WESTMINSTER, - MARYLAND.

Entered at the Postoffice at Westminster, Md., as Second-class matter.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1905.

Governor Warfield has commuted the death sentence of Charles Barton, convicted at Hagerstown of the murder of a veteran of the Civil War, for the purpose of securing the small pittance of the latter's pension. Barton is an octogenarian, as was also his victim. Imprisonment for life, under the Governor's action, is to be the fate of the aged murderer. The murder was a very brutal one, but many persons united in the plea to the Governor to spare the murderer's life because of his extreme old age. Judge Martin L. Keedy, before whom Barton was tried, did not unite in the recommendation for mercy to the murderer, and has severely criticised the Governor for his intervention in the case. He appears to regard the Governor's action as discourteous to him, but he is probably oversensitive about it as he does not appear to have protested against it, and that fact was sufficient to justify the inference that, while not joining in the recommendation for the commutation of sentence he was not seriously hostile to it.

Very unnecessarily, we think, Mrs. Varina Davis, widow of Jefferson Davis, President of the Southern Confederacy, has revived the story of cruelty and indignity to her husband by Gen. Nelson A. Miles, of the U. S. Army, during Mr. Davis' incarceration at Fortress Monroe, at the close of the Civil War. Gen. Miles acted under orders in manacling Mr. Davis and that extreme precaution was resorted to to prevent an attempt to escape on the part of the prisoner and to protect him from being shot down by his guards in the event of his making such an attempt. Gen. Miles received a note from Mrs. Davis, written at the time, in which she acknowledges and thanks him for courtesies extended to herself. He has gone to the trouble to publish a defence of his course and gives numerous facts to substantiate his assertion that he treated the State prisoners, placed under his charge, with all the courtesy possible, with due regard to their safekeeping. It is to be regretted that Mrs. Davis has seen fit to reopen a chapter of the history of the Civil War, which can do no good whatever and can only serve to keep up memories which had better be forgotten. Gen. Miles has enemies in his own section, and there are many Confederates who do not harbor a very kindly regard for the memory of Mr. Davis. These may be gratified by this revival of an old controversy, but the great body of citizens, North and South, will not take more than a languid interest in the matter.

TERROR REIGNS IN RUSSIA.

The Czar of Russia and his most prominent civil officials have become terrorized by the announcement, made by what is known as the fighting revolutionary party of the country, of the projected assassination of several of the most prominent civil dignitaries of the empire, including the Czar himself. This announcement followed the assassination of the Grand Duke Sergius, uncle of the Czar, who was blown to pieces by a bomb, thrown under his carriage, inside the walls of the Kremlin, at Moscow, on Friday last.

The grand duke was one of the most pronounced enemies of a more liberal and representative government for Russia, and it was believed that his influence with the Czar prevented the concessions being so earnestly sought by a large number of the Russian people. He was warned that his death had been decreed unless he receded from his purpose to insist on the continuance of absolute and autocratic power in the Czar. He did not heed the warning and the sentence decreed against him was carried into effect. As he was driving from the palace, within the walls of the Kremlin, the fatal bomb was thrown by a man dressed in workman's clothes, but who is supposed to be of a higher class of Russian citizens and who undoubtedly belongs to the terrorist wing of the revolutionary party. The bomb was thrown with such precision that it exploded under the duke's carriage, which was completely demolished and his occupant instantly killed, his head having been blown off and his whole body torn and lacerated. The driver of the carriage was also fatally injured. The assassin was arrested, but has maintained a stolid silence in regard to his identity. His deed, however, has stricken the members of the royal family and other high officials with terror, as it is stated that among those warned that unless the demands of the revolutionists are granted they are condemned to death are the Czar, his uncle, the Grand Duke Vladimir, a brother of Sergius; Governor Trepoff, of St. Petersburg; Grand Duke Alexis, and the procurator of the Holy Synod, Pobiedonosteff. These and others high in authority are practically prisoners in their own palaces.

According to Russian custom the body of the murdered grand duke should have been sent to St. Petersburg and his obsequies attended by the Czar, but the custom was abandoned and temporary burial in the mausoleum in the Kremlin adopted. It is said that if the usual burial rites had been observed and attended by the royal family in the proper order, a single bomb might have completely destroyed the reigning dynasty.

The assassination of Sergius and other threatening incidents indicate that Russia is ripe for revolution and that eventually the entire form of government may be changed unless a more liberal policy shall be granted by the Czar.

Another effect of the threatening condition of affairs throughout the empire may be the conclusion of peace with Japan. The army thus released could then be employed to suppress uprisings at home and prolong, for a time, at least, the absolute authority of the Czar.

