Albertus Sylvester Beaver.

Mr. Albertus Sylvester Beaver, son of Mr. Oliver and Mrs. Hester A. Beaver, near this city, was accidentally killed, at Girard, O., on the 1st inst. Mr. Beaver was foreman of lines for the Youngstown Consolidated Gas and Electric Company which was putting in new wires and new poles between Youngstown and Avon park. One of these new wires, at the corner of State and Liberty streets, Girard, was broken, and Mr. Beaver with two other linemen, was engaged in reconnecting it. A Youngstown paper says:

"Beaver climbed an old pole and lineman Frank Slack a new one standing not more than three feet from the old pole. Beaver then bared the Youngstown end of the broken wire and wrapped it around the cross arm attached to the pole, leaving the naked end protruding. He then took the other end of the wire and, having bared it, was turning to make a joint, when his knee came in contact with the naked end of the Youngstown wire, completing the circuit and shooting 2000 volts of electricity through his body."

Mr. Beaver gave a slight groan and lineman Slack, who at once realized what had occurred, as quickly as possible cut one of the wires and took hold of the body of the unfortunate man, thus preventing it from falling.

Mr. Beaver had been in the employ of the Consolidated Gas and Electric Company for five years and for over two years was foreman of the linemen. He leaves a widow and two children—Clarence, aged three, and Freda, aged two years. The Youngstown paper above referred to says:

Mt. Airy Postoffice Robbed.

The Mount Airy post office was entered by burglars Monday morning, about 2 o'clock and the safe was blown open and robbed of between $300 and $400 in stamps, and the private papers of Mr. Walter R. Rudy, the postmaster, were carried off. A rural mail carrier's mail sack was taken, in which the robbers carried away their booty. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company's repair shop was broken open and tools were secured, which the burglars used to enter the postoffice. The robbers did not seem to care for anything except what could be easily turned into money, as there was a large quantity of valuable goods in the store, in which the postoffice is located, but none was taken. The burglars got into the postoffice by forcing a window. They used nitroglycerine in blowing open the safe. The explosion aroused the neighbors, some of whom came out on the street, but seeing no one attributed the noise to the railroad yards nearby. When Mr. Rudy opened up Monday morning he found the floor scattered with papers and the valuable contents of the safe missing. Mr. Rudy says the work was that of professionals. The police of Baltimore and other cities were notified to look out for the robbers.

AUGUST 12, 1904.

Manchester Items.

Our people were very much shocked on Friday morning last to learn of the death of Mr. Lewis B. Lippy. On Thursday Mr. Lippy, who was a member of the repair committee of Trinity Reformed Church, was taken sick with acute indigestion while performing some duty at the church in connection with the work of repairing. Dr. J. H. Preston was called and administered remedies which caused an improvement in his condition and after some time he was taken to his home. During Thursday night he had another attack, but was again relieved and about 9 o'clock Friday morning was so much better that he rose, against the protest of his family, and partly dressed himself. While thus engaged a peculiar noise was heard in his room and entering it his family found him lying dead on his bed. Death was caused by heart failure. Mr. Lippy was a native of Bachman's Valley, this district. His age was 70 years, 24 days. Several years ago he abandoned farming in which he had been successfully engaged from early manhood, about two miles from this place. Upon retiring from his farm he made his home with his cousins, the Misses Lippy, on North Main street, where he died. He leaves six sons—Messrs. Allen, Irwin, Clinton and Elmer, near town; Charles, near Alesia, and William, of Hanover, and also one daughter, Mrs. Wm. Strevig, two miles from town. Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon, Rev. S. M. Roeder officiating, and the remains were interred in the family lot beside Mr. Lippy's deceased wife and children. The attendance was the largest here for a long time. Mr. Lippy was a director and one of the founders of the Manchester Bank, and as a tribute of respect to his memory the banking house is draped in mourning. Mr. Lippy was a member of the Reformed Church from early manhood and for a number of years an elder. Politically he was a Democrat.

The runaway of a double team attached to a buggy, on Monday, caused much excitement among citizens of the town. The animals dashed madly down North Main street without a driver. At the Gettier cigar factory they ran on the pavement and the buggy collided with the porch of Mr. Lewis Loats' residence, tearing away a post and then, striking the front fence, carried away a part of that. Next the seats were thrown from Mr. Wm. Haines' porch and knocked to pieces. The frantic team then jumped the hedge fence at the home of Dr. J. H. Sherman and fell, but struggled to their feet and ran across the lot striking a peach tree, where they again fell and their flight was arrested. The buggy was wrecked and the horses considerably cut and bruised. The team had been driven by Mr. Howard Menchey, but got away from him.

Mr. John W. Burns lost a valuable young horse on Friday night, from spasmodic colic.

The light seen from here in a northwesterly direction on Sunday night proved to be the burning of Mr. Emory Sterner's barn near Deep Run.

Steele's exhibition of Uncle Tom's Cabin, on Saturday night was not well patronized.

Everybody was on tiptoe on Tuesday to see Mr. Jacob Folk ascend the spire of the Reformed Church where, at a height of 110 feet, he took off the point of the lightning rod, that had become bent, and brought it to the belfry, where it was straightened and then taken back and put in place. The ascent was made by ropes and ladders.

Rev. Albert Diffenbach, of Bellevue, Pa., who paid a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Diffenbach, of Baltimore, took a run up here and peeped in on us on Friday. Mr. D. is one of our boys and we are proud to know has made quite a success in his mission field in Allegheny, Pa., where two years ago he went as a stranger to a mere handfull of parishioners, which, in 22 months, he has built up to a congregation of 150 members, who enjoy the comforts of a beautiful new church and a fine Sunday School and have a bright future.

The Misses Bixler on North Main street, are having a new kitchen built at their home.

Miss Amy Berlin, of Reading, Pa., in company with her hostess, Mrs. Lou Lamotte, of Hampstead, visited friends here on Friday last.

Misses Carrie and Florence Warner, of Baltimore, are visiting friends here.

Mr. George A. Snyder, of Hagerstown, filled the pulpit in the Reformed Church here on Sunday evening and presented the cause of the Catawba College, N. C., of which he is now president.

Mrs. Howard Hawk and son, of Reading, Pa., spent several days here with friends this week.

Miss Erma Kuhn, of Baltimore, spent a week with her aunt and family, Mrs. Chas. Hively.

Mr. Henry Rinds Kopf, of Reading, Pa., was a guest at the Hotel de Stick several days last week.

Rev. and Mrs. Macalister spent several days last week at the home of Mr. J. M. Motter.

Mrs. C. M. Eyster and lady friend were visitors at Mrs. C's. parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Crumrine, during Sunday.

Mrs. Mary C. Gettier spent Sunday and Monday with friends in Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Oursler, of Baltimore, are visiting Mr. O's. parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Oursler.

Miss Helen Greenholtz, of Baltimore, is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Greenholtz.

Already at 5 A. M., Sunday morning, the advance visitors to Penn Grove Camp began to pass through town and from that time to 9 o'clock vehicle after vehicle followed in the course to help swell the crowd in attendance.

Mrs. Charles Brilhart entertained her cousins, Mrs. E. H. Crouse, Mrs. A. J. Hayes, Mrs. M. L. Morelock, Mrs. G. W. J. Everhart and Mrs. D. L. Dubbs to tea on Saturday evening last.

Mr. Wm. Kneller, with a corps of workmen, is putting up the brick work at the new home of Mr. Geo. M. Hoffman.
