low's wife, and when the young couple returned from a two years' sojourn in Europe, where Rachel had had every advantage of cultivation which money could secure for her, society received her cordially, and Helena often had the chagrin of finding herself eclipsed by the beautiful woman whom she invarably took pains to designate as "that fisherman's daughter!"

THE PRESIDENTIAL OUTLOOK.

[From the Philadelphia Press.]

The presidential tickets are named. The lines of battle are drawn. What is the outlook? It is too early to measure all the influences and effects, but a preliminary survey can be made. If we cannot yet tell the final alignment of all the states we can see where the contest is likely to be fought and form an intelligent judgment of the respective chances.

The electoral college now consists of 476 votes, and it takes 239 to elect. The Democratic party, or Parker and Davis, start confessedly with the solid South, which has 151 votes, as follows:

THE DEMOCRATIC STATES.

Alabama	11
Arkansas	9
Florida	5
Georgia	13
Kentucky	13
Louisiana	9
Mississippi	10
Missouri	18
North Carolina	12
South Carolina	9
Tennessee	12
Texas	18
Virginia	12
Total	151

This is 88 votes short of the number necessary to elect. Where are Parker and Davis to secure the 88? They must come from the doubtful states. Let us be liberal in making up the doubtful list. Put new York at the head. Concede Maryland, and include even West Virginia, as the home of ex-Senator Davis, though there is every reason to believe West Virginia will go Republican, as she has done for 12 years. Count in Wisconsin on account of the Republican factional quarrel, though Wisconsin is overwhelmingly Republican on the presidency. Allow Colorado, Idaho, Montana and Nevada, though two of these states are morally certain to be Republican, and probably all. Here, then, is the doubtful list:

THE DOUBTFUL STATES.

Colorado	5
Idaho	3
Maryland	8
Montana	3
New York	39
Nevada	3
West Virginia	7
Wisconsin	13
Total	81

Here are but 81 votes altogether, when Parker and Davis must have 88 besides the solid South to be elected. They must, therefore, in order to win, carry all of the doubtful states and gain seven votes more from what may fairly be called the sure Republican states, as follows:

THE REPUBLICAN STATES.

California	10
Connecticut	7
Delaware	3
Illinois	27
Indiana	15
Iowa	13
Kansas	10
Maine	6
Massachusetts	16
Michigan	14
Minnesota	11
Nebraska	8
New Hampshire	4
New Jersey	12
North Dakota	4
Ohio	23
Oregon	4
Pennsylvania	34
Rhode Island	4
South Dakota	4
Utah	3
Vermont	4
Washington	5
Wyoming	3
Total	244

This shows five votes more than enough to elect Roosevelt and Fairbanks, without allowing a single vote from what might have been called the doubtful states. If Parker should carry all the doubtful states he would be seven votes short. If Roosevelt should carry all the doubtful states he would have 325 votes, or 89 more than enough.

In order to hold out some hope the Democrats claim New Jersey and Connecticut. There is no ground for claiming either. New Jersey has now for many years been steadily Republican. In 1900 she gave McKinley 56,899 majority, and in an off year she elected Murphy governor by 17,133. Conneticut is equally steadfast. She gave Mckinley 28,570 majority and in 1902 elected a Republican governor by 16,008. There is no reasonable prospect that either New Jersey or Conneticut will pass out of the Republican column.

But, in order to pursue the matter to the last annalysis, suppose that New Jesey should go Democratic. That would give Parker, with all the doubtful states, only five excess, and if West Virginia alone should remain Republican, or Idaho and Montana alone, his majority would be lost. Suppose that New Jersey and Conneticut should both go Democratic. That would give Parker only 12 excess, and if Wisconsin alone of the so-called doubtful states should remain Republican, that would wipe out his majority. So would West Virginia, Idaho and Montana together. So would the Rocky Mountain States alone, without either west Virginia or Wisconsin.

In all this calculation New York has been treated as doubtful, with Democratic chances. This has been done to be on the safe side. But there is more reason to count New York as Republican. Without New York there is no possible combination that can spell Democratic success. Even with New York, all the other doubtful states and one or more morally sure Republican states must be carried to elect Parker.

