Republican Ticket.

For President,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT,
of New York.

For Vice-President,
CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS, of Indiana.

"The Democratic platform is fit only for a dishonest party," said Mr. Bryan. Well, it fits, doesn't it?

The Republicans declared for the gold standard from conviction. The Democrats omitted the money plank from fear,

The St. Louis convention served one purpose in showing that the Democrats never accept Republican principles until they are about eight years old.

Voters would pay more attention to Democratic promises for the future if they were not so closely linked on the lips with apologies for the past.

Western Democrats assert that they are not satisfied with the political character of their vice presidential nominee. His financial character, however, is all right.

It is reported that the Goulds are making an effort to purchase the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal for the purpose of constructing a railway on its line to Washington.

One thing must be said in Judge Parker's favor. He thinks so well of the Republican gold standard policy that he has recommended it to a party he knows does not believe in it and is not honest in claiming to do so.

M. Von Plehve, the Russian minister of the interior and chief adviser of the Czar, was assassinated in St. Petersburg yesterday. While he was driving a bomb was thrown into his carriage and exploded with terrific force. Minister Von Plehve and his coachman were instantly killed and fifteen or twenty people in the vicinity were wounded, some of them dangerously. The bomb struck the hind wheel of the carriage and tore the vehicle to pieces. The assassin has not been identified.

The average Democrat must be puzzled to tell "where he is at." His national convention enunciates a set of principles and then nominates candidates who deliberately repudiate them. Judge Parker says the currency question is settled in favor of the gold standard, but the convention, by a unanimous vote, refused to sanction such a declaration and hosts of Democrats say it is not true. The convention denounces tariff protection as robbery, but Mr. Davis does not agree with that declaration, and has no sympathy for the denunciation of trusts. He thinks trusts are not as reprehensible as they were pictured by the convention which nominated him. No Democratic voter can tell what he is voting for when he casts his ballot for the nominees of his party.

THE PHILIPPINES SHOULD BE HELD.

The Democrats, if they were correctly represented by their delegates in the St. Louis convention, want to surrender the Philippine Islands to the control of the Filipinos. Such action at the present time, and probably for many years to come, would be a monumental crime. There are Filipinos, no doubt, who are fit for self-government, but, evidently, most of the inhabitants of the Philippines are almost entirely lacking in the qualities and training essential to such a state. Under the system of schools established by the United States, and with the example being set by the benign and just government established for their benefit by this country, they may, in time, reach a condition in which they will be able to manage their internal affairs and repel invasion. But to invest them now with the responsibilities of independent government would be to make them a prey to the aggressive powers of Europe and to sacrifice all the commercial advantages gained to this country by their possession.

All nations recognize the validity of America's title to the islands and will respect that title. But if our sovereignty be voluntarily withdrawn and Philippine independence recognized, other nations would probably deem it their duty to take possession and maintain order for the good of the whole. The Phillippines must be held if this country is to discharge the sacred trust and obligation involved in their acquisition.

MAKING TROUBLE.

Russian naval officers appear to be deficient in knowledge of the rights of neutral ships in time of war and are making no end of trouble for their government, besides piling up a bill of damages mounting up into many millions, which Russia must pay. The steamers Smolensk and St. Petersburg, which passed through the Dardanelles and the Suez canal as merchantmen and were converted into warships in the Red sea, have made numerous seizures which, it is understood, cannot be sustained. In fact the Russian government has ordered the release of the vessels captured by the ships named.

The most glaring violation of the rights of neutrals, however, occurred on Saturday last, when what is known as Russia's Vladivostock squadron captured the English ship Knight Commander off the coast of Japan and, after removing her crew, fired upon and sunk her. The Knight Commander was bound from America for Yokohama, Japan, and contained among her freight a lot of bridge and railroad iron, consigned to private parties. This may have been properly regarded as contraband of war, but the decision of that question should have been left to a prize court, and, apparently, the sinking of the ship was a flagrant violation of a well recognized law of nations. England will not only demand an apology from Russia in the case, but will insist upon indemnity to the owners of ship and cargo. American shippers of cargoes of the Knight Commander and other vessels seized by the Russians, have complained to the State Department at Washington, and this country will probably require the Russian government to indemnify these shippers for their losses.

