Entered at the Postoffice at Westminster, Md., as Second-class matter.

FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 1904.

Reports from the seat of war indicate that the Japanese are making vigorous efforts to capture Port Arthur. From Chinese sources it is reported that there had been four days of hard fighting around the beleagured stronghold and that the real attack on the place is begun. It is also reported that Gen. Kuropatkin is sending an army to the relief of Port Arthur. This does not, however, seem credible, as his forces are confronted by a powerful Japanese army and, apparently, would expose a relieving corps to attack in the rear.

INCONSISTENCIES AND GLITTERING GENERALITIES.

The Democratic party has, professedly, always been opposed to a protective tariff and has, on more than one occasion, reiterated that opposition in its national platforms. Now, according to reliable authority, it contemplates embodying in its platform for 1904 a plank in favor of such tariff revision as will protect American industries and labor. The doctrine enunciated in the resolutions adopted at the late State convention of the Democrats of Maryland is, it is said, to be closely followed by the national convention. In those resolutions the Maryland Democrats declared that the party "will revise the tariff in a conservative spirit of fairness to all interests," and that "its anxious purpose will be to legislate with such a due regard for the labor and capital involved in our industrial enterprises as to promote their healthy growth and to carefully guard against the infliction of injury upon established industries by abrupt, unjust and radical measures."

In this declaration we have the doctrine of protection, pure and simple. It is precisely the doctrine for which the Republican party has always contended and for which it now stands. Its adoption by a Democratic convention is a glaring inconsistency and should not be accepted as a sincere utterance by the people of the country. No doubt it is honestly held by Mr. Gorman, who is said to be the author of the language quoted above. But it is not the doctrine of the Democratic party, though it may be accepted temporarily as a means of promoting Democratic success at the election in November.

Sixty years ago, in the campaign of 1844, a Democratic slogan was: "Polk, Dallas and the tariff of 1842." The tariff of 1842 was a protective measure, adopted by the Whigs and had delivered the country from a condition of serious adversity, just as the Dingley tariff, in 1897, brought back the prosperity which had been destroyed by the Gorman-Wilson bill during Mr. Cleveland's second administration. The people, in 1844, accepted the declaration of the Democrats and elected a Democratic President and Congress, to find themselves betrayed and a tariff for revenue only enacted in 1846. This experience should lead them to "fight shy" of any Democratic utterance favorable to the principle of protection. The declaration of a purpose to favor protection, made by a Democratic convention, may be safely regarded as a delusion and a snare.

Another declaration of the Maryland resolutions is that "odious and powerful monopolies may expect reduction of the excessive rates under which they have been enabled to extort excessive tribute from the people." This is nothing more than a glittering generality, without real meaning or definite intention. It is a custom of the Democrats to inveigh and resolve, very savagely, against trusts, but, when pressed to designate them, to take refuge in the general assumption that they are fostered by the existing tariff law, without specifically pointing out the trusts thus created and promoted. The party goes before the people upon a theory only and with the promise of indulging in an experiment that may prove more disastrous than the evil against which it is aimed. The real remedy for odious monopolies cannot be effectively applied, in all cases, because the powers of the Federal Government are restricted by constitutional limitations. The Republican party not only promises but practically enforces an anti-trust policy in cases where the authority to do so is found in the national constitution, as was the case in the recent decision of the Supreme Court by which the Northern Securities Company was declared an unlawful organization. That was specific and practical action and in strong contrast with the indefinite vaporing of the Maryland Democratic deliverance on the subject. It would be much more to the purpose to confer upon the General Government, by constitutional amendment, authority to deal with and dissolve all real monopolies, after due process and fair inquiry. Possessed of such authority the government would soon demonstrate its ability—at least under a Republican administration—to suppress and dissolve all oppressive and unlawful trusts and monopolies. But the promises of Democratic politicians, based upon an unsound theory and a general assumption, amounts to nothing of value in dealing with such trusts, and the people will be fooled in 1904, as they were in 1892, if they shall place sufficient confidence in such promises as to invest the Democratic party with the administration of the Federal Government.

