WESTMINSTER, - MARYLAND.

W. L. W. Seabrook, - Editor.

Entered at the Postoffice at Westminster, Md., as Second-class matter.

FRIDAY, APRIL 1, 1904.

A more viciously, partizan legislative body than the present Maryland Senate is a rarity.

The Japanese-Russian war is dragging along, at a slow rate, without any apparent signs of great energy on either side having become public during the past week.

A bill to reduce the number of election judges to three, and a bill to omit the party designation after names on official ballots have passed the Maryland Senate and are now pending in the House. The first named is a measure to promote election frauds and the other to increase the difficulty of voting. Neither bill should pass and, if passed, should be vetoed by the Governor.

The plan for widening and improving the streets of Baltimore, which was passed by the First Branch of the City Council a few days ago, has been changed and amended to such an extent by the Second Branch that a speedy agreement on the subject seems unlikely. In the meantime property owners in the burnt district are unable to begin the work of rebuilding. The Baltimore municipal authorities are in a fair way to earn the contempt of the world by their tardiness in this most pressing matter.

The Baltimore Sun still continues its energetic fight in behalf of the Haman oyster bill, but the chances are that it is a losing fight. The unexpected happens sometimes, however, and as the Sun's strong and intelligent presentation of the reasons why the Haman bill should pass has made a very perceptible impression upon some of the legislative solons at Annapolis, there is a bare possibility that it may be sufficiently effective to bring about proper action in the end. But, whether successful in the fight or not, the Sun has done a good work by acquainting the people with the necessity of leasing the unproductive oyster grounds of the Chesapeake and its tributaries, for planting purposes, if the oyster industry in this State is not to be permitted to become extinct within the next few years.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION.

The bill to submit an amendment to the Constitution of this State to a vote of the people for the purpose of restricting the right of suffrage, which passed the Senate and House of Delegates sometime ago, has not and will not be submitted to the Governor for his approval. It is claimed by the friends of the measure that the Governer's signature to the bill is unnecessary, although that is a new interpretation of the organic law on the subject. Heretofore bills passed to submit amendments to the constitution to the decision of the people, at the ballot-box, have gone to the Governor in the ordinary course of business and he has signed them. It is said that while Mr. Bernard Carter, one of the ablest lawyers in this State, is of the opinion that the signature of the Governor is not required to such a measure to make it effective, Attorney General Bryan holds a decidedly contrary view in the matter. There is, therefore, some danger that the courts, if properly appealed to, may decide that the bill is ineffective.

There is, without doubt, room for a difference of opinion on the subject. The constitution provides that the Governor shall have power to veto every bill which shall have passed the House of Delegates and Senate, but that such bill may be passed over his veto by three-fifths of all the members elected to each House. In the case of amendments to the constitution, however, it requires the vote of "three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two Houses" to pass bills submitting such amendments to a vote of the people. Whether that requirement is sufficient to take such bills out of the category of "every bill which shall have passed the House of Delegates and Senate," is a very nice legal question, and outside of the judiciary of the State is apt to be interpreted according to the prejudices of those who may consider it. Its ultimate decision may, however, be safely left to the Court of Appeals and, if that should be against the legality of the measure, minus the Governor's signature, its friends will only have themselves to blame for the result.

Governor Warfield is opposed to the disfranchising amendment in the shape in which it has been passed. He doesn't believe that the ordinary register of voters is capable of passing upon the sufficiency of the constitutional knowledge of an applicant for registration, and he is credited with believing that a colored man who has capacity and industry to acquire a certain amount of property should not be deprived of a voice in selecting officers of a government which he will be taxed to support. These views were too liberal for the ultraists of the Democratic party and hence the Governor was entirely ignored in the measure agreed upon. He is, without question better than his party.

Sending the bill, containing the disfranchising amendment, directly to the clerk of the Court of Appeals, without submitting it to the Executive for his approval or rejection, was a scheme of the party bosses to withhold from that functionary an opportunity to express his views, officially, concerning it. But the scheme has been defeated by Governor Warfield, who, on Wednesday, sent a special message to the Senate, protesting against the interpretation which withheld from him a prerogative that, he holds, is guaranteed by the constitution. If he shall continue of that opinion he must refuse the publication of the amendment, as the constitution requires, and in that case the initiative to compel such action must be taken by friends of the measure, by applying for a mandamus to compel obedience to the action of the legislature. Those who believe that the bill is ineffective, without the Governor's signature, will not be under the necessity of applying for an injunction to prevent its publication, if he shall continue of the same mind as he holds in his message to the Senate.

