he added, anticipating the question he read in her eyes. 'Now I'm going, so good-night.'

'Wait a minute,' she said and she gave him an abounding kiss.

She did not get more than halfway into the parlor before Carter Keene began:

'I had to come to bring my apologies,' he said, without a preliminary word. 'When I saw you this morning I was daft—standing on the edge of a precipice, bereft of senses and seeing nothing but blackness. I ask your pardon.'

'There is nothing to forgive. Some great anxiety seemed to possess you. I hope your apprehensions were unfounded and that all ended happily.' She spoke with an affected calmness and indifference which did great credit to her powers of self-possession.

'I must tell you all about it,' he declared impetuously. It is like a romance out of a fairy book or a chapter from the life of your father.'

'My Father?' she asked.

'Yes. It was done just in his old way—done so quickly that it made heads swim. It was the Trust you know. They started their mills here to kill mine. They didn't kill. They repeated their original offer to buy my mill. I wouldn't sell. Then they planned to wreck. But they wanted to do it with skill—and planned overmuch. They put the alternative—to sell or buy. I knew their dodge. If they bought they would close down both mills. It meant an awful loss to the city. So I made my stand and banked on local support. It never entered my head that the banks would turn me down. But that is what they did—snubbed me full and flat—and there I was with the mills and no cash.

I was trapped, tricked—ruined. Then is when you saw me,—as I stood before you, my head stooped, my eyes were blind, everything was gone. I realized an utter hopelessness—for the Trust controlled the money of every bank in Sheffield. So I turned like a whipped dog and ran—to my office. But who do you suppose followed me there? Your uncle. I had thrown myself prostrate upon a lounge. He shook me like a great big mastiff. 'Carter,' he called, 'get up my boy! Get up! If you are in trouble, perhaps I can help you if it is money—' That was hope. But the amount—it was too great, I thought; still I asked him how much he would help. 'More than you need,' he said. And, bless your soul, he sat there as cool as a May morning, nodding his approval to everything I said, and ending it all with, 'We'll give your callers a surprise party at two o'clock. I'll be here.' And he was; and they were surprised—the saddest, most dejected-looking lot you ever saw. And now ——'

'And now—?' she repeated with a query.

'And now the banks are tumbling over one another with explanations and overtures. It was the crisis—the case of one man standing by me, God bless him! I shall worship his name as long as I live. It was in his Dalton blood—he could not help doing it—yes, it was in his Dalton blood.'

'Uncle Marshall is a fine generous man,' she said, 'and I am very glad he came to your rescue. How is the mill? Is it still rumbling her name?'

'Not rumbling but singing it—and the mill that belonged to the Trust has taken up the refrain. But if they sometimes ring in a note of thanksgiving and praise for your Uncle Marshall, you won't object, will you?'

'Certainly not. What have I to do with it?'

'What have you to do with it? he almost shouted as he arose and stood bending over her chair. 'Who else has anything to do with it? You know in your precious soul why I have made this fight, you know what has borne me up and urged me on, who has been my hope and my inspiration. You know I have toiled and strived for the moment when I could stand before you and—until this day I have had the fear that I might not make my goal, that something might happen to rob me of victory. But now I am safe. I fear nothing. The mills are mine.'

She looked up with a smile. 'Carter,' she said, 'I'm tired of hearing about mills. It is as bad as Uncle Marshall and business. You are both so dreadfully material and commercial. You——'

But he took her hands in his; from this vantage he moved to further triumph; his arm found its resting place, and in the words of love that followed, mills and business and Uncle Marshall faded away.

In the after years Uncle Marshall was not forgotten. His place of honor was sacred. And he never told Carter Keene or any one else who saved the mills—the mills which paid back all their indebtedness and made Keene a millionaire, irrespective of the money that still remains in the name of his wife.

The Reformed Church of the Redeemer at Littlestown, Pa., has been extensively renovated and beautified and a large pipe organ installed.

A Horse Thief Detective Association.

The Hanover, Pa., Association for Detecting Horse Thieves has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Jesse K. Wentz, president, re-elected for the twentieth year; E. G. Ritter, secretary; Jesse W. Garrett, treasurer; Levi Bang, John D. Schwartz, Edward Waltman, Henry Sterner, managers. Mr. Wentz was one of the managers of the association for many years before he was elected to the presidency. The association was organized before the Civil War, and its members comprise many well-known farmers living within 17 miles of Hanover and extending into this county. The society is conducted on the insurance plan, the members being reimbursed for the loss of a horse by theft. Each member brands his horses with the initials "H. A.," and when thieves discover this mark they usually release the animal, with the result that the association rarely has a loss. When a theft is reported to one of the managers, the civic authorities are first notified, and then certain members start in search of the thief and ride horseback for days until either the horse is recovered or the thief apprehended.

