Sad Case of Drowning.

About 1 o'clock last Friday afternoon Mr. Thomas Page Wroth, youngest son of Rev. Dr. Peregrine Wroth, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Messiah, Fayette and Gay streets, Baltimore, was accidentally drowned in Myers' or Corbin's milldam, two miles southeast of this city. Young Wroth had been visiting his aunts, the Misses Wroth, at Winchester Place, for several days and soon after the noon hour went to the milldam mentioned for the purpose of swimming. He was a young man of fine physique and a strong and skillful swimmer and had come here from a visit to Atlantic City, where, it is said, he was in the habit of breasting the waves of the ocean far out beyond the safety line. With such a record it must have seemed to him that there could be no peril in venturing into a little millpond in the country, although, it is reported, he had been warned to exercise great care in doing so. Several smaller youths were with him at the dam and some of them were watching him from the bank. He swam across the dam and was returning, when suddenly he exclaimed, "I can't make it," was seen to dash water across his face with his hand and then disappear beneath the surface. He did not rise again and the boys promptly gave the alarm. During the afternoon and until nearly eight o'clock at night the search for his body was unavailing and it was then found by Mr. Wm. H. Grumbine, of this city, after a portion of the water had been drawn from the dam.

It is supposed that young Wroth was seized with cramp, which rendered him helpless and his companions were unable to rescue him. The water at the place where he went down is said to be not over ten feet deep, but the dam is fed by springs and its contents have a very low temperature. The unfortunate young man was not very well. He had walked to the scene and was probably somewhat overheated and the conditions all conspired to produce the cramp which caused him to drown. His parents were at Atlantic City and, upon being notified of the accident, returned to Baltimore, whither his remains were taken on Saturday morning. The funeral took place from Christ Episcopal Church, Chase and St. Paul streets, at 4 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, his uncle, Rev. Edward Wroth, assisted by the rector, Rev. E. B. Niver, officiating, and the remains were interred in Loudon Park Cemetery. At the hour of the funeral a memorial service was held at Winchester Place, this city, Rev. Frank M. Gibson, Ph. D., officiating.

Mr. Wroth was a young man of fine promise and exemplary character and while his untimely death is greatly deplored by a large circle of friends, sympathy for his bereaved and stricken parents and the other members of his family is deep and sincere. He was about seventeen years old.

Levi D. Maus, Sr.

Mr. Levi D. Maus, Sr., a retired farmer and one of the most prominent and prosperous citizens of Uniontown district, died at the home of his son, Mr. Levi D. Maus, Jr., near Frizellburg, on Tuesday evening at the age of 76 years, 9 months and 7 days. Mr. Maus was an active member of the Methodist Protestant Church at Uniontown and a very earnest and strenuous Republican. He was a man of decided intelligence, the strictest integrity and of irreproachable character and was held in the highest respect wherever he was known. He was twice married and his second wife survives him. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. LeFevre, of Littlestown, Pa., by his first marriage and the following children by his second marriage: Mr. Levi D. Mrs. Margaret E. Rinehart Tracy.

The startling announcement was made in this city shortly before 7 o'clock, Tuesday evening, that Mrs. Margaret E. Rinehart Tracy had died very suddenly while returning from a drive to the farm of her mother, Mrs. Caroline Rinehart, about a mile from the city limits on the Uniontown turnpike. The first report of her death created the impression that she had been killed in a runaway. This, however, was incorrect, apoplexy, superinduced by overexertion, excitement and fright, having caused her death. Her little niece Lillian, daughter of her deceased brother, Wm. E. Rinehart, was with her and was left in the vehicle while Mrs. Tracy was closing the gate at the entrance of the private road leading from the Uniontown turnpike to the farm buildings. While she was thus engaged the horse started off slowly and she ran after and caught the rear of the buggy, but the animal quickened his pace and she was unable to arrest his flight, to get into the vehicle, or reach the child. Finally she became exhausted, loosened her hold and sank to the ground, but immediately recovered. Just then Dr. Charles R. Foutz drove up and she besought him to save the child. He assured her he would do everything in his power to that end and hastened forward. The driverless horse was running at times, but opposite the residence of Mr. Peter Engart was caught by that gentleman and Mr. Edward Stonesifer, and the little girl rescued from her perilous position. Then Dr. Foutz drove back to the spot where he had passed Mrs. Tracy in the road and found her lying against the bank by the roadside. She was still living but died within half a minute after he reached her side.

