On Monday morning the one-year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Snook, of Double Pipe Creek, was fatally burned. WEDDING BELLS.

Shriver-Ripple.

The SENTINEL has already had a brief account of the Wedding of Mr. Edward Augustus Shriver and Miss Mary Margaret Ripple, daughter of Dr. J. M. Ripple, all of Waynesboro, Pa., which took place at the home of the bride's parents, on Thursday evening, 22nd ult., an event of great interest to the people of that place generally, and also to many persons in this city and vicinity, on account of the high character of the young people then united in holy wedlock, as well as of the fact that the groom is nearly related to many prominent residents of this city and county, being a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Shriver, of Waynesboro, and a grandson of Mr. Edward Lynch, of this city, and of the late Augustus Shriver, of Farm Content, near Avondale. From an elaborate account of the event published in the Blue Ridge Zephyr, of Waynesboro, we take the following extracts:

The color scheme for the wedding was green and white and the entire lower floor of the house was utilized in carrying out an elaborate decorative.

The impressive ring marriage ceremony of the Roman Catholic Church was used and in the absence of the groom's pastor, Rev. Father McDermat, was performed by Rev. Father McGarry, assistant rector of the Chambersburg charge. The alcove in the large front parlor was the scene of the ceremony. The bride came down the central stairway from the second floor and was met by the groom at the entrance to the parlor. The wedding march from Mendelssohn was played by the Philharmonic Orchestra as the bridal procession entered the parlor in the following order: Pages, Thomas and Donald Shriver, brothers of the groom; bridesmaids and ushers, Miss Corinne Low and J. B. Geiser, Miss Lillie Shively and Arthur Frantz; maid of honor, Miss Daisy Shriver, and best man, Charles DeF. Besore; bride and groom. The pages had stretched white satin ribbons from the parlor entrance to the alcove, forming an aisle through which the bridal party passed.

Rev. Father McGarry awaited them and the attendants formed an open line and the bride and groom passed through and stood for the brief ceremony at the entrance to the alcove, and at its conclusion knelt on white satin cushions to receive the benediction. During the ceremony the orchestra played softly in the rear parlor alcove. Congratulations and best wishes of their many friends were received by Mr. and Mrs. Shriver while standing in the front alcove. This was a picture of rare attractiveness, in its decoration of palms, ferns, smilax and white chrysanthemums while the effect was made much more striking by a number of large candles. The center piece, forming a back ground against the rear wall, was a tapestry, which had been executed by the hand of the bride, and bore testimony to her exceptional talent as an artist.

Full evening dress was worn by the members of the wedding party. The bride's dress was white crepe de chine made over white silk with a trimming of Irish point lace and white veil en train. About her neck she wore a string of pearls that has been in the Shriver family more than fifty years. She carried a boquet of white chrysanthemums. The maid of honor and bridesmaid wore white dresses and carried white chrysanthemums.

The bride and groom are two of Waynesboro's most popular young people. Both have grown up here and by their charm of manner and delightful social qualities have surrounded themselves with a host of friends, who will wish them the greatest measure of success and happiness in the future. Mrs. Shriver is an artist of marked ability, combining with this a talent for music, which she has used to the delight of her many friends in the past few years. She is a graduate of Dickinson Seminary, Willamsport, and both her art and music studies have been pursued at her home, which is filled with the many beautiful productions from her brush.

"The groom is held in the highest esteem by all who know him. For a number of years he was employed with one of our large business firms and for the past few years has been with the Landis Tool company, where he now holds the responsible position as inspector of the work sent out by that company. He has always been prominent in the social life among Waynesboro's young people and his genial manner enables him to make friends readily in any circle.

"A great many handsome presents were received, two especially valued gifts being a gold watch for the groom and a mahogany bed room suit for the bride and groom. One large room is devoted to the display of fine cut glass, silver and china ware and many other presents both handsome and useful.

"Among those who attended the wedding from a distance were: Mrs. J. T. Hering and son, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lynch, and Miss Marie Shriver, Westminster; Miss Betty Shriver, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. R. D. Sefton, Martinsburg."

Mr. and Mrs. Shriver were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Jos. T. Hering, of this city, the latter of whom is Mr. Shriver's aunt, from Saturday till Tuesday last.

A very elaborate luncheon was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Shipley left for Baltimore, Washington and other points South. Upon their return they will reside at Sandyville. Only a few relatives and friends were present. The bride and groom received many useful and valuable presents.

The parlor was beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums and potted plants, while chrysanthemums were used in profusion throughout the home.

