amuses you,' he said, 'I can make no objection to humor one who has been so kind to us.'

" 'Oh!' said Beatrix, 'this will never do Mary; speak out. Colonel Max, your wife has no courage.'

"At the word 'courage' my husband's eyes, which had been fixed on me sternly, softened.

" 'She has courage,' he said. His thought had gone back to the hospital.

" 'Oh, Max!' I said, and I began weeping like a criminated child, 'I am really that dreadful woman you disapproved of.'

"Beatrix had gone and I was in my husband's arms. It took us a month to talk the matter out, but after that he became reconciled to the inevitable."

"You lucky woman!" said the inquisitive one, putting her handkerchief to her eyes as the clock struck three in the morning.

Value of the Silo.

This year, when indications point to a comparatively small yield of hay, the value of the corn crop becomes more than ever apparent. With favorable weather from now on and absence of early frosts, it is to be hoped there may be a fair and perhaps an average yield, says, the Massachusetts Ploughman.

Owing to the prolonged drought and its serious effects on the grass crop more than the usual amount of land has been devoted to corn, many farmers adding considerably to their acreage for this reason. With the timely rains and generous cultivation, along with the good corn weather we expect in August, the crop can hardly help making progress and end with a satisfactory harvest.

With a large crop of corn grown principally for fodder the question will be of how to make the most of it. It will be wanted surely, and any methods that may be devised as to its final disposition should be carefully considered.

A Home-Made Remedy.

A good liniment for a rheumatic joint is olive oil and spirits of camphor—about one tablespoonful of camphor to one ounce of olive oil. Lime water, mixed with sweet or linseed oil to a creamy consistency is the best remedy for a scald or burn.

A bottle of lime water is a household necessity. To prepare it, put a lump of quicklime, as big as the fist, in a clean earthen pitcher, cover it with cold water, stir with a wooden spoon and let it stand six hours. Pour off the clear liquid and bottle.

A cow that is heated or worried will not milk well.

Churn cream colder in summer than in winter.

In a good dairy cow the teats should be set well apart and be of good size.

THE LITTLE OLD TOWN.

"McGuffey's New Fifth Reader"—
Found in some dusty nook;
Dog's-eared and worn and tattered,
A yellowed, faded book,
With checkered cotton cover
Of careful stitch and fold,
Let's turn the ragged pages
And see what it may hold.

* * * *

They've raised the school-room window—
My, but the sky is blue!
And there's a pigeon strutting,
With melancholy coo;
And over there a hillside,
Where leafy, spreading trees
Wave arms in useless summons
With every passing breeze.

Off yonder is an orchard—
Don't you catch the perfume
And hear the teacher thank us
For that big bunch of bloom?
The buzzing sounds of study
And writing—can't you hear?
And see where all the bad boys
Have good seats at the rear.

Now, let your head drop slowly
And look away—away—
Straight through the open window,
Through all the miles of day,
Across the sighing meadow,
And down the merry brook,
Which babbles of its travels
Through tempting field and nook.

The old school bell! You hear it?
And don't it bring to you
The lazy early mornings
When flowers dripping dew
Smiled knowingly and flaunted
Their banners in your way?

Ably Defended His Nose.

A saloon- keeper was being tried recently in the Criminal Court on a charge of selling liquor on Sunday, and, strange to say, one of the witnesses against the accused was a man with a fiery red nose, just such a one as comic papers depict as lovers of the "cup that cheers."

The man with the headlight testified against the dispenser of strong drink and swore that he had seen persons entering and leaving the accused's saloon at all hours on the Sabbath.

After he had concluded his evidence the lawyer for the defense endeavored to discredit his testimony, intimating that the witness was prompted by personal enmity against the saloon keeper, calling the attention of the jury to his vermilion-hued proboscis and winding up by asking the witness the direct question if he was not a hard drinker himself.

The witness' countenance borrowed color from his nose as he swelled his chest out with indignation and answered:

"No, sir. My nose is red but not from drinking. I never drink anything stronger than coffee. My nose is simply glowing with pride at never having poked itself into anyone else's business."

The lawyer said he had finished with the witness.

An Apology.

Some years ago there was an old judge on the bench in Berks county, whose decisions, in consequence of numerous reversals, did not always command universal respect. One day, in a case in which he was sitting, one of the lawyers lost patience at his inability to see things in a certain light, and in the heat of the moment remarked that the intellect of the court was so dark a flash of lightning could not penetrate it. For this contempt the judge showed a disposition to be very severe with the offender, and it was only after much persuasion by friends of the latter that he yielded and decided to accept a public apology. The following day the lawyer, accordingly, appeared before his honor and made amends by saying: "I regret very much that I said the intellect of the court was so very dark lightning could not penetrate it. I guess it could. It is a very penetrating thing."

New York's Milk Supply.