The announcement of Mrs. Tracy's death was a great shock to the people of this city and elsewhere. She was widely known and had a large circle of friends. She was a lady of marked intelligence and was of invaluable assistance to her father, the late Wm. G. Rinehart, and since his death, to her mother, in the management of their affairs. For many years she had been the faithful leader of the choir of Grace Lutheran Church of this city. Her age was 45 years, 3 months.

Mrs. Tracy's husband, the late Frank E. Tracy, who was a member of the Carroll county bar, died nearly eighteen years ago. One son, Mr. Frank E. Tracy, her mother and one sister, Mrs. J. Pearre Wantz, of this city, survive her.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the residence of her mother, Rev. Calvin S. Slagle, pastor of St. Paul's Reformed Church, and Rev. Dr. H. L. Elderdice, president of Westminster Theological Seminary, officiating, after which the remains were interred in Benjamin's Cemetery. The pall-bearers were Messrs. B. F. Crouse, Chas. V. Wantz, Chas. N. Mitten, F. K. Herr, Abraham Price and Theo. F. Englar.

An Interesting Celebration.

On the evening of August 15, 1905, Mr. David E. Stem celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his career as a merchant of Sam's Creek, Md., by giving a watermelon party in the meadow near his residence. About five hundred people from the neighborhood and surrounding country, including children and grandchildren of his former early associates, responded to the invitations given and, as they approached the lawn, were greeted with music by the Union Bridge Band. The meadow was beautifully decorated with Chinese lanterns and waving flags, and as a full moon flooded the place, guests had no trouble in recognizing each other. Mr. Stem made a felicitous address which was greatly appreciated by the friends who had patronized him for the past fifty years, after which the crowd gave the cheer,

> What's the matter with Mr. Stem?
> He's all right!
> Who's all right?
> Mr. Stem's all right.
> Three cheers for Mr. Stem.

Much merriment abounded and as the company dispersed at a late hour, all over the grounds were heard remarks expressing satisfaction and pleasure at such a gathering.

Manchester Items.

The members of Manchester Rebekah Lodge No. 18, I. O. O. F., held their first outing and basket picnic in the grove near Maple Grove Station on Thursday, 10th inst. The morning was threatening, with sprinkles of rain, yet 28 of the members with a number of friends made the venture and had a good time from beginning to finish. As the evening proved pleasant a moonlight drive home, amid song and mirth, added to the enjoyment. The cooking department was O. K., the setouts were abundant and first-class, while the appetites were equal to the supply. An organ supplied instrumental music for the song and merriment which helped while away the fleeting time. The ice cream stand was well patronized and the profits added a neat sum to the treasury of the lodge.

Mrs. Louis A. Bixler, of Baltimore, who has been at the home of Mrs. M. L. Morelock for a month or more, gave a social to a large company of her cousins and friends among whom she had been visiting during her stay. Although she is an octogenarian and an invalid, she has enjoyed her visit very much, moving about in a rolling chair. The house was all ablaze for the occasion with the dining room nicely decorated with evergreens and flowers while the table appointments were fine. After the company had enjoyed several hours of social chat interspersed with song, Mrs. B., assisted by her niece, Mrs. E. H. Crouse, was escorted to the table, around which she had gathered 14 of her more aged lady friends who with her enjoyed the fine refreshments while the other friends were served in the parlor and sitting room. Ice cream, with cherry maraschino and cake formed the first course and was followed with nuts, confectionery, fruits &c., to which was added a refreshing punch, served from a massive bowl. Mrs. Morelock was assisted by her nieces, Mrs. LaMotte, Mrs. Hawk, Mrs. Gettier, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. C. J. Everhart, Miss Ross. Those of the company were: Mr. and Mrs. C. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. During the thunder storm on Saturday night, about 10 o'clock, lightning struck the home of Mr. Clinton Lippy, 1 mile S. W. of town, tearing out two rafters, splitting some of the framing timbers, tearing off weatherboarding and part of the ceiling in an upper room in which two little girls were sleeping, one of whom was not disturbed in her slumbers. Mr. L. had just gotten home and at first thought it was the barn, but sulphur fumes soon told the story. He went to the garret and found the above damage which is covered by insurance.

