The Firemen's Convention and Meet.

It is probable that the convention of the Maryland Volunteer Firemen's Association, held in this city this week, was as successful as any in its history. Most of the volunteer fire companies in the State were represented by delegates forming a body of intelligent and fine looking citizens numbering perhaps 150. The proceedings of the convention were, of course, of more interest to the firemen than to the citizens generally and were not largely attended locally. But Wednesday was one of the greatest days for Westminster in the history of the town. It was the day of the great firemen's parade, a demonstration never surpassed in the previous experiences of the place. Rarely if ever before have so many people thronged its streets and it is not an exaggeration to say that they numbered thousands.

Extraordinary interest had been manifested in the meeting of the convention here and the incidents attending it, especially the parade, of which a program was published in the SENTINEL last week.

The interest manifested by citizens of the town in the parade and other incidents of the convention found its expression in the decoration of their homes. In this feature all classes acted in concert, even the clergy displaying a desire to give a hearty welcome to the visiting firemen. There was a profusion of decorations, in which the national, State and firemen's colors were intermingled, and it was a rare thing to see a private house without some token of interest of this sort. The private exhibition, however, was surpassed in extent and profusion on the public buildings.

A feature worthy of particular mention was the arches erected by the Westminster firemen. There were four of them, and one erected by Messrs. Roberts, Roop & Co., all large and graceful in outline, tastefully and beautifully ornamented and brilliantly illuminated at night with electric lights.

Good Will Fire Company, of Lonaconing, with the Lonaconing City Band, arrived about 4 30 Tuesday afternoon and was the first visiting organization on the ground. Early Wednesday morning other companies came pouring in and from that time until the hour of the parade were marching and countermarching, with bands of music and drum corps, to the delight of the thousands who thronged the sidewalks.

The parade was formed in five divisions, as outlined in the program published last week and moved promptly at 2.30 o'clock, passing over the route designated. By actual count it is said there were over 1000 persons in line. As our readers are already acquainted with the order of march and the names of the chief marshal, assistants and aids, it is unnecessary to repeat them here. Let it suffice to say that the companies, without exception, marched with the precision of trained soldiers and presented a most attractive and gallant appearance. And they were cheered all along the route by the enthusiastic onlookers.

The sessions of the convention were held in the Court House, the first at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening. The body was called to order by the president, Mr. John DeP. Douw, of Annapolis, and was warmly welcomed to Westminster in an address by Dr. J. W. Hering, who represented the local authorities. President Douw responded briefly. While the committee on credentials was in session a stirring address was made by State Fire Marshal Lloyd T. MacGill, Jr. The reports of the president, secretary and treasurer were submitted and accepted and the session closed with the nomination of officers for the ensuing year.

President Douw stated that five additions had been made to the membership during the year, increasing the number of companies comprising it to 48.

The principal business of the convention at yesterday morning's session was the election of officers for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows:

President, Palmer Tennant, of Hagerstown.

Senior Vice-President, Charles F. Dahle, Veteran, of Baltimore.

One vice-president for each company comprising the association.

Secretary, J. Pearre Wantz, of Westminster.

Treasurer, G. Walter Wright, of Cambridge.

Board of Trustees for the State Appropriation, Wm. H. A. Hamilton, John J. Stump, John H. Cunningham, Philip E. Porter, John DeP. Douw.

The convention decided to accept the invitation of the Annapolis companies to meet in that city next year, and adjourned sine die.

Great interest attached to the contests for prizes during the meet and large crowds witnessed each event.

Some misunderstanding occurred in relation to the contest for the largest and best equipped company, including band and drum corps. The result was unofficially reported as a tie between the Hampstead Fire Company and Good Will Fire Company of Lonaconing, but the judges unanimously decided in favor of Hampstead and awarded that company the prize of $25. The Lonaconing Company demurred to the award and the Westminster Fire Department added another prize of $25 to the list and awarded it to that company.

Best Band—Lonaconing Military Band, $25. (The First Regiment Band, of Westminster, not competing.)

Hook-and-Ladder Contest—Independent Junior Steam Fire Company No. 3, Hagerstown, first ($75), time :37 11-15; Good Will Fire Company, Lonaconing, second ($25), time :37 13-15; Antietam Fire Company No. 3, Hagerstown, third, time :39 1-15.