A million and a half quarts—that is the amount of milk left daily at back doors, on dumbwaiters, in tenement halls, and milk deposits and corner groceries for the inhabitants of New York. Nothing the city eats or drinks is so generally used as milk; nothing else is so dangerous if carelessly handled. A few gallons of bad milk can do more harm than a regiment of doctors can repair, and scatter disease and death enough to put a whole community in mourning. When one remembers that bad milk is no respector of persons, the campaign against poor milk during the last three years and the constructive efforts to get good milk, become a reason not only for civic pride, but for individual thanksgiving.—From Alice Katharine Fallows's "A City's Campaign for Pure Milk" in the August Century.

The Slaughter Goes On.

The rate at which our railroads are killing and maiming people continues steadily to increase. According to the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission on Railroad Accidents in the United States, within the three months ending March 31st, last, 300 people were killed and 2,834 injured in accidents. Other kinds of accidents, including those sustained by employees while at work, run up the total casualties to 827 killed and 11,481 injured. That these accidents cannot be put down entirely to the fault of the passengers and employees themselves is shown by the fact that during the quarter under consideration, 1,650 trains were in collision and 1,181 trains were derailed.

Rancid butter is often caused from an imperfect separation of the buttermilk.

In all breeds the milk becomes heavier as the milking season is prolonged.

Miss Hawkins—"I think there's a great deal in that notion that people become what they eat."

Barlow—"Well, if they do, you must have eaten venison. You are such a dear little thing."

Miss Hawkins (softly)—"You are not making game of me are you, George?"

An Ohio editor was dismissed from church for singing in a loud voice during the singing of a familiar hymn, the following words: "Let every kindred, every tribe, on this terrestrial ball, put down their dollars and subscribe, and we'll receipt for all."

"It's easy enough to make friends," the dyspeptic growled, "but it's hard to keep them."

"Oh! I don't know," replied the jovial fat man, who was notoriously generous. "I find that all my friends are satisfied to let me keep them."

"Do you know that every time a woman gets angry she adds a new wrinkle to her face?" Wife—"No, I did not, but if it is so, I presume it is a wise provision of nature to let the world know what sort of a husband the woman has."

There is no process by which it is possible to make really bad butter good.

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?

WESTMINSTER, April 10th, 1899.

MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:
Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very trouble some cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough, and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy I ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,
EDWARD LYNCH.

FACTS

Are more stubborn than figures—Buy your FERTILIZERS only from responsible dealers, who guarantee you QUANTITY and QUALITY.

TALK IS CHEAP

Do not be deceived. Nothing is more susceptible to adulteration than Fertilizers, therefore give your orders only to LEGITIMATE DEALERS who pay Licenses and Taxes, thereby lessening your burden, and then only where analysis and weight is guaranteed under forfeiture of bill sold. Only the dealers who are willing to do this are worthy of your trade.

All our brands of FERTILIZERS have Pure Bone Base, the fertilizing properties will not give out during the growing season, as many quick acting articles do, but will mature the crop and leave the soil in an improved condition. All our brands are put up in 167 lb. bags for convenience in handling, unless otherwise ordered.

DISSOLVED S. C. ROCK.

We offer this as a strictly high-grade Rock—guaranteeing 14 to 16 per cent. Available Phos. Acid. The State chemist gives us a commercial value of $18.42 per ton—the highest of any Rock sold in the state. Our sales last year were unprecedented. Can furnish you with the strongest testimonials from the leading farmers of Carroll and Howard counties. Its drilling condition is perfect.

Price, $9.50 Per Ton.

"Special Mixture" for Wheat and Grass.

We ask your special attention to this mixture. This is our sixth season to offer this brand, with increased sales yearly. The cost per acre being so little above S. C. Rock, many farmers are using it instead of Rock, claiming they get a fourth larger yield, and that their land is left in much better condition. We guarantee every ton to contain 800 pound Pure Animal Bone.

Being composed of Dissolved and Raw Material, it is a great favorite, on account of its lasting properties; furnishing an abundance of nourishment and sustenance the time it enters the soil. When your grain is heading, the raw material has become dissolved, and its effects are felt just at the season it is wanted. It is in splendid drilling condition, and highly recommended.

Price, $16.00 Per Ton.

"Monacacy Special."

To those who want a cheaper goods than our "WHEAT and GRASS MIXTURE" we offer "Monacacy Special." This brand, too, has Animal Bone Base, though does not run as high in Ammonia.

Price, $14.00 Per Ton.

Martin's Dissolved Slaughter House Bone.

It is richer in Soluble Phosphoric Acid and Ammonia than any similar article in the market.

Owing to its great solubility, it is easily assimilated and supplies an abundance of nourishment and sustenance for the full development of the growing crops.

It is more reliable in action and more lasting in its effects than Peruvian Guano, yielding a healthful stimulation without any injurious after effects.

Price, $24.00 Per Ton.

Martin's Fine Ground Bone.

Made only of Slaughter House Bones. Contains a larger percentage of Ammonia and Bone Phosphate Lime than any other brand in the market.

We do not steam or bake our bones, or otherwise treat them so as to destroy the animal matter, which is rich in ammonia. Purity guaranteed.

Price, $26.00 Per Ton.
