While peeling and slicing potatoes on Monday moring Mrs. Allen Franklin, a worthy colored woman on Charles street, this city, halved one of the tubers, in the centre of which a slight vacuum appeared in the exact form of a perfect cross. The vegetable curiosity was exhibited in this office by Elias Cole.

Many persons from this city and county and from the counties of Frederick and Washington, in this State, and Adams, Franklin and York in Pennsylvania went to Baltimore over the Western Maryland Railroad, the early days of this week, to see the awe-inspiring sight of a large section of a great city going down before the relentless flames of a mighty conflagration.

Mr. Levi Barnes, who is conducting the Bonsack farm, near this city, left at the SENTINEL office, on Wednesday, two hen's eggs, one of which measures 6 by 8 inches in circumference and the other 6¼ by 7¼ inches. They are double eggs, which accounts for their large size. They were laid by a young Plymouth Rock hen, which, strange to say, lays no other kind of eggs, but, during the past three or four weeks, has produced one of them nearly every day. Mr. Barnes has also among his flock several other Plymouth Rock hens which lay double eggs occasionally and he has gathered as many as three of them in a single day.

Numbers of persons from this city who held positions in Baltimore have been thrown out of employment by the great fire.

Carrie Barnhart and Nettie Frisby, two colored girls of this city, were committed to the House of Correction for six months, on the charge of being habitually disorderly, by Justice Wm. Moore, on Wednesday last. Charles Groft at the same time entered a plea of guilty of disturbing the public peace and was fined $25 and costs. In default of payment he was committed to jail.

We find the following item among the locals in a late number of a Salisbury newspaper: "A notable improvement will be the residence of Dr. G. W. Todd, who has purchased the Brewington property adjoining the Salisbury National Bank, on Main street. The residence will be three stories high, red sand brick, with brown stone trimmings being the special feature of the facade. The building will be erected from the plan of architect, Paul Reese, and under his supervision. William Booth is the contractor. Work will be started at once." The architect referred to is Mr. Paul Reese, of this city.

The funeral services of the late Jacob Thomson, of this city, were held at Grace Lutheran Church on Sunday afternoon, and were attended by so many people that numbers of persons were unable to find even standing room inside the doors and remained in front of the church until the services were concluded. The members of Westminster Lodge No. 41, I. O. M.; Washington Camp No. 5, P. O. S. of A., and the Westminster Fire Department, of which the deceased was an honorary member, were present as organizations. The services were conducted by Rev. P. H. Miller, D. D., assisted by Rev. Buckingham and John H. Gerke.

February Term of Circuit Court.

The February term of the Circuit Court began on Monday last, but the only business transacted was the appointment of bailiffs and the adoption of a resolution of sympathy with the City of Baltimore in the great calamity which has fallen upon it. The bailiffs named for the term are: To the jury, Phineas A. Gorsuch; at the gates, James Boylan and Amos Hamilton. The resolution, which is self-explanatory, was transmitted to Mayor McLane, of Baltimore, in the following terms, by Judge Wm. H. Thomas:

Hon. Robert M. McLane, Mayor of Baltimore City. I send you the following message, as expressive of the sympathy and deep interest of our community:

A Pressing Need of our Firemen.

MR. EDITOR:—I have observed in a Baltimore afternoon paper that the Westminster firemen, who went to the former place on Sunday night to aid in fighting the great fire by which it was more than decimated, stood up to their knees in the icy waters of the falls, while they saved the Baltimore street bridge from destruction. Now, I happen to know that only some of them were provided with rubber boots and that the others had on only ordinary footwear while performing this service, and, consequently, their feet were thoroughly saturated with water. Abou 16 or 18 years ago, from a fund derived from some source unknown to the writer, rubber boots were purchased for the members of the department, but most of them are no longer serviceable, and, I think, new ones should be supplied in their stead.

The firemen furnish their own fire hats, at a cost of about $4 each, and pay monthly dues to keep the organization supplied with means for current expenses, and I think the city authorities should see to it that each man has a serviceable pair of rubber boots. The good work they did in Baltimore, as told by the papers of that city, shows that they form a very efficient and reliable body of volunteer firefighters, and they ought not to be obliged, while they work for nothing, and tax themselves for the privlege, to be burdened with the expense of providing such necessary articles as rubber boots for use on occasions when they afford great protection to their health. The purchase of these articles by our corporate authorities I think would only be a matter of Westminster's Fire Department at the Great Baltimore Fire.