Last week as Mr. Samuel Kellar, an employer of the Masenhimer and Bergman carriage factory, was engaged in making a cushion he put a lot of tacks in his mouth as is the custom, and proceeded with his work. Being obliged to cough one of the small tacks slipped down his throat. He at once tried to remove it by coughing &c., but without avail. He consulted Dr. Preston, who found that it had lodged further down in the throat. On Friday he went to Glen Rock where Dr. Lutz put him under the X Ray and located it, but could not remove it without cutting. Mr. K. came home and on Saturday evening was seized with a fit of coughing that he thinks moved the tack, as he has not felt any inconvenience from it since.

Baseball.

The Patapsco Baseball Club defeated the Fowblesburg Athletic Club in an exciting and hotly contested game, 3 to 2, Saturday, 12th inst. Stub Brown, who helped Baltimore win the National League pennant in 1896, and who recently pitched for Frostburg, of the Cumberland Valley and Georges Creek League, was in the box for Fowblesburg, but was unable to keep the Patapsco boys from getting a few hits. They solved his twisters for 8 safe cracks. Fowblesburg could do nothing with Tracey's delivery. Tracey struck out 12 of the Fowblesburg batters and Brown struck out 6 of the Patapsco boys. Patapsco would like to hear from all strong teams of the county; Hampstead, Manchester, and New Windsor preferred. The Patapsco boys claim the championship of the county. Any teams which think otherwise will find us ready for a contest.

Gamber Items.

The entertainment given by the Junior League of Providence Church, on the 10th inst., was a decided success in every particular and much credit is due Miss Beulah Benson, who had charge of it. The following program was well rendered: Organ voluntary, Miss Alverta Benson; prayer, by Rev. Cassin; a beautiful cantata, the "Junior Garden;" solo, Lida Gamber; doll drill, by a number of little girls; recitation, The First Settler's Story, by Miss Alverta Benson; flag drill, by a number of boys and girls; recitations, Morris Gorsuch, Estella Brauning; address, by pastor, benediction.

Master Otis Gamber shot a crane in his father's meadow on Morgan's Run which measured 4 ft. 5 in. high and 5 ft. 10 in. across the wings.

Mr. Courtney Shipley is ill with typhoid fever.

Melrose Items.

The telephone seems to have been forgotten in the excitement of searching for iron ore, of which there is an abundance in the neighborhood. It is believed that some land belonging to Messrs. Jonas Royer, Amos Sauble and Emanuel Sellers has plenty of iron ore deposits. There are also some farms in Bachman's Valley said to contain large deposits of the valuable ore. If much ore shall be found the B. V. Railroad may be extended to Westminster. Should this come to pass it would double the value of property, and would make this a veritable little business center.

As Mr. Findlay, president of the Findlay Mining Co., and several of his workmen were loading cast iron on cars some of them had a narrow escape. While hoisting a 400-pound piece of iron with the engine, it was pushed too far and falling, Mr. Geo. Zepp, Sr., in trying to get away, got caught in a wire fence, lacerating his leg, and sustaining other injuries that will keep him from work for some time.

Last week Mr. Phanuel Wentz replaced his old wind pump by a new one sold by Mr. Utz, of Pleasant Hill. About twenty men gathered to help to raise it. The old frame was a modern one made by home talent but the new frame is steel, and will last a life time. The old wheel was put on the new frame, as it is one of the best in the county.

Mr. Amos Sauble showed your correspondent a peach that measured 10½ inches in circumference. We can testify that it was of delicious flavor, as we were allowed to test its juicy qualities.
