1787 SEPT 3

SIDE TWO

be the case, it will give me a strong hope he is once more in the right road, & will not deviate from it — & it may still be in his power some time or other, to make even your amends for have suffered so longe by him — The writes as if sensible of his errors, & determined to avoid such again — They say example goes farther than precept — if so — yours may in time have a powerfull effect upon him, I trust has allready —

Mr Ben joins me in affectionate remembrances to Mrs Chester & the Children — ~~the~~ they will scarcely forgive me for calling them so now — but time flies so fast, one can scarce bear in mind the number of years that are past since they really were so — God bless you my Dear Brother

I believe me most truly
Your Most Affectionate Sister
F A Bensley

Mr Ben sends you every good wish —

London Septr 3^d — 1787