J. Rippard.

So far as the interests of the public are concerned there is no change whatever in the conduct of the office, and we solicit the continued patronage of subscribers and advertisers, assuring them that they will receive as in the past, faithful and efficient service.

No finer strawberries are to be found anywhere than are grown in this county and we have seen none finer, this or any other season, than half a dozen boxes of them which were left at this office on Monday by Mr. John S. At the meeting of the County Commissioners this week the contract of Lawrence E. Lyons for building mason work for bridge over Piney Creek, at Hering's mill, near Sykesville, for the sum of $750, was accepted, and a contract was awarded the Erie Construction Company to build "superstructure" bridge across Pipe Creek, at Arter's Mills, for $537. Special pensions of $5 each were granted Wm. Scott, colored, of district No. 4, and Mariah Bowers, of district No. 12.

One day last week while Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Allgire were driving on the Hanover turnpike, a cow, which was tethered and lying down on the side of the road, suddenly sprang up and frightened their horse so badly that he whirled about and ran away, throwing Mr. and Mrs. Allgire out of the buggy, but fortunately not injuring them severely. The vehicle was smashed. Tying cows along the turnpike, or allowing them to run at large upon it, is contrary to law and the turnpike company warns trespassers, in a notice in another column of the SENTINEL, that hereafter violations of the law in this respect will be prosecuted.

An Unknown Man Killed.

The track-walker of the Western Maryland Railroad, west of Union Bridge, found the dead body of an unknown man lying beside the track Wednesday morning. From his clothing and general appearance the man is supposed to have been a tramp. No means of identification were found on his person. He had a flask of whiskey is his pocket. His skull was fractured and it is thought he was struck by the construction train Tuesday night. A coroner's inquest was held and a verdict of accidental death rendered by the jury. The remains were brought to this city yesterday morning, in charge of Undertaker C. E. Shriner, and interred at the alms house.

The Westminster and Hampstead Fire Companies were present as organizations, Westminster with 35 men and the Union Bridge Band, Hampstead with 45 men and the Alesia Band, making a fine showing. The other companies in the county were represented by delegates.

At yesterday's session of the convention officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

President, John DeH. Douw, of Annapolis; secretary, James Pearre Wantz, of Westminster; treasurer, G. Walter Wright, of Cambridge; senior vice-president, Andrew J. Berger, of Baltimore.

A Young Man's Suicide.

Mr. Calvin Franklin found the body of a young man named Howard Brightwell hanging from a tree on his (Franklin's) farm, near West Falls, Frederick county, on Monday morning. He had committed suicide. He had been working on the farm of Mr. John M. Flohr, near Watersville, and, it is said, on Memorial day drove to Winfield with Mr. Flohr's son. On their way homeward the horse ranaway and smashed the buggy. The animal was finally stopped and young Flohr rode him home leaving Brightwell in charge of the buggy, for which he subsequently returned. When he did so Brightwell was missing and the lines had disappeared also. They were used by Brightwell in hanging himself by the neck from the limb of a tree in a thicket, where his body was found, and where it had evidently hung from Tuesday evening till Monday morning. No cause for the suicide is known. Young Brightwell was about 22 or 23 years old. One account says he was a son of James Brightwell and another of Zeno Brightwell, of Liberty. His remains were interred in Linganore Cemetery on Tuesday.

Memorial Exercises at Hampstead.

Memorial exercises were held at Hampstead on Saturday last under the direction of members of the G. A. R. An indoor service was held at St. John's M. E. Church, at which Rev. William Thomas presided and Mr. Myron J. Rose, of Baltimore, delivered an oration. The singing was also a pleasant feature of the occasion. Miss Estey Houck was organist. Rev. and Mrs. Thomas, John Thomas, Jr., and Miss Lola Fuhrman took prominent parts in the music. Among the selections were "The Soldier Who Wore the Blue," and other patriotic airs. After the indoor exercises the graves of deceased soldiers in the cemetery adjoining the church were decorated with flowers. On Sunday a contingent of Grand Army veterans visited the burial places at Grave Run, St. Abraham's Church and other points and placed flowers upon the graves of their deceased comrades. The committee in charge of the exercises consisted of Messrs. John H. Quaill, George W. Armacost, John O. McNeil, Wm. Buchman. Commander Jas. S. Baer, Chaplain Joel Ebaugh and Mr. Jas. W. Tracy took part in the exercises on Saturday. Much regret was expressed that severe illness prevented Mr. Thomas J. Hunt, of Hampstead, a well known veteran, from taking part in the service.