About midnight of Sunday last a startling and prolonged alarm call rang out from the bell of the firemen's building in this city, creating the impression that a fire had broken out here requiring prompt efforts at suppression. Quickly the firemen gathered and it was soon learned that an appeal for help had come from Baltimore. In about half an hour, with such apparatus of the department as could be used, most of the members of the company were on their way by special train to aid in fighting the great fire then raging in the State's metropolis. That they did some effective work is shown by accounts appearing in the Baltimore newspapers. The World of Monday says:

"At 1.30 o'clock this morning firemen of Westminster department stood to their waists in Jones' falls and poured water on the blazing Lombard street bridge over the falls, saving it."

The Sun, at greater length, tells of the successful effort to save Kernan's theatre. It says:

"Kernan's Monumental Theatre was saved from destruction by the gallant work of the Westminster Fire Department. While all the buildings across the falls were totally enveloped in flames, which leaped to the walls of the theatre, the members of the department took a perilous position on the small frame passageway, hanging over the falls, and which leads from the street to the bowling alleys in the rear of the theatre.

"With one stream of water they succeeded in extinguishing the blaze each time it took hold of the theatre. The frame bowling alleys were saved from the flames by the employees of the Monumental, who organized a bucket brigade.

"The saving of the theatre was watched by several hundred persons, among whom were Mr. James L. Kernan, the proprietor of the house, and when the firemen had accomplished their task they received an outburst of applause from the spectators."

The News of the 11th says: The Monumental Theatre, just across Jones' Falls, on East Baltimore street, escaped destruction. It was saved by the volunteer firemen from Westminster, and now stands as a monument to their bravery. The buildings on the west side of the Falls from Baltimore street to the water front were all destroyed.

While it is not intimated it is probable that saving the theatre prevented the destruction of much other valuable property adjacent thereto, and thus arrested the progress of the devouring element, which otherwise might have swept onward over Southeast Baltimore unchecked. But this was not the only good work done by the company. Only a detachment of the organization, under the direction of Chief F. T. Shaeffer, was engaged at the point mentioned. Another detachment, under the supervision of ex-Chief O. D. Gilbert, was stationed on the east side of Lombard street bridge, and not only saved that structure, but confined the fire to a large knee pants and overalls factory next to the bridge on the north side of the street and thus prevented it from spreading to the adjacent residence section, which is occupied, principally, by people in humble circumstances. The firemen at this point worked, as did their comrades of the other detachment, under very great disadvantages. Smoke and sparks from the large storage warehouses in flames on the west side of the Falls, poured in upon them in such dense volumes that they were sometimes in complete darkness and in danger of suffocation. Mr. W. Frank Thomas was overcome by the smoke and heat and fell unconscious, and Mr. Frank M. Stevens had his eyes injured by sparks of fire. They were taken to Engine House No. 6, which was converted into a temporary hospital, and were able to return home on Monday evening. Their injuries were not serious.

The large lumber yards and immense buildings of the National Casket Company on the east side of the Falls, next to the Lombard street bridge, were saved by the Westminster boys, and some of the very humble homes in the neighborhood where this detachment was stationed were on fire, but the flames were suppressed, the homes saved and the progress of the fire arrested by the efforts of our gallant firemen, who deserve all honor for their heroic conduct.

They were really called to Baltimore by the Western Maryland Railroad for the purpose of protecting its property at Hillen Station, but the company, finding the danger not as great as feared, generously released them at the suggestion of Mr. H. G. Clark, its manager, for service at the point of greatest peril. They arrived on the scene just in time to do most effective work. Westminster has just reason to be more proud then ever of her efficient fire organization.

The following letter from Manager Clark to Mr. J. H. Cunningham, a former president of the department, indicates the estimation in which the service it performed is held by those most able to appreciate it:

Western Maryland Railroad Company.
Baltimore, Md., February 9th, 1904,

Mr. J. H. Cunningham, Westminster, Md.

Dear Sir: Mr. Pratt has brought to my attention your letter of 8th inst., and we are pleased to learn of the effective work done by the members of the Westminster Fire Company in the early morning of 8th inst. in saving Kernan's Monumental Theatre and the building of the National Casket Company from destruction and in preventing the fire from spreading on the east side of the Falls near Baltimore street, which we were glad to note in the Baltimore Sun this morning before receiving your letter. We wish to disclaim, however, any credit for the good and efficient work done by the members of your Company. The intelligent manner in which you grasped the situation and handled yourselves at vital points in the line of the fire we are sure will be very gratifying to Baltimoreans when they are aware of the great personal risk you took in doing everything within your power to check the spread of the fire beyond the Falls, and none of us will be able to realize the good you have done until we have recovered from the stupefying effects of the great calamity. We are glad to know that the members of your company escaped without injury and reached home in safety after their splendid efforts.