It is reported that Hon. J. F. C. Talbott is to be forced upon the Democratic voters again, by the bosses, as their candidate for Congress in the Second district, and that Chas. E. Fink, Esq., who is doubtless their real choice, is to be sacrificed for the managers' favorite. In view of Mr. Talbott's solemn pledge, made two years ago, that he would positively not be a candidate again, the self-respecting Democrats of the district should administer him a crushing defeat at the polls.

SILVER SNAKE NOT SCOTCHED.

Intelligent voters should be careful lest they be led into believing the contention of some of the Eastern Democrats that the Democratic party is now in favor of the gold standard. There is no room for any misunderstanding on this question. Judge Parker bolted his platform, which had been adopted by an overwhelming vote in the convention, and the party did not sustain him, but simply in order to extricate itself from a situation that threatened a disruption of the convention, notified him to go ahead and hold the political postmortem in his own way and make whatever disposition of the corpse he deemed proper.

The masses of the Democratic organization fully understand that they were imposed upon by trickery and falsehood, to which they submitted rather than renew a fight which had already exhausted them. The silver men are keenly aware that they were buncoed at the eleventh hour and robbed of their just share of the fruits of the convention by trickery and cunning on the part of David B. Hill and his lieutenants. The result is that the party still has its meaningless platform and Silver orators of the West can point to the fact that the platform does not declare against their beliefs. So far as the platform goes the Democratic party is just as much of a free silver party to-day as it was when W. J. Bryan led it to two defeats. If evidence outside the platform is needed to show that the silver men are still confident of controlling the party organization, W. J. Bryan has supplied that evidence. In a formal, written statement, issued upon his return to Lincoln from the St. Louis convention, he said: "As soon as the election is over I will, with the help of those who believe as I do (in the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1), undertake to organize for the campaign of 1908."

The silver snake has not been scotched. It has hardly been stunned.

NOT ACCIDENTAL.

It can hardly be considered purely a matter of accident that the severest and longest continued commercial crises in this country, with their accompanying hard times, have occurred when the Democratic party was in power and administering the government. Few persons living can remember the period of depression which began in 1837, when Van Buren, a Democrat, was President, and continued until the great Whig victory of 1840; but it is a matter of history. It was a period of almost universal bankruptcy and much property was taken in execution and sold under the hammer at absurdly low prices, good cows bringing as little as $1. The late Col. Jno. K. Longwell once said that all over Adams county, Pa., farms were exposed to sale by the sheriff, at that time.

The next most serious and prolonged commercial crisis began in 1857, during the administration of President Buchanan, and its effect was felt up to the beginning of the Civil War.

The hard times during the last administration of President Cleveland are of too recent occurence to need to be called to remembrance. The people still have a lively recollection of the paralyzing effect produced on the trade and industries of the country by the supremacy of the Democratic party from 1892 to 1896.

The Republican party has been in power during 36 of the 44 years since 1860, but no such periods of prolonged distress financially occurred during its long administration of the government. Financial crises there were, but they were neither as severe nor as prolonged as those cited under Democratic rule, although the country, for years, was struggling with the problem of restoring its currency to a specie basis, and the wonder is that this was accomplished without greater shock to all general and domestic interests.

Now, as said in the beginning of this article, these results could hardly have been accidental. They must be accounted for on some other hypothesis. And what else is so reasonable as that they depended upon the different policies of the two parties? The Democratic party, though occasionally driven by the logic of events to accept such adjustment of tariff duties as made for the protection of American industries, has always antagonized tariff protection as a principle. On the other hand the old Whig party and, later, the Republican party held, and as far as possible enforced, the doctrine of protection, and thus, on at least two notable occasions, 1840 and 1896, lifted the country out of the very "Slough of Despond," into which it had been plunged by the Democratic policy of free trade.