Another Experiment in This County.

Mr. William L. Amoss, director of the department of farmers' institutes of the Maryland Agricultural College, accompanied by Mr. Charles L. Goodrich, was before the Board of School Commissioners of this county on Tuesday with a proposition to make the public schools of the county the basis of a test for an experiment having for its object the introduction of a system of instruction in scientific farming in all the public schools of the state.

Mr. Goodrich, who is a practical farmer, from a scientific standpoint, and the author of a valuable book on the subject, gave the members of the board, some of whom are prominent farmers, a detailed outline of the plan proposed and also told them some practical things about scientific agriculture of which they had not had previous knowledge.

The plan, in brief, is this: During the fall and spring terms Mr. Goodrich will visit three of the schools in this county once every week and instruct the teachers and pupils of the sixth grades in scientific methods of farming. Schools convenient to farms using modern agricultural machinery will be selected, and the pupils will be shown this machinery, and its various uses will be explained to them. Then the soil will be considered and the conditions under which it will be best able to produce the different products raised in farming; the best methods of preparing and of planting the seeds, cultivating after planting, where cultivation may be necessary, and, in fact, all the details essential to scientific farming.

In the interim between the fall and spring terms the pupils of the grade under instruction will be required to experiment by planting and cultivating farm and garden products in pots and boxes under the direction of the teachers. The experiment will be carried on without expense to the school board, and will not be tried in any other county until it shall have been thoroughly tested in this. The proposition was accepted by the board.

Keefer-Noel.

The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of white dotted swiss and carried a shower bouquet of Bride's roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Vergie Musser, of Gettysburg, a niece of the bride, wore blue fish silk and carried white carnations. Mr. James Noel, cousin of the bride, of New Chester, Pa., was best man. ## DEATH'S DOINGS.

Rev. G. M. Larned.

Rev. G. M. Larned, pastor of Littlestown circuit, M. E. Church, of which Moorhead M. E. Church, at Union Mills, forms a part, was found dead in his bed at the parsonage in Littlestown, on Friday morning last. The deceased clergyman was without family in Littlestown. He had a housekeeper who was absent visiting friends in another place and he was alone in the parsonage at the time of his death. He had been taking his meals at Mrs. Sarah Spangler's. When he failed to appear at breakfast on Friday morning Mrs. Spangler informed Prof. W. Archer Burgoon, formerly of this city, of the fact, and the latter went to the parsonage, but received no response to his knocking at the door. Finally Prof. Burgoon climbed to the roof of the back building and forcing a window to Mr. Larned's room, found him cold in death.

The deceased clergyman was about 72 years old. He suffered somewhat with asthma, it is said, but was apparently in excellent health the day before his death. He leaves one son, Frank W. Larned, a prominent lawyer of Wilkesbarre, Pa., and two daughters, Mrs. Bowman, of Oyster Bay, N. Y., and Mrs. Clara Hann, of Lehighton, Pa. After funeral services at the M. E. Church at Littlestown, on Saturday afternoon, his remains were taken to Lehighton for interment.

Edmund Stabler.