Yours truly,
H. G. CLARK, Manager.

Several other letters recognizing the good work done by the department have been received by some of the firemen from persons in Baltimore.

Gist Items.

Mr. D. E. McQuay met with what might have been a serious accident while driving a colt to his buggy on Tuesday, on the Klee mill road east of Gist. All went well until the Klee mill hill was reached, at which the road at this time is a solid sheet of ice. Fearing the colt might fall Mr. McQuay got out of the buggy and was leading the animal when it took fright at something and started to run. Mr. McQuay was thrown on the icy road with such force that both of his knees were very badly cut and bruised, but not seriously.

Mr. Samuel Hood and brother Hornsey, of Baltimore, visited Mrs. C. A. Jordan last Sunday.

The reflection of Baltimore's awful fire was seen very plainly here on Sunday night.

WEDDING BELLS.

Brown-Bankard.

Miss Maud E. Bandard, daughter of the late John Bankard, and granddaughter of the late Thomas B. Gist, of this city, and Mr. Charles E. Brown, also of this city, were married at 8.30 last night, at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Brown, at Stonersville. It was a very quiet wedding, only the families of the contracting parties having been present. There were no attendants. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. J. B. Stonesifer, pastor of Carroll charge, Reformed Church.

Snyder-Frankforter.

Miss Lottie B. Frankforter, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Frankforter, of Hampstead, and Mr. Frank B. Snyder were married at the home of the bride's parents on Wednesday afternoon. During the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. S. F. Tholan, of Hampstead charge, Lutheran Church, the bride and groom stood beneath a large floral bell. The bride wore a gown of blue nun's veiling trimmed with lace and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Snyder left on an afternoon train for a wedding trip. The bride's going away gown was snowflake broadcloth, with hat and gloves to match. They will reside in Hampstead.

Stonesifer-Hahn.

The house of Mr. Wesley J. Hahn, near Silver Run, was the scene of a quiet but very interesting wedding on Tuesday afternoon, 9th inst. The bride was Mr. Hahn's daughter, Miss Mary E. Hahn, and the groom Mr. Arthur L. Stonesifer, a well known young business man and skilled musician, of this city. In consequence of the long illness of the bride's mother no invitations to the wedding were issued and only the parents and sisters of the bride were witnesses of the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. J. Stewart Hartman, pastor of St. Mary's Reformed Church, Silver Run. The bride wore a wedding gown of white silk and the groom a suit of black cloth. Mr. and Mrs. Stonesifer took a short wedding trip. They will reside in this city.

Hull-Day.

At noon on Tuesday the neat little Reformed Church at Adamstown, Frederick county, was the scene of a very beautiful wedding which was of much interest to numbers of persons in this city, both the bride and groom being well known here. The groom, Mr. Harry Clay Hull, Jr., is a graduate of Western Maryland College, class of 1902, and the bride, Miss Celeste Day, has frequently visited her friend, Miss Martha I. Schaeffer, who was maid of honor at her wedding. She is a daughter of Mr. R. R. Day, of Adamstown, but her home has always been with her grandmother, Mrs. Mary A. Thomas, of that place, where the numerous guests were very handsomely entertained at a delicious wedding breakfast after the ceremony. At both the house and church the color scheme was violet, the church chancel having also been handsomely decorated with palms; the windows were darkened and the sacred place made brilliant with the light of chandeliers.

The bride wore a magnificent gown of old colonial brocaded white satin, which was the bridal gown of a near relative many years ago. She also wore a tulle veil and carried a large bouquet of white violets. Miss Martha I. Schaeffer, her maid of honor, was beautifully gowned in violet crepe de chine, with hat to match and carried a large bouquet of purple violets. Before the bridal procession entered the church Miss Lucy Eisenhauer, of Frederick, sang "Violets." Mr. Owen W. Compher played the wedding marches. The ushers were: Dr. Joseph Thomas, of Baltimore; Mr. Walter M. Graham, of Westminster; Mr. J. Randall Caton, of Alexandria, Va.; Mr. Bernard W. Thomas, of Adamstown; Dr. Atlee A. Radcliff, Messrs. Thomas L. Zimmerman, Harry J. Kefauvre and Guy K. Motter, of Frederick. Mr. R. H. Lee Reich, of Frederick, was best man. The bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her father, and was met by the groom, attended by his best man, at the altar, where the marriage ceremony was perfermed, with the ring service, and in a very impressive manner, by the pastor, Rev. Atvill Conner. "O, Perfect Love," was sung as a duet by Miss Eisenhaur, and Miss Rosa Birely, of Frederick, with the bride and groom and their attendants kneeling at the altar and presenting a scene that will not soon be forgotten by those who had the privilege and pleasure of witnessing the nuptials. Among those present from this city, were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. L. W. Seabrook, great uncle and aunt of the bride; Mrs. Geo. K. Shaeffer, Misses Martha I. and Nellie Schaeffer.