And now the people are again called upon to decide which of these policies shall control in the administration of the government for the next four years. The Republicans have reiterated their adherence to protection; the Democrats denounce it as robbery. In view of the past ill effects of free trade and the past beneficial effects of protection, it should not be very difficult for the voter who prefers prosperity to adversity to decide in favor of protection and to cast his ballot for Roosevelt and Fairbanks.

The War in Manchuria.

The most important item of news from the seat of war in Manchuria is the abandonment of Niu-chuang by the Russians and the occupation of the place by the Japanese. This did not occur without heavy fighting which resulted in rendering the town untenable for the Russians. The capture of Niu-chuang by the Japanese has been reported on several previous occasions, but in every instance the report proved false. It seems, however, there is no doubt about its occupation now. It is a point of great strategic importance and materially strengthens the Japanese grip on the Liao-tung peninsula and will be of great assistance in the operations against Port Arthur.

Skirmishes and miniature battles, of greater or less importance, between detachments of Gen. Kuroki's and Gen. Kuropatkin's armies, are of almost daily occurrence and generally result in the retreat or withdrawal of the Russians. St. Petersburg dispatches report that this is part of Gen. Kuropatkin's plans, his object being to withdraw the Japanese as far as possible from their base of supplies before offering battle.

On the other hand it is reported that there is extreme danger of Gen. Kuropatkin's line of retreat being cut off by a large force of Jepanese who are now pushing toward his rear. A war correspondent of the London, Eng., Evening Star, reports that at the battle of Tatchekio, on the 24th ult., 10,000 Russians were killed or wounded. Among the killed was a general and Gen. Kuropatkin was wounded in the shoulder. When the Russians abandoned the town they set it on fire and it was nearly destroyed.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT NOTIFIED.

President Roosevelt was on Wednesday notified of his nomination for the Presidency by the Chicago convention. Speaker Cannon was the medium through which the convention communicated its action. The President's home at Oyster Bay, N. Y., was the scene of the notification, at which a number of prominent Republicans was present. In response to Speaker Cannon's address the President spoke at considerable length, reviewing and contrasting the policies and records of the Republican and Democratic parties. Among many other pertinent and forcible things he said:

"We who have been entrusted with power as public servants during the past seven years of administration and legislation now come before the people content to be judged by our record of achievement. In the years that have gone by we made the deed square with the word; and if we are continued in power we shall unswervingly follow out the great lines of public policy which the Republican party has already laid down; a policy to which we are giving, and shall give, a united, and therefore an efficient support.

"In all of this we are more fortunate than our opponents, who now appeal for confidence on the ground, which some express and some seek to have confidentially understood, that if triumphant they may be trusted to prove false to every principle which in the last eight years they have laid down as vital, and to leave undisturbed those very acts of the Administration because of which they ask that the Administration itself be driven from power. Seemingly their present attitude as to their past record is that some of them were mistaken and others insincere.

"We make our appeal in a wholly defiernt spirit. We are not constrained to keep silent on any vital question; we are divided on no vital question; our policy is continuous and is the same for all sections and localities. There is nothing experimental about the Government we ask the people to continue in power, for our performance in the past, our proved governmental efficiency, is a guarantee as to our promises for the future.

"Our opponents, either openly or secretly, according to their several temperaments, now ask the people to trust their present promises in consideration of the fact that they intend to treat their past promises as null and void. We know our own minds and we have kept of the same mind for a sufficient length of time to give to our policy coherence and sanity.

The Western Md. Railroad.