Promptly at 3 o'clock, to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, played on the piano by Mrs. Roy Singer, sister of the groom, the bridal party entered the parlor where they were met by the bride's pastor, Rev. The wedding took place in the drawing room of ex-Governor Brown's residence, corner Charles and Read streets, Baltimore, the interior of which was beautifully adorned with palms reaching to the ceiling and with luxurious clusters of white chrysanthemums. A shrine of green embowered the end of the drawing room, where a prie-dieu of snowy chrysanthemums was placed beneath an arch of the same flowers.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward Abbey, of New York, a personal friend and relative of the groom, assisted by Rev. Edwin Barnes Niver, rector of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church, which the bride attended.

The bride entered with her father, by whom she was given away, and was received by Mr. Hughes, attended by Mr. Paul Arthur Sorg, of New York, as best man.

In deference to her fiance's love of violets the bride's costume was wholly confined to that color. The gown was of royal purple chiffon velvet, cut in quaint antique-fashion of 50 years ago, with shirred skirt adorned with wide inserting around the bottom of royal purple silk lace, set in artistic fleur-de-lis. The waist was of crepe-Ninon of the same color, with yoke of silk lace. Carrollton Items.

There was a good number of stay-at-home voters in and around Carrollton on Tuesday. One gentleman it was said was offered six dollars to stay at home, but declined the offer. Others said it was on account of their families whose interest they had to study, that they did not vote. Every man who sells his vote is a mean person, but the man who buys it is a meaner one. At the polling place at Sandyville all was quiet, but there was some incompetency somewhere. Many of the tickets were torn when given to voters. Mr. William P. Blizzard consumed three tickets on this acrount, while Mr. Charles Taylor called the attention of the judge to the fact and stated to all in the room that his ticket was torn. These facts came under the immediate notice of your correspondent and when he was given a ticket by the clerk, he found it was a double one. When he called to the judge and registers in regard to the matter they responded to him "you must not open that ticket here," but your correspondent replied, "I will do it." He then gave the inside ticket to clerk Gist, went to the booth, prepared his ticket and voted. One old gentleman sat in a buggy outside, and said he wanted to vote the whole Republican ticket, but did not know any name on the ticket except Mr. John H. Mitten. An arrangement was made, and he voted. Numbers of Democrats were heard to say, they hoped it was the last time that they would vote such an infamous ticket. Its true as gospel many Democrats voted the Republican ticket at Sandyville polling place.

The bridge spanning the creek from Carrollton Station towards Bethel Church of God is in a dangerous condition. The railing is broken down and lays in the water. It is really bad, both for pedestrians and horses and vehicles. If it not repaired some one may get hurt, and a law-suit might be the result.

The revival service which has been in progress at Wesley Church for two weeks closed on Friday night last with very little success.

The christian endeavor meeting held in Bethel Church of God on Sunday night last was well attended. Miss Oursler had charge of the meeting, while Elder Jeremiah Ebaugh expounded the scriptures.

Mr. Joel Ebaugh, candidate for county treasurer, was confined to his bed two days last week. Dr. Wells said his sickness was of a billious nature. Mr. Ebaugh was so much better that he attended the Republican meeting at Hampstead on Saturday night.

Manchester Items.

Prof. Wm. T. Markland, who died at his home in Baltimore, on the 27th ult., is well remembered by our people, from being closely identified with Irving College in its palmy days. During the years 1859 and 1860 he was its vice-president, and on the death Dr. Diffenbach was made president of the college, and served until its doors were closed, owing to the Civil War, it having been a military as well as an Academic institution. At the time of his death he was principal of Group B, public schools of Baltimore. He was stricken with paralysis while attending to his duties. His remains were laid to rest in Loudoun Park Cemetery at the age of 78 years.

On Thursday afternoon of last week the loud and long ringing of the dinner bill at the home of Mr. Horatio Black, north of town, attracted the attention of the citizens of North Main street, who hurried to ascertain the cause, when they saw the large straw stack all ablaze on the farm of Dr. O. T. Everhart, occupied by Mr. Edward Weaver. The wind was blowing from the West and carried the fire entirely away from the buildings. Mr. Weaver and son were away from home with the team, and only Mrs. Weaver and a four-year-old boy were home. The latter had been playing about the stacks for sometime, and it is thought caused the blaze. Mr. W. heard of the fire south of town and was hurriedly driving along Main street when his son Samuel fell from the lazy board and his head was almost caught by the heavy wheels of the wagon. The loss by the fire was the straw from the threshing of a hundred bushels of wheat.