He was, from his early years, a consistent, earnest and influential member of Deer Park Chapel, Methodist Protestant Church, and a quiet, unostentatious and devoted christian gentleman, in the true sense of that word. It can be said of him that he obeyed the golden rule in all his intercourse with his fellow-men. He was a retired farmer. He leaves a widow and an only daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Greenwood, of Dayton, Ohio. He had other children all of whom, however, are now deceased. A son, Prof. Wm. Winfield Items.

Our creamery man, Mr. H. M. Zile, has placed a fine new boiler in his factory.

Quite a number of our people has been in Baltimore this week viewing the havoc of the terrible fire.

The oyster supper that was to be given by the Academy Board on Tuesday evening, in the Hall, was postponed to Saturday evening, February 27. The cause of the change in date was the inability to procure oysters this week.

To say the program given by the Winfield Literary Society on Friday evening, 5th inst., was a delightful one is to express it mildly. The hall was packed to suffocation, and many were unable to get even standing room. The program contained an excellent variety of numbers, and was considered by many the best free entertainment they had ever attended. The entertainment began promptly at 7.45 with two graphophone selections by Mr. Elias Arnold. Master Walter Sayers, Misses Abbye Shoemaker and Minnie Sayers gave splendid recitations; the male quartette sang a fine selection, and the Elite Orchestra played; Miss Mary Brandenburg rendered a beautiful vocal solo, and Mrs. Margie Hering pleased all with a delightful piano solo, which was encored. Next followed the debate. The question, Resolved, That every man is the architect of his own fortune, was debated affirmatively by Mr. Elmer Bennett and Rev. A. B. Wood, and negatively by Messrs. Albert Easton and Vernon S. Bradley. The arguments were good and much enjoyed. The committee on decision, consisting of Messrs. F. A. Baile, Thos. Farver and Milton Penn, returned a decision in favor of the affirmative. The quartette rendered another selection and the orchestra played. Mr. Arnold then entertained the society twenty minutes with some excellent selections on the graphophone. A rising vote of thanks was tendered those who participated in the program. The program was well rendered, but your correspondent refrains from commenting further than to say it was all very excellent. The society adjourned at 11 o'clock to meet next on Friday evening, February 19, when the following program will be rendered: Debate, Resolved, That education increases happiness; affirmative, Messrs. Harry Streaker, and O. N. Fleming; negative, Messrs. Arthur Zile and Roscoe Aldridge; recitations, Misses Grace Zile, Ella Bowers, Mabel Dorsey and Sara Buckingham. The Elite orchestra will furnish music.

That your correspondent was surprised Thursday evening, 4th inst., is putting it mildly. We had spent the early hours of the evening at several places, with friends in social chat, who were in the secret, but they were quite reticent and guarded in their remarks so that not even a word might be dropped to create a suspicion; even children were threatened with a week's fare on bread and water, if they uttered a word to dispel the secrecy of the affair. About 7.50 a company of 25 or more friends invaded the home and soon had every department to contribute to their evening's pleasure, while pit and flinch were at a high tension. The culinary department was fully taxed in the preparation of the sweets and drink. We arrived home about 8.30 and were ushered into the midst of the hilarity, hardly knowing whether we were on our head or feet and when seized upon by promoters of the surprise it was a question for the moment which limb would be torn from the body first, but after a hearty laugh from all we were soon in the spirit of the merriment that continued until a late hour. Refreshments were served in abundance and much enjoyed by all present. Those of the company were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Showers, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Austin H. Geiselman, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. J. LaMotte, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. J. Everhart, Mrs. Geo. W. Everhart, Mrs. J. M. Motter, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Dubbs, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. N. Gettier, Mrs. J. C. Frankforter, Mrs. A. Morelock, Miss C. M. Masenhimer, Mrs. J. W. Hoffacker, Misses Norma and Ethel Gettier, Masters Charles Miller, Paul Frankforter, and Austin H. Geiselman, Jr.