The Baltimore Evening News of Monday contained an interesting description of the work planned and under way to connect the Western Maryland and Wabash systems and give the latter a tide-water terminal at Baltimore. To accomplish this three separate and distinct divisions or sections of road have to be built, as described by the News. The first of these is the tide-water line starting from the main line of the Western Maryland near Walbrook Station and running to Port Covington at the harbor front of Baltimore, a distance of five and eight-tenths miles. This line, according to the News, is nearly completed, the track being laid more than half the distance, and it will soon be in operation and enable the Western Maryland to escape the heavy tunnel charges on its tide-water freight.

The second project is the construction of the connecting link between the Western Maryland and West Virginia Central roads between Cherry Run and Cumberland. This line is 60 miles long, and work on it has so far progressed that it is confidently expected it will be completed and in operation by the 1st of July, 1905. This will open the way for the shipment to Baltimore of vast quantities of coal from the mines of West Virginia, and will supply a larger amount of freight than the Western Maryland, in its present condition, will be able to handle. It will therefore involve the necessity for the betterment and probably double-tracking of the Western Maryland's main lines.

The third project, which will increase this necessity, is the construction of a connecting line from the West Virginia Central or the Western Maryland to the Wabash at Gettysburg, Pa. It is intimated that the logical route for this connection will be from Pittsburg to the Western Maryland system, probably at Shippensburg, Pa.

The News says that "the expenditures actually made or engaged upon by the Gould syndicate on the Western Maryland properties and additions run into the millions. The items are as follows:

Purchase of Western Maryland from city of Baltimore, (actual price)	$8,651,370 45
Purchase of West Virginia Central Railroad, coal and timber properties from the Davis-Elkins interests, approximately	17,000,000 00
Tidewater extension and other Baltimore terminals	3,000,000 00
Cumberland extension	4,500,000 00
New equipment	2,000,000 00
Total	$35,151,370 45

"To build a direct line from Pittsburg to join the Western Maryland will round out this sum to $50,000,000 as the cost of bringing the Wabash to Baltimore."

LUTHERAN REUNION.

An immense crowd of people attended the Lutheran reunion at Pen-Mar yesterday. The mininum estimate of the number of persons on the grounds is 10,000 and some estimates place it ot 18,000.

Interesting exercises were held in the large auditorium, which was literally packed with people. Rev. Dr. Geo. W. Enders, of York, Pa., presided and opened the exercises with prayer. The 44th Psalm, led by Rev. J. J. Kerr, of Newville, Pa., was read responsively The battle hymns of Luther and Gustavus Adolphus were among those sung on the occasion. The singing was led by a select choir from York, Pa.

Very interesting and instructive addresses were delivered by Rev. Charles L. Frey, of Philadelphia, a clergyman of the Lutheran General Council; Rev. Dr. A. R. Steck, of York, Pa., and Rev. S. D. Dougherty, of Norwood, Pa., home mission secretary of the East Pa. Synod.

The Tressler Orphans' Home Band, of Loysville, Pa., gave a concert in the auditorium at 11 o'clock and also played during the afternoon exercises. The band consists of 30 pieces, is well drilled and is said to be the best boys' band in the country.

At the close of the exercises in the auditorium a business meeting was held at which it was decided to hold the next reunion at Pen-Mar on Thursday, July 27, 1905. A reunion committee was appointed among the members of which are Rev. Dr. P. H. Miller, of this city, and Rev. Chas. S. Trump, of Martinsburg, W. Va.

It is said that the Western Maryland Railroad Company will, next excursion season, arrange a resort at Jack's Mountain, exclusively for colored people. Jack's Mountain is on the line of the Western Extension of the Western Maryland, between Gettysburg and Highfield and about two miles from Fairfield. From its sides a beautiful view of the valley in which the latter place is located can be obtained.

It is announced from Hagerstown that Rev. Conrad Clever, D. D., pastor of the third Reformed Church, Baltimore, will be called to the pastorate of Christ Reformed Church at the former place.