DEFERRED CORRESPONDENCE.

Manchester Items.

1906 came with unusual quiet, no shooting or noise of any kind. A large congregation was in attendance at Emanuel Lutheran Church at watch meeting services, conducted by the Rev. H. H. Flick, with a full choir. Mr. A. R. Wantz, of Lineboro, delivered an address; also Mr. U. Wantz, south of town, who spoke in the German language. At the home of Dr. L. Trump a company of 50 friends held watch meeting, enjoying the declining moments in singing &c., after which all were invited to the dining room, where abundant refreshments were enjoyed. New Year's day had a Sunday quiet although there was a great deal of calling and home enjoyment.

Mr. Ed. Zepp, 1½ miles north of town, was shooting New Year with a muzzle loading gun and while loading the same by hard ramming of the wad, it exploded tearing his hand quite badly in the palm. Dr. Sherman dressed the wound which is improving.

Mrs. M. L. Morelock entertained a large company of friends at her home on Friday evening, 29th ult.

Miss Lizzie Myers and Miss Lottie Lusnaur, of Baltimore, were guests at the home of Mrs. E. W. Fuhrman, during the holidays. Miss Maggie Fuhrman gave a party to a large company of friends in their honor and entertained them royally with refreshments.

Mrs. May C. Gettier entertained her Baltimore friends at a 4 o'clock dinner on Thursday. The appointments were fine throughout.

Miss Fannie G. Ross gave a dinner to visiting friends on New Year's day.

Miss Rachel Nace and Miss Nellie Painter, of Baltimore, were guests of Miss Norma Gettier for some days during the holidays.

Mr. H. T. Weaver, of Gettysburg, Pa., attended the funeral of his cousin, Miss Wine, last week. Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Ruby, of Baltimore, also were attendants and visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Oursler.

Messrs. Rob. Brilhart and Flavius Sullivan spent a week with Mr. Abraham Greider and family in W. Va.

Mr. Frank K. Herr and family passed the outgoing of the old and the incoming of the New Year with their home folks there the Trumps.

Miss Grimes, of Washington, D. C., was the guest of her friend, Miss Ada Trump, at Christmas.

Mr. Charles Bixler, of York, Pa., visited friends here several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. J. Everhart and son are visiting friends in Frederick.

Masquerading was heartily enjoyed during the ideal weather for a week or more. Some evenings a dozen or more groups were on the streets and enjoying calls in the homes.

Watersville Items.

The home of Mr. John E. Naill was the scene of a happy family reunion on New Year's day. The day was largely spent in religious conversation and singing sacred hymns. Chapter 5, St. Matthew's Gospel, was read by Mr. J. L. Naill and prayer was offered. It was a joyous time for all. At noon a sumptuous dinner was served and later cake, confectionery and lemonade in abundance. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John E. Naill, daughter Margaret and son John, Mrs. Joshua Burall, Mr. Jacob L. Naill, Mr. William D. Burall, wife and son Wilmer, Mr. Emory Lindsay, wife and daughter Virginia, Mr. Arthur Burall, wife and daughter Irene, Miss Emma Chaney. After best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Naill for a happy and prosperous year the guests departed to their homes.

Mr. Wm. Whaling was badly hurt last week by a tree which he had cut down falling on him. The tree stood close to his house and he had cut off a couple of limbs over the roof, leaving prongs about 18 inches long. This fact saved his life, as he was caught between the prongs, which prevented the body of the tree from crushing him.

The Watersville Sunday School Christmas entertainment was quite a success. A tree was loaded down with presents for the members. The young ladies presented the pastors, Revs. Harris and Jarboe, each, with a handsome rocking chair. Miss Annie Kroner had full control of the entertainment and deserves much credit for its success. A very interesting program of singing, prayer, addresses, recitations &c., was rendered, in which the ministers took part and Mr. Wm. Shipley made one of the addresses. Others taking part in recitations, solos, duets &c., were: Harry Smith, Bessie Harget, Wesley Pool, Alberta Pool, Fannie Hall, Vernon Lewis, Pearl Hood, Olivia Pool, E. Chaney, H. Hall, Evelyn Smith, James Haines, Edith Porter, Rosa Pool, Lillie Gillis.

Smallwood Items.

The Sunday School at Deer Park M. P. Church held a Christmas entertainment on Sunday night, 24th ult., and gave a treat to the pupils. The superintendent, Mr. Harry Buckingham, received a handsome scenery picture as a token of the people's appreciation of his services as superintendent for four years. The pastor of the church, Rev. Kittell, received in all $23 cash as a Christmas gift. The church was filled to its utmost capacity with people. The exercises were excellent.

There was a beautiful wedding at the parsonage on the 24th, Mr. Albert E. Smith and Icy D. Willis having been the contracting parties.

