1773-1774

SIDE TWO

because the Assumed to pay it only when a house he bought of Limes, was finished — which Mr. Lynch will prove — Mr. Carrol says, Mr Lynch assumed to pay last May — an Agreement between Limes & Mr Carrol — who bought the house for Mr Lynch

Mr Lynch objects to the charge for Expences to Patowmack because he conceives Mr Carrol went down to be cure a debt due from Nolan to himself — Mr Carrol says — he went down for no other purpose than to secure if he could Mr Lynch's Money by getting Nolan to send the Fish to Baltimore — and to avoid the Suspicion of being down on his own Acct. he there wrote a Letter in which Mr Lynch desires he would not call on Nolan the Forgery came in Instructions Mr Lynch's Instruction Feby 26. 1774 — Mr Lynch further says Mr Carrol went down on a party of Pleasure — Likewise the charge exorbitant — Mr Carrol says it actually cost him £6..18 good Pennys

Mr. Lynch objects to the list of outstanding debts is not satisfactory as not being accompanied with the Bonds & Notes — Mr Carrol says he'll deliver them when he is paid the ballance of his Acct. and those he does not deliver he'll make good

Mr Lynch objects to the charge £2.1.10 — it being for Rum & Sugar taken up by Capt. Jones of the brig Friendship & Capt. Forsey of the Betsey — the Acct. are not signed by the Capt.

Mr Lynch objects, that in the outstanding debts for the Fish that was delivered to Mr Carrol by Nolan to sell & the Proceeds to be applied to the Payment of Mr Lans Notes signed by Mr Lynch to Mr Carrol — there is a debt of £130.11 due from Capt. Christopher Limes — which Mr Lynch thinks Mr Carrol is liable for as he had no Authority to make any Payments to Limes on Acct. of the house

Mr Lynch's Objections to the charge of commission on the sums advanced by Mr Carrol from Sept. 29. 1773 to Feby 26. 1774

In Answer to which Mr Carrol says that he advanced £43.9.9 to Nolan more than the Amt. of the flax seed he lied from him — and at least ought to have Comm. on that — if not on the whole

Mr Lynch, That, Mr. Carrol paid only £32.5.3½ of the Cooperage Acct. of the whole was £69.6.6 consequently the ball. 37.1.2½ ought to be set of! to much of the above £43.9.9. considered

Mr Lynch's Objection to the charge of Com. on the sums £524.11.3. & £27.3.5 paid Garret Brown, because this was no transaction of Mr Carrol's, Mr Z bought the Vessel — and gave Mr Carrol Bills to negotiate to raise money for the Payment on which Bills he charge a Commission — In Answer to which Mr Carrol