Clinton J. Winebrenner, a prominent resident of Walkersville, Frederick county, has taken an appeal to the Circuit Court from the decision of a magistrate who fined him $1 and costs for disturbing a religious service. It is alleged that Mr. Winebrenner, while in the United Brethren Church at Walkersville, carried on a conversation during the sermon in such loud tones that the congregation was disturbed. After a hearing which lasted four hours the magistrate found him guilty and imposed the fine, but Mr. Winebrenner refused to pay and announced his intention to take the case to court.

TO RAPTUROUS ROADMEN.

Madness! madness! In coming years
You'll rue it. And it now appears
There's money none! Needed now here,
And to nine-tenths rankly unfair.
"Too slowly built." This step's but one?
Then money MORE! 'Tis but begun;
Road tax tenfold you cannot shun!
The office-maker is the one,
He is THE ONE! You pull his car,
"Led by the nose like asses are!"

Something New For Westminster.

A series of meetings for men only will be held in the Methodist Protestant Church, of this city, on Tuesday evenings during the month of March. The co-operation of our citizens is earnestly desired so that this movement will be one of great blessing to the whole community. Little is being done to help the men of Westminster to a better life. Yet we are facing conditions which are lowering the moral tone of our citizenship, and many are being led from ways of right. Surely the time has come for an aggressive Gospel work among men. Great religious meetings are being held in many parts of the world. Even in our own country whole communities have been stirred on the subject of religion. Business has been suspended during special hours of prayer. In Denver the legislature of Colorado recently adjourned to attend a Gospel revival service in that city. May this not be God's time for a great religious awakening in Westminster. The first meeting for men only, will be held Tuesday evening, March 7th, 1905. The speaker will be Detective Todd Hall, of the Baltimore Police Department. A fuller account of the series of meetings will be given in next week's issue. Let every one interested in the moral and spiritual welfare of our city begin to pray for God's blessings upon these meetings.

TAXABLE BASIS OF MARYLAND.

Annapolis, Md., February 21.—Official figures of the total assessed value of taxable property in the different counties of Maryland and Baltimore city show that there has been a slight increase in the amount throughout the state since last year, and that there has also been some increase in Baltimore city, notwithstanding the fire. The total in the state reaches $680,743,794, against $673,337,299 last year, and the total for Baltimore city is $386,362,772, against $385,348,528 last year.

The amount raised by the state tax is much in excess of previous years, owing to the fact that the rate is now 22½ cents on the $100.

The increased rate is due to the fixing of the school tax at 15 cents, instead of 10½, and the levying of the tax of one cent on the $100 on the public building loan of 1904. The amount which will be raised this year by the state tax is $1,531,673.54; that last year was $1,144,673.40.

The assessed value of the property in each county and in Baltimore city is as follows:

County.	Amount.
Allegany	$18,013,661
Anne Arundel	12,255,996
Baltimore city	386,362,772
Baltimore county	82,230,853

A Terirble Mining Disaster.

Alabama had a mining horror on Monday in which upward of 100 men lost their lives. The disaster occurred in the Virginia City mines, about eighteen miles from Birmingham. Some difference of statement as to the exact number of men in the mines has been made. Mine Boss Hartley, who had left the mine just before it was wrecked by an explosion, says that not quite 100 men were at work, but the check weighman insists that the exact number checked was 106 and that several of the miners went to work without having been checked. Up to yesterday 92 bodies had been recovered. It is probable therefore, that over 100 men perished in the disaster.

The cause of the explosion is not accurately known. It is said that the presence of gas in the mine has never heretofore been known, and this fact may have led to carelessness on the part of some of the miners. One account says the supporting timbers had become weakened by time and when the explosion occurred gave way and caused a cave in, by which most of the miners were entombed. If this statement be correct a serious responsibility rests upon somebody. There can be no justification of any party charged with looking after the safety of the men, if neglect of that character occurred. A searching investigation should be made by the authorities of Alabama, to determine who, if anybody, is responsible for the dreadful disaster.

Of course many of the victims were married and had families and the sorrow of the bereaved ones is intense. There is mourning and woe in the vicinity in which the disaster occurred.

The American Type Founders' Company celebrated their return to the New District Tuesday evening by holding a reception at their new place of business, 213, 215 and 217 North street, Baltimore. The reception was tendered to the wives and friends of the employees of the house by Mr. Charles S. Conner, the business manager of the Baltimore branch. The entire establishment was thrown open for the inspection of the guests of the house, the reception being held from 9 to 11.30 P. M. A collation was served during the evening. During the evening the employees presented Mr. Conner with a floral emblem in the shape of a good-luck horseshoe of American Beauty roses and carnations.

