SIDE TWO

I rejoice to hear of the good state of Health of yourself & family, long may it continue my Dear Brother, & everything from this time succeed to your wish, The plan of life you are now going to persue will surely be less liable to failures, & great disapointments - than that you have hitherto been engaged in - as for Daniel, I never think of him but with a pang - I have from time to time been sangaine, & hoped the strong sence of error he seemed to feel, & the many inconveniences he must necessarily ~~must~~ have suffered, would at last work a reformation & open his eyes to the only road, that could procure happiness to himself, or respect from the World - The last letter I recieved from him was full of Contrition & fair promises, However now on his own head only, will his indiscretions fall & trust - & when they have once been heavy, it perhaps may work a cure - at least I will hope so - I am Brother in a hurry as my time is just now a good ing rapid by the Rebels who are in Town for a fortnight at their Vacation & are chiefly with me - they all desire to be Affectionately remembered to you & yours — The Chesters are allso well, & never fail to remember you, & allways regret not seeing you when in England God Bless you my Dear Brother & rely on the Constant good Wishes of Your ever Affectionate

Sister F.A.B.

Mr Ben desires to be remembered to you & yours —
