1783 March 12 Daniel Crommelin to James Crommelin

the least interfear with my determined resolution to be with You as soon as Possible let the Consequence of my making known my situation to J. H. be what it may — My expectations are not quite so sanguin as my Sisters & shall not be in the least Disappointed if nothing more Arises from it than mere Civility — so much for my own Concerns. Which has led me to a Waste thus much concerning myself & should still length en it still much more by making several enquiries concerning Your Affairs & the Conduct of Another Person Who I would wish to for get for ever, however as it is improbable that I shall should get a written Answer to my enquiries whilst in this part of the World shall Postpone them untill I can have them Personally from Yourself, which Those will be in a Short time After this gets to hand — Mr Nich.s Shubey was so kind as to let me know he was in Town & will forward this to you from N. York

I Wrote to Mr Randolph the Other day informing him of my intention of getting out as soon as Possible — He intends writing to you by me, & suppose he will by Shubey as he goes from Bristol to N. York —

Inclosed is a Letter from Fanny therefore shall say nothing concerning them — she will speak for herself — Mrs Dulany Desires her Affectionate Loves to you & Mr Chester — She is a Charming Woman I am much indebted to her for her kind, I may say Affectionate regard for me which she has Testified by every Attention on that she ~~could Possibly entertain~~ ~~towards~~ Possibly could embrace — the Most generous a Wife they Desire to be Remembered to you & family — I know I believe it is high time for me Also To beg of Mr Chester to Accept of my sin