Washington and Frederick counties in this State, and Adams county, Pa., were visited by severe thunder storms the latter part of last week and the first of this. Heavy rains fell and high winds, bordering on tornadoes, accompanied some of the storms, doing much damage to property. In the neighborhood of Keedysville, Washington county, most of the growing fruit, of all kinds, was whipped from the trees by the fierce winds. Shildt's school house in Union township, Adams county, was struck by lightning and burned. On Monday night several barns in Adams county were blown down and fruit trees were damaged. St. Bartholomew's Church in Manheim township, York county, near the Adams county line, was struck by lightning and destroyed. Daniel H. Wertz's barn, in the same township, was destroyed by fire caused by lightning.

The convention of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, in session at Cumberland, this week, adjourned Thursday morning, after electing William G. Kerbin, of Snow Hill, president and selecting Hagerstown as the place for the next meeting, the second week in June, 1905.

A Fearful Crime in Colorado.

For some time past the mining region of Colorado has been disturbed by labor troubles. Striking union miners have resented the efforts of mine owners to carry on their mining operations with non-union labor and much rioting has occurred, with violent efforts on the part of the strikers to prevent the success of the plan. These troubles culminated on Monday in a dastardly and successful attempt to destroy the lives of non-union miners by wholesale. An infernal machine, supposed to have contained 300 pounds of dynamite, was placed under the platform of the railroad station at Independence, Col., and exploded when 25 or 30 of the men employed on the night shift of the Findley mine reached the station to take the cars for their homes. Twelve of the men were killed outright and seven severely injured, some of them fatally. Three of the injured died on Tuesday. The bodies of some of those who were killed were torn to pieces by the force of the terrible explosion. Heads, hands, ears and dismembered bodies were strewn about on all sides and pieces of flesh were found on buildings 500 feet away, while everything within a radius of 50 feet was spattered with blood.

The explosion blew the platform into splinters, wrecked the station building and tore a pit 20 feet in circumference and 20 feet deep in the ground. The bodies of several of the victims fell into the pit. The dynamite was exploded by firing a revolver, to the trigger of which a wire was attached and carried to a point 400 feet distant from the station. The revolver was fastened so that the pulling of the trigger would not draw it away. After the explosion a man was seen running away from the vicinity and bloodhounds were sent for to trail him.

The tragedy has aroused a feeling of deep resentment toward the striking union miners and will probably result in such action on the part of the authorities as will restrain further deeds of violence. Whatever may have been the nature of the grievances which led to the strike, and however deep the public sympathy for the strikers in their contest with the mine owners, this dastardly crime will serve to unify the sentiment of all right thinking people against those who give countenance to wholesale assassinations as a means of overawing men willing to labor at the wages offered by their employers.

At Victor, Colorado, Monday afternoon, while a mass meeting to discuss the Independence tragedy was being held, a riot occurred and many shots were fired. One man was killed and a number seriously wounded. A tendency on the part of the militia force of Colorado to persecute union miners, since the crime at Independence, is being manifested and further violence may be apprehended.

Western Maryland Railroad Entitled to Cross Canal.

Among the decisions rendered by the Court of Appeals on Wednesday was one sustaining the right of the Western Maryland to condemn right of way over the Chesapeake and Ohio canal. Judge Schmucker delivered the opinion, which affirms the decision of the lower court in granting permission to the Western Maryland Railroad Company to construct bridges across the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.

It is held that the railroad company was not only authorized by the Act of 1902, chapter 129, to extend its railroad facilities to the coal fields of Western Maryland, but it was required to do so; that the railroad company properly appealed to the Board of Public Works, under Section 177, Article 23 of the Code, for the approval of its plans for bridges, and the proceedings before that body were free from error; that there was no requirement that the lower court should have gone into the question of the nature of the plans for the proposed bridges, and the effect of the action of the lower court was to put the appellees in a position where they could now proceed to condemn a right to cross the canal at the designated places. If it then appears that the constructions under the dondemnation proceedings are such as to improperly interfere with the workings of the canal, then an appeal will lie to this court from the order of ratification of the lower court.

George R. Gaither, Esq., has been elected by the Second Branch of the Baltimore City Council president of that body, to succeed President Timanus, who has becnme mayor of Baltimore by the death of Mayor McLane. Mr. Gaither is widely known in this county, having frequently delighted large audiences in this city and elsewhere in the county by his eloquent and forcible speeches in favor of the Republican party and its principles.

Attorney General Philander C. Knox, it is said, is to be appointed United States Senator from Pennsylvania, as the successor of the late Senator Quay.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Winfield Academy.