Hose Race (open to the world; 250 yards)—Independent Junior Steam Fire Company No. 3, Hagerstown, first ($150), time :47 1-10; Good Will Fire Company, Lonaconing, second ($50), time :44; Antietam Fire Company No. 2, Hagerstown, ruled out on error.

Hose Race (open to association teams only)—Independent Junior Steam Fire Company No. 3, first ($75), time :38 1-15; Antietam Fire Company No. 2, Hagerstown, second ($25), time :42 1-20; Good Will Fire Company, Lonaconing, third, time :43 1-5. Distance 250 yards.

Drill Contest—In this contest Friendship Fire Company, of Chambersburg, Pa., was the only entry and was awarded the prize of $75. This drill was witnessed and much enjoyed by a large crowd of people.

The last event of the meet was the Trial of Speed, Horses with Apparatus. This took place this morning and the course was over Main street, from a point near Washington avenue to Center street, 650 yards. Two companies entered—Antietam Fire Company, of Hagerstown, and Roland Park Fire Company, of Roland Park. The Antietam Company won, $50—time 38 seconds flat. Roland Park Company second, time 54½ seconds.

Winfield Academy.

Commencement exercises at Winfield Academy were inaugurated on Sunday, May 27th, with a scholarly baccalaureate sermon by Rev. James Fraser, Ph. D., president of New Windsor College, and closed with the declamation contest on June 2nd. The trustees' medal for best work of the highest grade in the school was won by Grover A. Stem, youngest son of former County Commissioner John H. Stem. This exercise closed what is considered the best year in the history of the academy, and the outlook for the year 1906-1907 is most flattering to the management. Several of the students are in Westminster this week taking examination under Prof. Simpson for county teachers' certificates. The principal, Dr. George A. Steele, is visiting Doctor E. D. Cronk before returning to his home. The academy will reopen for the next year on Monday, Sept. 27.

Memorial Services.

Charity Lodge No. 58, K. of P., of this city, will hold a memorial service at Odd Fellows' Hall, on Sunday afternoon, 17th inst., for their deceased brothers. The exercises will consist of addresses, singing &c., and at their conclusion members will march to Westminster Cemetery and place a Pythian Flag and flowers on the grave of each deceased brother of the order in accordance with its ritual. The public is invited to attend the services.

Firemen's Convention Notes.

The convention meet was a great success.

In nominating Secretary J. Pearre Wantz for re-election, Mr. John H. Cunningham said it was largely due to his efficiency that every incident had passed off without a hitch. Mr. Wantz has certainly been an ideal secretary.

The five beautiful arches which were so admired by visitors and citizens, were erected under the supervision of Mr. Carroll Henry, chairman of the committee which had the work in charge.

Main street was crowded on Wednesday night with sightseers and firemen who had a merry time. Some of the visiting firemen paraded the streets, with music, until long after midnight.

The capacity of the railroad was severely taxed in handling the numerous visiting fire organizations.

Hampstead is justly proud of its young fire company which divided the honors with Lonaconing upon the appearance and number of its members present.

The parade was marshaled very ably.

It was a hot day, but the firemen seemed as fresh and vigorous at the close as they were at the beginning of the parade.

The old Baltimore Vets attracted much attention. Old in years as they are they marched with remarkable vigor and made a handsome appearance.

The crowd was large, but good order was maintained.

A couple of pickpockets found themselves in jail as the result of the vigilance of the city police.

Business houses generally did a thriving trade on Wednesday.

The Carroll county fire companies all made a fine appearance in their handsome uniforms.

The First Regiment Band took no part in the band contest, but was equal, if not superior to any musical organization in the parade.

Many former residents were among the visitors in this city who witnessed the parade on Wednesday.

Lonaconing's organization was the first to arrive and the Wm. Penn Hose Company, of Philadelphia, came second, both with well drilled and splendidly equipped firemen.

