SIDE ONE

My dear James, Annapolis,

We got here yesterday after a Journey to London or the second part of our Wagon Town expedition, Capt referred the draft, and had it not been for my Uncles horse and Jack to drive we should have been left half way from [illegible] in a quagmire, the promised [illegible] can afford it I must get a horse to match Dragon, Your Cousin Sam Ringgold accompanied us to Town and gave us every assistance, I am particularly concerned as I have no chance of going to Belvoir at least at present, and it was there we expected to have spent two or three agreeable days. Your Uncle John said