The Academy year closed June 8. On Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, June 7 and 8, two excellent entertainments were given. The following program wss rendered Tuesday evening: vocal solo, Mrs. Iven Sayers; From Punkin Ridge, a play, with Messrs. John Barnes, Erman Shoemaker, Wm. Hughes, Roscoe Aldridge, Arthur Zile and Misses Susie Caples, Belle Cecil and Mabel Dorsey as characters; piano solo, Miss Margaret Stem; recitation, Miss Lura Buckingham; vocal solo, Mr. Robert Brandenburg; The Dairy Maids, Drill, with the following girls as characters: Mary Houck (leader), Virgie Lindsay, Addie Barnes, Belle Cecil, Lura Buckingham; vocal solo, Mr. Arthur Zile. The Elite Orchestra assisted with music, with the following members present: Mr. Geo. W. Grimes, violin, leader; Miss Carrie Shoemaker, 2nd violin; Mr. George Grimes, cornet; Miss Abbye Shoemaker, autoharp; Messrs. Arthur Zile and Erman Shoemaker, guitars; Miss Mattie Shoemaker, piano accompanist.

The above program was considered good, but the one on Wednesday evening was decidedly better. On this evening the same orchestra was present, with the addition of Rev. G. F. Watson, cornet, and Dr. E. D. Cronk. The orchestra furnished as good music as was ever given in our hall. The program follows: Let Love But Hold the Key, a play, with the following persons as characters: Messrs. Erman Shoemaker, William Hughes and Misses Mary Houck and Addie Barnes; vocal solo, Mr. Arthur M. Zile; vocal duet, Misses Mabel Dorsey and Mary Houck; recitation, Miss Lura Buckingham; vocal solo, Miss Mabel Dorsey; Coon Creek Courtships, Miss Mabel Dorsey and Mr. Erman Shoemaker (in black face;) vocal solo, Miss Mary Houck; presentation of medals, by the principal of the academy. The gold medal offered by the principal to the best all-around scholar of the year was awarded to Mr. Grover A. Stem, with Miss Susie Caples a close second for the honor. The gold medal offered by the academy board to the student doing the best work in public speaking was awarded to to Erman Shoemaker, whose marks were slightly higher than those of Miss Lura Buckingham and Mr. William Hughes. In presenting the medal, the teacher, Mr. Vernon S. Bradley, took occasion to review the work of the year and comment on the pleasant relations the Academy Board, the school, the teachers, and the community bore to one another.

The Shoemaker Orchestra, Mr. Arthur Zile, Mrs. Iven Sayers and Mrs. Samuel Bair were especially thanked for the assistance they have rendered the school. Rev. G. F. Watson spoke briefly of the pleasant relation that has existed between Academy Board and teacher, and, in behalf of the Board, presented the teacher with an envelope containing an imposing bank note.

The above program was good throughout. The numbers we would especially commend were the duet by Misses Mary Houck and Mabel Dorsey, the recitation by Miss Lura Buckingham, and the Coon Creek Courtship by Miss Mabel Dorsey and Mr. Erman Shoemaker. The orchestra was charming.

The academy has been successful this year, and the prospect for next year is encouraging. Mr. Vernon S. Bradley, who has been principal of the academy for two years past, leaves the work to pursue a course in law at the Maryland University.

The Academy Board feels indebted to the AMERICAN SENTINEL for the interest the paper has manifested in, and the assistance it has rendered to, the Academy.

She has bid us all adieu;
She has gone to live in heaven,
And her face is lost to view.

Oh, my mother, how I loved her!
Oh, how hard to give her up!
But an angel came down for her
And removed her from our home.

Through all pain at times she'd smile,
A smile of Heavenly birth;
And when the angels called her home,
She smiled farewell to earth.

By her daughter, L. S. Little.

IN MEMORIAM.

"Gone but not forgotten."

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear father, Henry G. Mitten, who departed this life 12 years ago, June 12th, 1892.

Time may pass and years may fly,
And every hope decay and die,
And every peaceful dream may set,
But my dear father I cannot forget.

There is a grief that cannot find comfort,
And wounds that cannot be healed,
And the sorrow too deep, too deep in my heart.
That cannot half be revealed.

Twelve years have come and gone,
Since we were forced to part,
But time and space cannot efface,
Thy memory from my heart.

By his daughter, Mrs. K. J. Tase.