Through the research of an old P G. it was revealed to the new life of Daniel and Jacob Lodge No. 23, I. O. O. F., that they had five members living that were centennarians and senior centennarians in membership. When practically presented to the members they at once elected to honor them by presenting each of them with a chart, whose face showed the date of his initiation and advancement in the degrees. P. G. John Carl, who is living in Manon, Ind., received his by mail; P. G. Henry Reagle, of North Gilmor street, Baltimore, was presented his in a neat frame; of the presentations to Bros. Denner and Crumrine the readers of the SENTINEL have been informed. On Saturday evening after the close os the lodge, 25 or more members, headed by Marshall J. E. Musselman, marched to the home of P. G. Edward Oursler, where they were warmly received by the hostess and made to feel at home. She regretted that Bro. Oursler was not at home, but a messenger soon had him in the midst of the brotherhood, who extended their congratulations which were warmly received. After the object and pleasure of the occasion was referred to by the committee, P. G. Walter D. Hanson was introduced and, in his usual cheerful mood, stepped forward and presented the brother with a chart nicely framed, which was received with many thanks and regrets that he did not know anything of the visit. The hostess being in the secret, had refreshments of sandwiches, salads, coffee and fruits served in abundance, which were much enjoyed. Social chats followed, when by request the members sang their odes, H. F. Leese at the organ. It proved a pleasant hour to all. Mrs. Oursler was assisted in serving by Mrs. E. J. Crumrine, Miss Missouri Wine, Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Oursler and son Malcolm.

On Friday evening, 5th inst., a company of young folks enjoyed a sledding party to the home of Mr. Jacob Klinefelter, at Glenville, Pa., where they received a warm welcome and enjoyed a pleasant evening, with music, games, dancing, &c. When the refreshment period was announced they were ushered into the dining room where a royal feast awaited them to which their keen appetites, after the long ride, did full justice. The wee small hours were already in sight when home was reached.

The immediate family and friends of Mrs. George W. Everhart went to the home on York street, Monday evening, fully equipped for a good social time as a birthday surprise. The affair was complete in every detail, abundant refreihments were enjoyed and the promoters had every reason to congratulate themselves upon their success. We extend our congratulations and best wishes to Mrs. E. at the 69th milestone, hoping she may enjoy many more anniversary occasions.

Mr. George Yingling died at his home on Sunday last in his 71st year. He had been ailing for more than a year, having periods of extreme illness and then again rallying for a period. His remains were laid away to rest on Wednesday in a family lot; services in the Lutheran Church of which he was a member by Rev. H. H. Flick. He leaves a widow, four sons and three daughters. J. Wink had charge of the funeral.

Monday last was a blue day here. The light from the Baltimore fire, so prominent here, had excited our populace and with the early train already many persons left for the doomed city, while the later trains were crowded. Every business place felt the effect of the outflow so that but little was done for the day. The many friends of Mr. Joseph M. Motter, one of our boys, of the firm of Bottingheimer & Motter, 24 West Baltimore street, millinery goods, were deeply interested as to the outcome, but the flames licked up his splendid spring stock in a few moments, about 2 P. M., Sunday. Mr. M. got into his place but not having the keys to open to his books had to abandon them with all else to their fate.

Several of our huntsmen left with their packs on Saturday morning for a chase. They succeeded in jumping Mr. Reynard from his hiding north of Melrose, and he put up a fine run for some hours, when he hid in a hole near the home of Mr. Theodore Tracy. The pack was brought home and a number of diggers recruited who went to the hole and dug him out, bringing him to the Hotel de Stick, where he is enjoying the best the hotel can furnish, in private apartments, until Saturday when his speed will be tested in a chase.

Dr. John F. B. Weaver's condition took a back turn on Saturday last causing him intense suffering for some hours with gall stone trouble, to which he has been subject for quite a time. At this writing, although much prostrated, he is doing fairly well.

The company of friends who had inaugurated our surprise were the promoters of another one on Tuesday, just as successful. They met at the home of Mrs. M. L. Morelock, on South Main street, at 8 P. M. Mrs. M. had entertained her sister, Mrs. G. W. J. Everhart, to supper and was enjoying a social chat with her and several neighbors, when she answered the door bell and the company rushed upon her with their congratulations and well wishes, as she stood by her 59th milestone. With her usual warm welcome all were ushered in and given the freedom of the house. Being fully equipped they were not long in enjoying the games of the evening. Flinch and pit were quite prominent while all enjoyed the graphophone music by Miss Myrtle Buchman. About 10.30 refreshments of ice cream, cake and fruits were passed and much enjoyed by all. The midnight hour was nearing ere the goodnights were said, all agreeing that the social was not only a surprise to the hostess, but one among the most enjoyable.

Mrs. Clarence Jones and daughter, of Baltimore, are visiting Mrs. J's. parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Greenholtz, the former of whom is convalescing from pneumonia.