Hallow e'en on Saturday night was well improved by young America in the throwing of corn, free use of window tappers and carrying off steps, boxes, &c., much to the merriment of the different groups as they plied their work along the street and alleys. But in the morning hours, when the moon was hid a great deal of discreditable work was done by the older gangs which they must enjoy in the recess of self to keep from the grasp of the law. It is said that there was quite a contingent from the country in town to help along the work.

The United Telephone Exchange has very nice quarters in the Trump Building on South Main street. Mrs. Mara Myers has charge of its affairs and is giving the exchange her close attention from 7 A. M. to 9 P. M.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beltz and son, of York, Pa., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shower from Saturday to Monday, when their mother, Mrs. Dr. T. H. Beltz, returned home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Burgoon entertained Mr. Richard Marten and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Burgoon and children, of Cape Horn; Mrs. Horace Garrett, and Mrs. D. H. Hoffacker at dinner, on Sunday.

Miss Irene Osborne, of Baltimore, was entertained by her friend, Miss Ethel Gettier, from Friday till Monday.

Mr. William Panebaker, wife and children, of Sell's Station, visited their aunt, Mrs. A. E. B. Myers, on Saturday, enjoying the night and Sunday with their uncle, Mr. Edwin Rhodes, near Melrose.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hoffman and son, of Hanover, Pa., were guests at the home of Mr. George E. Leese, on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stump, Messrs. Samuel Fuhrman, and McClemis, with the Misses Woolson, of Baltimore, were guests at the home of Mr. Earle Brilhart, on Sunday last.

Miss Lucille Gernand, of Westminster, spent several days among friends in town last week.

Mr. William H. Shower demolished an old land mark last week, by taking down the old machine shop at his foundry, that will give place to one of more modern build.

Mr. H. J. Hoffacker and daughter, of Hanover, visited friends in town on Tuesday.

Mr. Harry Preston is home from Gettysburg College, indisposed from a fall down stairs.

Mr. Charles W. Motter gave the freedom of his home to a company of young folks on Wednesday of last week. As part of the amusement dancing was indulged in, with Mrs. Austin H. Geiselman as organist. Another entertaining feature was given by a graphophone. At a late hour refreshments were served and enjoyed by the company.

On Thursday evening a dance was given at the Hotel de Stick. Music was furnished by the Menchey Brothers.

The beautiful election day brought out a large vote—eight hundred and forty-two out of a registered number of 913. It proved to be an all night count. Precinct 1 counted until 8 A. M.

Rev. S. M. Roeder held communion services in the Lineboro Church on Sunday last which were largely attended. He is suffering from an injured limb that keeps him close to the house.

Mrs. Nelson Young died at her home on York street, on Wednesday evening, of typhoid fever. Her remains were taken to Washington, D. C., to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jones, from where they were buried. She died at the age of 73 years. Mr. Young has been indisposed for a long time and this shock has prostrated him very much.

Mrs. A. E. B. Myers and Mrs. D. L. Dubbs visited Mrs. M's. sister, Mrs. Jacob Mathias, at the home of Mr. P. H. L. Myers and spent a very pleasant day on Thursday.

The Democrats here had a regular lovefeast on Wednesday and a jollification at night. The drum corps serenaded Sheriff Wilson and then headed a procession with horns and bells through the streets, giving vent to their feelings. The square was illuminated with a large bonfire.

Miss Katharine Yourtee was made glad on Sunday by a visit from her father, Mr. Eli Yourtee, and sisters, Miss Edith, of Brownsville, Md., and Mrs. Fahrney, of Frederick.

Mr. Leroy Foltz, a graduate of the class of '92, and Mr. Harry Wagner, of Hagerstown, were visitors at the college on Sunday.

Miss Nellie Fahrney spent from Saturday until Sunday with Miss Rachel Roop, near Westminster.

Mr. Henry Shriver, janitor of the college, met with quite an accident last Monday morning. Mr. Shriver, in making the fire, poured coal oil on his kindling, which suddenly burst into a flame and caught his beard, burning it almost entirely off. He received no other injuries, and was, indeed, fortunate to have escaped that well.

Miss Emma Miller was called home last week on account of the illness of her father. Mr. Bashore was called away also for the same reason. We hope they both will soon be able to return.

Mr. Elmer Smith, a student of last year, returned to the work again this week.

Master Ralph Wine, while playing, fell down a flight of steps, striking his head on a stone and cutting the scalp considerably. Dr. Fair, of this place, rendered the necessary medical aid.