The Governor, however, does not confine his message to this feature of the case, but expresses his views of the character of the Poe amendment, adopted by the General Assembly, in no uncertain fashion. On this point he says:

"I have not changed my views on this question since I became Governor, but have become more earnestly in favor of an amendment which will accomplish the results so generally desired. The amendment proposed by the bill passed does not, in my judgment, do this. The educational requirement therein is not conservative or definite, but is vague and uncertain, and is liable to cause grave abuses through the prejudices, the whims and the partisan zeal of the registration officers. Any educational requirement or qualification adopted should be defined in precise terms in the amendment, and thus be placed beyond the power of any election officer to do injustice by partisan or unfair action.

The fundamental right of a citizen to exercise the privileges of suffrage should not depend upon the opinion of any set of election officials as to the reasonableness of his interpretation of any clause of the Constitution. Another class of persons should be given the right of suffrage—those who have a material interest in the welfare of the commonwealth, who pay taxes and thus aid in defraying the expenses of the state and local governments, and whose thrift means so much for the prosperity of the State.

The man who, by his industry, frugality and business judgment, accumulates property and acquires his home should have a voice in the management of public affairs. He can be counted upon as a good, law-abiding citizen.

This property right to register will encourage thrift, industry and the making of good citizens, and will hold out to the uneducated who now have no property and who could not qualify as voters under the amendment proposed a hope of future enfranchisement."

Certainly, Governor Warfield has taken a stand on this branch of the subject in which he should be upheld by the support of all fair-minded citizens, without regard to party affiliation.

SPEAKER EVERHART PLAYS FAIR.

Dr. George Y. Everhart, Speaker of the House of Delegates, who is a native of this city, is a strong Democrat, but on some occasions has shown a very commendable spirit of fairness in his rulings. One of these instances occurred Wednesday when the contested election case of Messrs. Walbach and Smoot, Republicans, of Charles county, came up for final action. Speaker Everhart ruled that both were entitled to their seats. A stormy scene, which is thus described in the correspondence of the Baltimore American, followed this action:

Upon the announcement Mr. Wells sprang to his seat and shouted:

"I want to congratulate Mr. Sydney Mudd on his influence over the Democrats in the Maryland Legislature."

"I want you to understand, sir, that Mr. Mudd has not influenced my vote," indignantly replied Mr. Kerbin, who had voted with the Republicans.

An attempt was then made to proceed with business, but Mr. Wells gave notice that he intended hereafter to demand that every bill be read in full.

"It seems to me," said the Speaker, rapping loudly with his gavel, "that the State of Maryland has sent a lot of small children here instead of competent gentlemen."

"You have not shown so much competence yourself as speaker," shouted Mr. Wells.

"The gentleman from Prince George's will take his seat," yelled the Speaker, and upon Mr. Wells' refusal to do so ordered the sergeant at-arms to seat him.

"It seems to be a habit here," said the Speaker, again pounding with his gavel, "that when some of the members fail to get all they want they threaten to obstruct business. If this is to continue, we might as well quit and go home to our constituents and explain our failure to perform our duty properly."

Mr. Wells, still shaking his fist at the Speaker, cried, angrily: "I'll not be insulted in this manner by you, sir; you have no right to make such remarks from the chair, and I'll call you down for it before the whole State of Maryland."

"You can do as you please, sir," retorted the Speaker.

The House then, in an uproar, at 11.15 P. M., adjourned until 11 A. M. Thursday.

Republicans Carry Hagerstown.

Abraham C. Strite, Republican, was elected mayor of Hagerstown on Monday by 81 majority out of a total vote of 2,489.

He defeated Reinhold J. Halm, Democrat, who has served three terms as mayor and was three times defeated before Monday's election.

William H. Startzman, ex-market inspector, a Democrat, defeated Clifford P. Martin, Republican, for city councilman in Ward 2 by 76 majorty. The great surprise, however, came from Ward 4, a Democratic stronghold that has never before gone Republican. Strite carried the ward by 45 majority, and Ernest W. Miller, Republican, was elected councilman in this ward over Harry G. Ash, Democrat, by 6 majority out of a total vote of 634. A proposition to expend $7,000 for new drains, was carried by a majorty of 860.