To put it in another way, and at the worst, conceding that New Jersey and Connecticut are doubtful, as well as New York—and we do not concede it—the Republicans would have only 14 votes to gain, while the Democrats would have 88 votes to gain. The chances would thus be decisively on the Republican side.

Remedy for Colic.

While veterinarians recognize several kinds of colic, the one most prevalent is that which results from some form of indigestion. One of the best formulas for this kind of colic is ounce doses of aromatic spirits of ammonia well diluted. Another form of colic comes from impaction of the bowels, which is indicated by excessive constipation. The recognized remedy for this is to make pills of one ounce of powdered nux vomica with two ounces of carbonate of ammonia, following the dose with a half pound of glauber salts as a purgative. A horse subject to colic of any nature must be handled with exceeding care. It must be kept free from sudden colds, given properly ripened grains and its bowels kept in a proper condition. Sudden changes of diet are bad for horses subject to colic, yet there must be considerable variety in their rations, the change being made gradually. Horses subject to colic should be carefully blanketed when resting after being well warmed, regardless of the weather, and especially if they are taken to a shady place or from the fields to the stable that is ventilated by opposite doors or windows.

What they Said.

Penelope—Charley called last night.

Justine—That's twice in a week, isn't it?

Penelope—Yes.

Justine—I suppose he'll come three times next week.

Penelope—That's what my brother says.

Justine—And five times the next?

Pedelope—That's what my sister says.

Justine—And six times the next?

Penelope—That's what aunty says.

Justine—And seven times the next?

Penelope—That's what my papa says.

Justine—And then what?

Penelope—Then we'll get married; that's what everybody says.

Justine—And then what?

Penelope—Then I shan't see him any more of an evening; that's what mama says.

A Kindly Heart.

The tenderest heart may exist in spite of the roughest exterior. A little fox terrier had been left outside a Boston store by its owner. Evidently the dog had not been long in the city, for it trembled at fright at being out of the protecting presence of its master. As it lay crouching in the doorway a huge laborer came along. Reaching down pityingly he stroked the wee animal, speaking a few soothing words at the same time. The result was that the fear in the dog's heart subsided. It wagged its tail knowingly and licked the kind-hearted man's hand. When it was left alone it sat up bravely, as though feeling assured that human beings would do him no harm.

Grace—Cheer up, George, money won't buy everything.

George—But if we had lots of money we could buy things that would console us for the things money won't buy.

Very Anxious.

"By the way, Senator," said an anxious Capitol employee to Senator Allison, "when do you think Congress will adjourn?"

"I can't say," the Iowan replied.

"But it will adjourn soon, won't it?"

"As to that," the Senator replied, "I am reminded of the story of the man who went out riding and was caught in a rainstorm. He didn't know whether to go on or seek shelter, and he applied to a farmer, who was plodding along the road. 'My good man,' he said, 'do you think it is likely to stop raining?'

"'Well,' said the farmer, 'it always has.'"

Why Boys Should Learn.

Every boy should learn—
To be kind to all amimals.
To ride, row and swim.
To do carpenter work.
To bring up coal and chop wood.
To shut doors without slamming.
To treat his sisters courteously.
To wash dishes and make his own bed.
To keep his books and other possessions in order.
To expect no waiting on from mother or sisters.

"Great guns!" exclaimed the absentminded man. "I have stuck the lighted end of this cigar in my mouth." "How fortunate you were in discovering it at once, dear," rejoined his good wife.

"I thought she was determined never to marry any man whose ancestors had not come over in the Mayflower."

"Yes, but she changed her mind when she met this fellow whose ancestors went to California in a prairie schooner."

A sentry, an Irishman, was on post duty for the first time at night, when the officer of the day approached.

He called, "Who comes there?"

"Officer of the day," was the reply.

"Then what are yez doin' out at night?" asked the sentry.

The man to pick out to appreciate the joke you want to tell him is the fellow who is waiting to borrow $5 from you when you get through telling it.

He (smilingly)—You remind me of an old friend of mine. She—(haughtily)—Indeed! How old please?
