SIDE ONE

Mrs Cheston

My Dr Mrs Cheston,

I wrote you a few lines in a great hurry a few days ago - to accompany the books Nancy had lent me - & have since recollected that I omitted to mention the one you wished to have from me - & now write again to tell you that Mrs Murray has it at present but that as soon as I get it from her it shall be forwarded to you - In the mean time perhaps we may have the pleasure of seeing you at Belvoir - I am sorry to hear that Fanny continues so much an invalid - & think an excursion from home would probably do her a great deal of good - You have I dare say heard that Fanny Reid