Baltimore Annual Conference.

Bishop Foss presides at the one hundred and twentieth session of the Baltimore Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which opened at Fayette Street Church, Baltimore, Rev. J. F. Heisse pastor, on Wednesday morning.

On Tuesday night the Epworth Leaguers of the five district organizations in the conference celebrated the anniversary of the Baltimore Conference branch of the league by a great rally at Fayette Street Church. Rev. Page Milburn presided and Rev. E. T. Mowbray conducted the devotional services. Birdseye views of the work done in the districts in the past year were given by representatives of various departments, and addresses were made by Revs. W. G. McNeil, B. W. Meeks and H. M. Rider.

Blizzards And Floods.

The latter part of last week North Dakota and Montana were visited by one of the worst blizzards of the winter. Railroad traffic was seriously impeded, in some instances the snowdrifts being so deep and dense that the great snow plows, driven by two or three heavy engines, could not break through them, and shoveling had to be resorted to.

In Michigan, Missouri, Illinois and Indiana heavy rainstorms occurred about the same time and a great destruction of property has ensued. Railroads were badly washed. Twenty or more lives were lost and hundreds of people rendered homeless in Michigan towns. The city of Saginaw, near the centre of the State, was threatened with entire destruction.

Mrs. John Tinkler, wife of a prominent farmer residing near Reisterstown, died on Tuesday after a brief illness, of pneumonia, aged 79 years. Mrs Tinkler was a native of England, having come to this country with her husband many years ago. She is survived by her husband and the following children: Mrs. Stanley Slade and Mr. John E. Tinkler, of Woodensburg; Mrs. Geo. E. Ducker, Mr. Charles Tinkler and Miss Hattie Tinkler, of Reisterstown.

Mr. Andrew Harvey, a well-known farmer of Baltimore county, died on Tuesday at his home, near Randallstown. He was born near Elkton, in Cecil county, 78 years ago.

Fourteen girl were killed by an explosion in a squib factory at Priceburg, Pa., near Scranton, on Thursday.

A war of races at St. Charles, Ark., last week, resulted in the killing of thirteen colored men. The colored population of that locality outnumbers the white. It is charged that the colored people were insolent and that bad blood has been engendered between the races. That a fracas occurred on Monday week between two colored men and two white men in which one of the latter was beaten with a club and badly injured. That an attempt to arrest the negroes making the assault was resisted and that, in the effort to accomplish the arrest it became necessary to lynch thirteen colored men who were considered the leaders of the race in that locality. The account of the conflict comes from the side of the whites, of course, but granting that it is made to show the very best cause possible for the wholesale slaughter, it is not difficult to read between the lines that a white mob, in an excess of passion, carried its murderous conduct far beyond the necessity of self-protection.

Mr. Edeson who is widely popular through his success in "Soldiers of Fortune" also from the pen of Mr. Davis has in this new comedy of American Army life greater opportunities than ever previously accorded him. ROBBED THE GRAVE.

A startling incident, is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed, at all drug stores.

MAKES A CLEAN SWEEP.

There's nothing like doing a thing thoroughly. Of all the Salves you ever heard of, Bucklen's Arnica Salve is the best. It sweeps away and cures Burns, Sores, Bruises, Cuts, Boils, Ulcers, Skin Eruptions and Piles. It's only 25c, and guaranteed to give satisfaction by all Druggists.

A THOUGHTFUL MAN.

THE MILLER BROS. CO.

The First Spring Blossoms

Are those that bloom in the Dress Goods Section of the fashionable shops. And truly, so charmingly has art succeeded in imitating nature, that it is no easy matter to choose between the two in texture and coloring. Fashion never lacks in charms for feminity at any period of the year, but if one time be more beguiling than another it is when the dainty Spring and Summer Fabrics fill the stores, bringing visions of beautiful Gowns. Our Store is a lovely garden spot just now, with so many exquisite things in that it would take hours of time and pages of space to describe them.

COME AND SEE.

Our opening was a grand success in every Department,

Millinery, Ladies' Suits, Dress Goods, Men's and Boys Clothing, and so on through the store; everything being favorably commented upon, the coming in for more than their share. A number of times the expression was heard that there never was before such a Handsome Display of Millinery and Dress Goods in this city.

☞ Throughout the season we will continue to show the the newest and best of everything to wear, for Men, Ladies and Children.