Mr. Edmund Stabler, who for 20 years was superintendent of the Baltimore Manual Training School, at Arbutus, Baltimore county, died about 6.30 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, of a complication of diseases at his home, about one-quarter of a mile from the school. Mr. Stabler brought the institution of which he had charge to a high degree of efficiency. He was, undoubtedly, a most worthy, upright and conscientious man, but his last days were embittered by a prosecution in which he was charged with inhumanly beating a boy named John W. Burrus, an inmate of the school. The case was first tried before Judges Fowler and Burke, at Towson, who disagreed in judgment and it was then removed to this county and tried before Judges Jones and Revell, who adjudged Mr. Stabler guilty of common assault and imposed a fine of $5. Testimony of the highest character, indicating the humane temperament of the defendant and his uniform kindness toward the inmates of the school, was adduced on the trial, while much of the evidence in relation to the facts in the case was conflicting, but many who heard it doubted whether the boy had been treated with unnecessary harshness. But, mild and technical as was the judgment against Mr. Stabler it was a bitter disappointment to him. At the time of his death he was nearly 60 years old. He leaves a widow and six children.

W. Clinton Stephan.

Mr. W. Clinton Stephan, a well known resident of this city, was fatally injured, near the old water tank on the Western Maryland Railroad, about one-third of a mile south of the city limits, on Sunday morning. The injury which caused his death was inflicted by the pilot of the engine of the Sunday morning Accommodation train from Union Bridge to Baltimore. From the best information that can be obtained it appears that Mr. Stephan and young John Nelson were in company during the whole of Saturday night, and early Sunday morning went down the railroad track where the accident occurred. They had been drinking heavily and both lay down—Nelson on the bank at the side of the road and Stephan beside the track, with his head on the rail—and both were probably unconscious in sleep. A curve in the track prevented the engineer of the train from seeing them until it was too late to check its momentum, although on a heavy up grade, and the pilot struck Mr. Stephan on the head, fracturing his skull so badly that a portion of his brain oozed out. He was taken to the Hotel Albion and attended by Drs. W. D. Wells and J. T. Coonan, who saw at once that his injuries were fatal. He died shortly before 6 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, without having regained consciousness. Stories of foul play in the case have been current, but there seems to be no doubt that the circumstances were substantially as here stated, and upon these facts Justice William Moore, to whom the matter was referred, declined to hold an inquest, deeming it unnecessary. Mr. Stephan was a kindly-tempered man and had many friends. Unfortunately he was unable, at times, to resist the temptation to indulge in the use of intoxicants, but, notwithstanding this fact, there are few persons in this community who did not have a kindly regard for him and greatly deplore his weakness in this respect. He was about 36 years old and had been married, but his wife died a year or two ago, leaving no children. His remains were taken to the home of his mother, on Carroll street, where funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon, after which he was interred in Westminster Cemetery.

Union Mills Items.

In reply to the Bachman's Valley correspondent of the Advocate who makes some criticism on my item of a couple of weeks ago regarding the removing of the roof on the Shriver mill at this place, I have this to say: That I believe I can work simple subtraction as correctly as said correspondent, and that the mistake was an error of the type setter, who made me say that the old roof was put on the mill in 1856 instead of 1846, as I had written in my letter.

Mr. Harvey Tagg, who passed through a severe and prolonged attack of inflammatory rheumatism during the past winter, has now gained sufficient strength in his limbs to be able to accomplish a moderate amount of work, and a few days ago he re-lighted the fire in his blacksmith forge and has again opened up business at the old stand.

About 5.30 A. M. Wednesday this section was visited by a heavy thunder storm. Rain fell in torrents. Lightning struck the large hay packing shed of Mr. Ira Myers at Maple Grove and it was entirely consumed with all its contents. Mr. Myers had a large quantity of hay and straw ready for shipment, but a slump in the market kept him from shipping it for a week or so. He had stabling in the shed for his horse and cow both of which perished. Three new binders were put into the shed a day or so before by Mr. I. G. Cullison for a week's storage which also fell a prey to the flames; as did also a surry, hay press and fixtures, with quite a good sized stack of hay on the outside. We did not ascertain the amount of his loss, but he only had an insurance of $150 on the whole.

Some clover fields here are very good and most all clover is in full bloom. Timothy and meadow grass is very short and unless warm weather sets in, the general outlook is that the hay crop will be a very short one. Wheat and rye have just about finished blossoming and if we have favorable weather from now on until harvest time there will be a good wheat crop throughout this section of the county. Several persons have made hay in this neighborhood.
