Farmers in this county are taking advantage of the sharp advance in wheat, during the past week or two, to send their grain, as quickly as possible, to the markets. Very considerable quantities have been received at the mills in this city during the last few days. This may be wise or otherwise, according as the advance in price may be stable or ephemeral. Indications are that the present condition is not a mere flurry in the market, and that wheat will go still higher before it gets to a lower price. This, however, is not a certainty and farmers have to take the chances.

Elsewhere in the SENTINEL today will be found an extract from the rules and regulations of the Postoffice Department, from which it will be seen that the United States mails are absolutely closed against the transmission of newspapers containing even remote reference to the results of raffles and other games of chance. To announce a raffle of any kind, even at church festivals or fairs, or to give accounts of such raffles showing the names of winners, or the numbers of winning tickets, subjects the newspapers doing so to exclusion from the mails, and publishers to severe penalties for violations of this rule.

Mrs. Shewell Commits Suicide.

Mrs. Maggie Shewell, wife of Mr. James H. Shewell, of Seitzland, Pa., who some weeks ago attempted to kill her husband and herself, was found hanging by the neck and dead, in the stable in the rear of the coal office of Jacob Fizone, 1309 North Fremont avenue, Baltimore, at 6.45 o'clock on Monday morning. Mrs. Shewell, after her attempt on her own life and that of her husband, was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital, Baltimore, where she underwent a successful surgical operation, but was being held until arrangements could be made to send her to an asylum, as she was mentally deranged. She had been at the hospital since June 24. She was carefully watched, but about 10 o'clock, Monday morning, managed to elude the nurses and left the hospital. Her escape was discovered almost immediately, the police were notified and a search for her instituted, but she was not located until her dead body was discovered hanging in Mr. Fizone's stable. She had said at the hospital that if she ever got a chance she would kill herself. She fled from the hospital in her night dress and, by tying her stockings together, made a rope, one end of which she fastened to a joist in the stable and wrapped the other about her neck. Her slippers were found on the stable floor. Mrs. Shewell was a native of Lineboro, and was 34 years old. She was a graduate nurse of the Woman's Medical College.

John Keble Taylor.

John Keble Taylor, only son of Rev. E. B. Taylor, former rector of Ascension Episcopal parish, this city, died at the residence of Miss Hobbie, on Court street, on Wednesday morning, of typhoid fever, at the age of about 22 years. Young Taylor had been suffering with paralysis for several years. He received a spinal injury playing football while attending school at Manlius, N. Y., and for months was totally paralyzed. He gradually recovered the partial use of his limbs, but still walked with difficulty. His father recently resigned the rectorship of Ascension parish and accepted a call to a large Episcopal church at Bayonne, N. J., of which he is now in charge. On the eve of the family's removal to that place Keble was stricken with the fever which caused his death. Previous to being injured he was a very bright and promising young man and the sympathy for him here, in his severe affliction, was very great. His remains were removed to Ascension Church, where they remained until this morning, when a mass was said and they were then taken to Philadelphia for interment.

Wm. G. Rinehart.

The people of this city were startled and shocked, on Tuesday morning, to learn of the death of Mr. Wm. G. Rinehart, one of the best known and most prominent residents of the place, after a brief illness. He had been slightly indisposed the previous Wednesday evening, but by Thursday morning was so much better that he was able to give his attention to his business affairs and continued to do so until Saturday evening, when he was seized with violent cramps of the stomach. A physician was promptly summoned, but he grew worse until his death ensued about 3 o'clock, Tuesday morning. Mr. Rinehart was one of the most active and energetic business men of this city. He was identified with important business enterprises here and elsewhere in the county, and for many years kept the supervision of farming operations on his farm near this city—one of the finest in the county. He was in fact a model farmer, as well as a successful business man. He was especially fond of livestock and his control over horses was almost marvellous. He also kept quite a number of these animals and a few years ago had the finest six-horse team of bays ever owned in this county. Unfortunately these fine animals perished in the fire which destroyed the barn on his farm several years ago. Incidentally, while managing his extensive private affairs, he was, for about fifteen years, tax collector of Westminster district. Mr. Rinehart was a Democrat but numbered among his warmest and closest friends some of the most decided Republicans in this county. He leaves a widow and two daughters—Mrs. Margaret Rinehart Tracey and Mrs. Jas. Pearre Wantz—also one grandson and one granddaughter, all of this city. One daughter, Mrs. Mary White, died 8 or 9 years ago, and his only son, Mr. Wm. E. Rinehart, last year. Dr. Jacob Rinehart, of Frizellburg, a leading physician, ex-member of the House of Delegates, and ex-Judge of the Orphans' Court, is his only brother. Mr. Rinehart was born in November, 1835, and was in his 69th year. Funeral services were held at his late residence on West Main street, yesterday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Thos. H. Lewis, president of Western Maryland College, assisted by Rev. H. L. Elderdice, D. D., president of Westminster Theological Seminary, and Rev. John C. Bowers, of Baltimore, officiating, after which the remains were interred in Benjamin's Cemetery, near this city. The pall bearers were: Messrs. B. F. Crouse, George W. Albaugh, Chas. V. Wantz, George M. Parke, Louis E. Shriver and T. W. Mather. By appointment of the Governor Mr. Rinehart was one of the visitors to the Home for Feeble Minded Children at Owings Mills. He was also one of the founders of the Westminster Deposit and Trust Company and a director of the institution from its organization until his death.

A small dwelling house on the farm of Mr. John H. Taylor was destroyed by fire about 4 o'clock, Monday afternoon. It had been unoccupied for some time. A thunderstorm was passing over when the fire occurred, and it was at first supposed the building had been struck by lightning, but it was found that the side of an old corn-house, next to the dwelling and nearby, had been saturated with coal oil, giving rise to a suspicion of incendiarism. Birthday Surprise.

The home of Mr. David Petry, near Pleasant Valley, was the scene of a pleasant surprise on Friday evening last, given in honor of the anniversary of Mr. Petry's birthday. It proved to be a real surprise to Mr. Petry, as he was entirely unaware that the event was impending until he was made conscious of it by the presence of so many of his friends. At an early hour the guests began to arrive and though the weather was inclement, depriving some of the privilege of participating in the event, a goodly number came. The evening was spent very pleasantly in social conversation, and instrumental and vocal music, and at a late hour refreshments, consisting of ice cream, cake, lemonade, fruit etc., were served in abundance, to which ample justice was done. Baseball at New Windsor.

The New Windsor baseball team administered a severe defeat to the Taneytown team, on Monday, the score having been 16 to 0. The game was played on the N. W. grounds. Danner did the twirling for N. W. and pitched a record game of the county, not a hit having made off of his delivery and only one pass, and he struck out 16 men. Reindollar pitched an ordinary game for the visitors, having 12 strike-outs to his credit. Helm made a very sensational stop at third for N. W. All the infielders did great work as did also the outfielders, when they had a chance. Hann's home run was the batting feature. Not an error was made by the home team.
