soft, sweet voice won them over completely. The young men, especially, vied with each other in waiting upon her. George Baily hung around her every minute.

"I never had a grandmother that I can remember," he said one evening, "and I wish you would let me adopt you. I am in dead earnest, grandma Nancy," he continued. "I have a big house and its's very lonesome."

Nancy smiled. "But you will marry some day, George," she said.

"Not if you will come, dear," he exclaimed, kissing her too smooth brow.

Nancy rose quickly. "I'll think it over," she answered, backing away from him in an awkward fashion. He grabbed her hand.

"Oh, grandma Nancy, you will come; I—I—why grandma Nancy, I love you, I do, I do,—oh, I know now what I've missed all these years. I've heard the fellows talk about their grandmothers, but I did not dream they were so nice, so swee[illegible] He stopped suddenly. Nanc[illegible] picked up her long skirts, a[illegible] ran from the room. He looked at his coat sleeve where it had brushed against her hair and it was covered with powder.

For two days Nancy stayed in her room. Mrs. Brown said she had a headache. The young people kept as quiet as mice. When she did come down stairs she was more dignified and cool in her manner.

"Are you angry, grandma Nancy?" Kitty Bert asked anxiously.

"No, dear, only I do not feel entirely well yet."

This communication was passed on and Jack Hill took the first chance that presented itself to coax Nancy for a short walk.

"Is there anything worrying you, grandma Nancy?" he asked in a concerned tone. He had her arm within his and they sat down on a rustic seat in the grape arbor.

"I wish you were my grandmother," he said softly. "Won't you let me pretend you are just for tonight?"

Nancy said "yes" very nervously.

"Then I can kiss you." With that he gathered her in his big arms, tenderly—as if she were a baby—and kissed her, not once, but many times; the first was a dainty little thing, but surprised himself in its strong repetitions.

Nancy was wildly hysterical. She struggled from his arms just as Davis Neil came upon the scene. It was moonlight, and there was no doubt but that he had seen it all.

"Up to your old tricks, are you, Miss Evans?" he asked, scorchingly. "I was told that I would find grandma Nancy down here but I beg your pardon for intruding."

Jack Hill looked the picture of surprise and dismay. "I don't understand," he said, dumbly.

Davis started toward the house, but Nancy begged him to come back. "It can all be explained; oh Davis, do please tell Jack. I didn't know he meant to kiss me. Tell Davis so, Jack, everybody tell everybody else—oh my poor head!"

Davis and Jack carried her into the house. "She has fainted, that is all," they explained. They felt they ought to tell Mrs. Brown.

"Goodness sakes alive!" she exclaimed.

Davis stayed on for several days, but made no effort to see Nancy, who kept to her room. He and Jack had had an understanding. Finally she sent for Davis, Jack and George.

Grandma Nancy was a sweet young girl of twenty then.

George gave a long whistle. "Don't George," Nancy said, a suspicious choke in her voice. "I didn't mean any harm."

Davis was a bit sulky, but Jack decidedly interested.

"I wanted to make it all right with you boys," she said, nodding towards George and Jack. "I wouldn't have you misjudge me for anything. I was tired of being made love to and thought I'd escape if I was an old lady. I promised Davis if I didn't succeed I would marry him, so I guess I will have to. Don't tell the others, but you two will surely receive invitations this fall."

"Oh, Nancy my darling, my own!" Davis whispered. "Did you mean it?"

"Of course, I did; I see no other way to free myself from love making," and she blushed.

"A poor remedy," Davis thought, kissing her.

OBSTACLES IN WAY OF VOTING HERE.

They are pointed Out to a New Yorker Who Contemplated Moving Into Maryland.

A gentleman living in New York state is thinking of moving with his family to Maryland. He wrote and asked a friend if he came in just after the election last past he could vote in the fall of 1905. He received the following reply:

No, I regret to say that as much as we will welcome you as a good citizen, coming from an outside state, you will not be able to vote next fall, and you never will be able to vote unless, at least one year before you want to register, you go to the courthouse and make known your intention of becoming a citizen. (Fifty cents please.) When that declaration has been allowed to soak a year you can take a statement of the matter to the registrars and get on the poll-books. Then if you are still willing, after this indignity, to be run into a dark stall like a jackass and can manage to see the lines on your blanket ballot, which is twice the size of the square of the stall, by the use of the sperm candle "light-of-other days" of our forefathers, and can with two marks make four exact equilateral triangles, with the legs of each one an equal distance from the "box" (this relates to the ballot, not the stall) and can do a lot of other things to prevent you from losing the privilege to secure which the Revolutionary patriots were willing to stake their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor to buck King George and tyranny, then you may, possibly, have some say in the running of this commonwealth, provided further, you can refold the ballot in in the same 20 creases it had when handed you and perform the other multitudinous duties required of you while in the stall, as well as back out through the stable door through which you have been admitted before the political jockeys who are running this state call "Time!"

If you fail in the first effort you have another trial or two, but I never heard of anybody exercising the right. I find the "niggers" have learned to do all this better than the average Democrat, so there is some possibility that the law will be repealed, but until it is, you want to be up on "infinitesmal distances," with which the whole legal machinery of our state has been "rasseling" in order to interpret this culmination of Democratic statesmanship in Maryland.

But I hope this will not prevent you from moving in the state. Come ahead, for some day this kind of political perfidy is going to get a knock that will make it forget the word it was to say when it got whipped. I do not care for myself so much, for I have practised on the trick until I can get my ballot through more than half the time, which is a high precentage, but I am thinking of the fun we will have in watching the "furriners" get onto the thing.

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?

WESTMINSTER, April 10th, 1890.
MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:
Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very troublesome cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough, and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy I ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,
EDWARD LYNCH.

WHERE YOU CAN SEE:

The cheapest Watches that ever were sold,
Made of pure metal, both Silver and Gold;
Gold Necklaces, Chains and beautiful Charms,
And handsome Bracelets to wear on the arms.
Rings made of Silver and of pure Gold,
So cheap and beautiful for all to behold;
To see these fine goods 'tis really a treat,
And in quality and price they cannot be beat.
Now Clocks, my dear friends, I sell them so low,
A 10-dollar bill will buy a whole row;
Now facts are facts, come see for yourselves
The beautiful goods in case and on shelves.
Spectacles and Eye-glass[illegible] young and old,
Made of good metal, [illegible] and Gold;
We will test your eyes gladly, without any fee,