Miss Flora Poole, daughter of Isaac Poole, an employee of the Western Maryland Railroad Company, and Clarence Shriner, a lineman for the Western Union Telegraph Company, both of Hagerstown, eloped to York, Pa., and were married on Saturday. The bride is 19 years old. She left Hagerstown at 4 o'clock in the morning although her absence from home was not discovered by her parents until about 7.30, when Mrs. Poole went to her daughter's room to call her for breakfast. She was not there, and the mother became alarmed and notified her husband. A few minutes later a note was found in the daughter's handwriting, in which she said: "Don't worry. We have gone to York, to be married."

Rev. Joshua Harp, retired minister and farmer, died at his home at Benevola, Washington county, on Sunday, from general debility, in his eightieth year. Mr. Harp was one of the best-known ministers of the United Brethren in Christ in Western Maryland. He was engaged in active church work for 45 years, all of the charges he served being in Washington county. For several years he had not been preaching regularly. He was an active Republican. He leaves a large estate. He was twice married and is survived by his second wife, who was a Miss Mullendore before marriage, and six children by his first wife.

An Enjoyable Party.

A very enjoyable party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burgess Condon, near Taylorsville, on Wednesday evening of last week, in honor of Misses Bessie Farver and Gracie Condon. The guests began to arrive at an early hour and in a short time the house was comfortably filled. Party plays, vocal and instrumental music were indulged in until about eleven o'clock, when all were invited to the dining room to partake of refreshments, which were served in abundance. In the wee small hours of the morning all returned to their respective homes, expressing many thanks to their host and hostess for the evening's enjoyment. A large number of their friends were present.

Mr. Harvey Tagg is home from Sparrows Point, Md., suffering from a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

Since the snow has covered the earth, Mr. H. Wirt Shriver has been feeding a large collection of game and birds that have become very tame and come to within one hundred yards of his home to receive this daily ration. In the flock are partridges, red birds, crows, blackbirds, sparrows, snow birds, wrens, and of course English sparrows in abundance, and squirrels and rabbits.

An entertainment will be given at the I. O. M. Hall, by some of our local talent, on the evening of the 25th inst. Wm. Feeser, while chopping wood, recently, discovered four partridges lodged in an old stump. Two were frozen dead, but the other two were only numbed by the intense cold and were brought home, and a little warmth and feed brought them around all right again.

Manchester Items.

Numbers of our citizens were kept busy for a time the early part of this week in keeping the water out of their cellars from the rapidly melting snow.

Washington's birthday was not generally observed in our town. The bank was closed and the schools held appropriate exercises for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Rohrbaugh took a company of their friends sledding to the home of Mr. Leonard Berkhimer, brother of Mrs. R., three miles in the country on Monday evening, where they all enjoyed the freedom of the home in social amusement and the hospitality of the host and hostess in abundant refreshments.

Mr. Wm. L. F. Bergman was called by phone on Monday to take charge of the funeral of his friend, Bernard Stuntebeck, who died at his home on Light street, Baltimore, after several days illness. Mr. Bergman and deceased became friends in the embalming class, several years ago. Mr. Stuntebeck frequently visited his friend here and made many friends, having been a genial good fellow.

Quite an excitement was created on North Main street on Monday morning when a runaway horse dashed madly up the street, dragging an upset sleigh. He ran into a snow bank on the Bachman's road, where he came to a halt and was captured.

Mr. Howard Berwager came to the office of Dr. Preston on Friday with a bad cut in the wrist, that was made by a chisel glancing from a hard piece of wood. The wound was dressed and he went home comfortable.

Mr. E. J. Crumrine was taken ill on Saturday evening with nervous trouble that is keeping him indoors.

Mr. Lawrence Gugel, who died at her daughter's home last week, in Baltimore, at an advanced age, was a resident of this district, 2 miles south of town, for many years, but since the death of her husband, some years ago, she lived with her children in Baltimore.

When the storm on the hills is abroad,
So her spirit hath flown from this world of unrest.
To repose on the bosom of God."

By her husband, Guy W. Caples

You are not dead to us, dear daughter,
But, as a star unseen,
We hold that you are ever near.
Though death intrudes between.

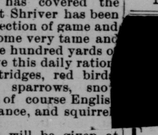

Our darling Winifred has gone, but was so young and fair:
She slumbers sweet, but knows no care;
Her heart was true, her life was young,
Yet not our will, but God's be done.

By her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert K. Hoff, and daughter, Addie.

How sweet it will be in that beautiful land,
No free from all sorrow and pain,
With songs on our lips and harps in our hands
To meet one another again.