Miss May Koontz, who is teaching in the Bird Hill school; Miss Clara Coppersmith and Miss Carrie Paynter, teachers near here, each, in connection with their pupils, gave a nice entertainment on Friday before Christmas.

The Sunday School at the Lutheran Church treated pupils and rendered a nice program on Tuesday, 26th ult. Rev. Dr. Miller and wife were present, and a nice time was reported at this service also.

Centreville Items.

A few of the many friends of William D. Zile paid him a flying visit December 31st, I suppose to help him get away with some of the many good things that he had on hand to which they did ample justice. Those present were: Mr. William D. Zile, Mrs. Mollie Zile, Willie Zile, Paul Zile, Dewey Zile, Mrs. Anna Zile, Miss Edna Zile, Zolan Zile, Mr. E. E. Lovell, Mrs. M. E. Lovell, Walter Lovell, Clyde Lovell, Madison Lovell, Miss Elva Lovell, Earl Lovell, John Lovell, Fannie Lovell, Dewey Lovell, Lewis A. Koontz, Mary Koontz, William Garver, Janie Farver, Esther Farver, Harry Fossett.

Eldersburg Items.

Mrs. J. F. Auer spent a few days in Baltimore the past week.

Mr. Curtis Brown has a carbuncle on his neck but at present he is doing well.

Mrs. Wm. Deners has been quite sick with indigestion. Mrs. Stephen Shipley is confined to the house with a bad cold.

Christmas at the Alms House.

Christmas at the Alms House was a very bright and happy season to the inmates, and all expressed themselves as more than pleased with the kindness shown them. A genuine Christmas dinner, with cake and confectionery, was served to them on Christmas day, by Stewart Hann and his good wife, who manifest a personal interest in the unfortunate, aged and afflicted ones under their care, and whose stay amongst them, we earnestly hope, may continue, as it will be difficult to find any one more suitable for the place.

On Tuesday afternoon, the annual treat and Christmas service was given in the large dining room. The old people have learned to look forward to this, as the coming event of the year, and receive their little gifts with many expressions of thankfulness to the kind friends, who by their liberality assist us in providing it. In response to the request made through the papers, substantial gifts of money were received daily until Christmas day, not only from many friends in Westminster, and throughout the county, but also from our good friend, Mr. Lamothe of Cuba, who never forgets us, and from our old townsmen, Mr. Upton S. Hayden, whose heart still beats in sympathy with those of his native town, although for some years a citizen of another State. Many of these gifts came anonymously, including one from Glenville, Pa., but God knows the givers, and while I cannot thank them personally for their help in carrying Christmas joy to His poor, they can feel in their hearts, that they had a large share in making them so happy, for without their assistance the work could not be carried on. In addition to the gifts of money and cakes, thanks are due the following business firms for donations of merchandise: The Miller Bros. Co. Albaugh & Babylon, T. W. Mather & Sons., Babylon & Lippy, Messrs. Helwig, Joseph B. Boyle, George A. Bixler and Mrs. Jesse Smith. Fifty three persons, including the three County Commissioners, Hesson, Benson and Brown, Mrs. Brown, County Treasurer Hann and Mrs. Hann, Ex-Com. Dehoff and Mrs. Dehoff, met with the inmates at 2 P. M. and enjoyed with them, the bright Christmas service which had been prepared. This opened with the celebrated, "Glory Song," followed with prayer by Rev. L. F. Warner; reading of a Christmas poem by Miss Eva Rinker; vocal duet, "Jesus lover of my Soul," by Miss Bessie and Mr. George Armacost; recitation by Miss Mildred Warner; address by Rev. Dr. H. C. Cushing; anthem, And there were Shepherds, abiding in the field," Misses Bessie Herr, Bessie Armacost, Bessie Roberts, M. B. Shellman, Messrs. F. K. Herr and Geo. Armacost, soloist, Miss Bessie Herr, accompanist, Miss Helen Armacost; distribution of gifts and amusing exercises with a Japanese doll, by Mr. Northrop, closing with the appropriate hymn, "Count your Blessings" and Mizpah benediction. A short song service was held upstairs for the benefit of those who were unable to leave their rooms. And so another Christmas season has passed, and we enter upon the work of the New Year, feeling that the citizens of our dear old county are in sympathy with us, and that, although the Alms house must be the final home of many of our afflicted and aged citizens, they will not be cut off from the outside world, but will still have a part in the joy of those, who at Christmas share their blessings with them, remembering that he, whose birthday we celebrate, has said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me." With wishes for a Happy New Year to all.

Very Sincerely, "In His Name."

MARY BOSTWICK SHELLMAN.

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?

WESTMINSTER, April 10th, 1890.

MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:

Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very troublesome cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough, and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy I ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,

EDWARD LYNCH.
