SIDE TWO

transcends most of his years — be so kind as to thank Mrs Valancy when you have an opportunity for her letter, which I will answer (as she desires) before it be very long — I thank you for the Lamb & doubt not there being very fine, particularly as they have come early & of course will be in better preservation — for be c? easily trace that was the only fault of all you have been so kind to send me — now with that they were certainly superior to the English ones.
I shall send a cheese in the autumn & hope it will keep pace with the last — My friends the Caulets thank you for your constant enquiries — They are now thank God well in health & spirits — & again established in ease & comfort — I think I told you their father in Law Mr Patch who he & all the World thought one of the best & most correct of men had sold them of all their property, & left them beggars
They had four thousand P? a year, he was their agent & had gambled it all away in the Stocks — not a penny was left — I need not tell you what he will suffer — A Benevolent World has made it up to them, & their Annual income is little short of what it was — — & now my Dear Sister for this time Adieu
Mr B joins in kindest Affections to my Brother Yourself & children with yours very truly &
Sincerely R. Beesley — Compts to your Brother & Sisters family —