Camp No. 7, P. O. S. of A., in connection with the Sabbath School, decorated the graves on Sunday last. The camp has two members buried here and one at Frizellburg. It is the annual custom to observe Decoration day by the camp attending religious services in a body, after which service our local band heads a long procession to the cemetery, where not only the graves of the departed brethren are strewn with flowers, but every grave. It is a beautiful custom and has always been largely attended. Our cemetery being located on a hill one of our speakers drawing inference from the visits of Moses to the Mount, aptly compared these annual visitations to those of the ancient lawgiver, calling this the Mount of Meditation. The program of last Sabbath was as follows: Music, by P. V. Cornet Band; singing, Home of The Soul, by four young ladies; address, by W. R. Unger; essay, by C. L. Yingling, of Catawba College, "Our Sacred Dead;" recitation, by Norval Hahn, "Cover Them Over;" music, "Nearer My God to Thee," by Band; reading, by C. It seems there are some who oppose any enterprise that may come where it is badly needed. In regard to telephones one person remarked, "Only those people who do not know what to do with their money get the telephones."

It is indeed gratifying to learn from reliable sources that the Shrewsbury Mining Company has leased some of Mr. John Shaffer's land, in Bachman's Valley, and will begin prospecting for iron ore at once. If plenty of ore shall be found, the B. V. Branch R. R. will be extended to Westminster by the W. M. R. R., inside of a year, provided the Mining Company invests a certain sum for repairs. We believe the railroad will come the same as the telephone did.

Two Mormon preachers were here one day last week. Your correspondent has not learned of any conversions of our people to their faith thus far, although some were deeply impressed by their talk and the booklets they distributed.

Wentz's Union Sunday School, as it has done for more than 50 years, maintains its general interest throughout the neighborhood. Occasionally visitors from a distance are present.

"When will the trolley come?" did some one ask. We do not care for the trolley if we get the railroad extended to Westminster, and have express, freight and mail facilities as other towns of our size have, besides telephonic connection. No doubt the telegraph would also come. Let us encourage this new enterprise in every possible way.

Instead of condemning our turnpike, now a county road, we hear on all sides that it is now a pleasure to drive over it where once it was dangerous.

On Sunday, June 17th, Wentz's Union Sunday School will decide when they will have their annual celebration. All the officers are expected to be present.

The Pleasant Hill Band gave us some excellent selections, as it passed through here on Monday evening, which were much enjoyed by our citizens.

Whit Monday, Manchester's great festal day, is numbered with the past and proved to be one of success. The day was ideal, the crowd large and well behaved so that the officers had no trouble in handling it to the convenience of all. The firemen had made full arrangements to entertain the people while the ladies of the auxilliary did well their part, both in the Firemen's Hall and at booths on the pavements, where sandwiches, coffee, ice cream and confectionery were served, while the cane and knife booths were well patronized. The Alesia Band was on hand early and did much to enliven the occasion. Prof. Castile was here upon the platform on the square where he entertained the crowd during the afternoon and evening with slight of hand and acrobat amusements. The Pleasant Hill Band put in an appearance about 10 A. M. and helped to enliven matters all along the line. About 1.30 P. M. the firemen, in full uniform, took up the line of march, headed by the bands. A representative of the Birds on horseback also fell into line followed by a coach in which the Doolys, in fantastic dress, with horns, made a good hit. At night a dance was given in the I. O. O. F. Hall, that was well patronized. Upon the whole the affair was a success, socially and financially. Many homes almost required hotel accommodations for the entertainment of friends, even to 21st cousins.

The members of Daniel and Jacob Lodge No. 23, I. O. O. F., held memorial and decoration services in their hall on Sunday afternoon that were largely attended. They had with them Sovereign Grand Secretary Goodwin, Grand Secretary Wm. A. Jones, and Past Grands North and Groom, of Baltimore. The Alesia Band furnished the music. At 2.30 the members filed into the hall and took seats upon the stage and the following program was then rendered: Music, Band; singing, Opening Ode; prayer, Chaplain, J. W. F. Burgoon; singing, America; address, P. G. North; music; address, S. G. Secty. Goodwin; music; singing, "God be with You till we meet again," after which the line of march was taken up headed by the band to the cemetery, where 47 graves of deceased brothers were strewn with flowers. The gathering there was about 800 persons and graves in general were decorated by friends. These annual occasions have awakened an interest in cemetery work as never known before, and many neglected and forsaken plats are neat and well attended. The grand secretary, in his address, eulogized the grand work the Rebekah branch of the order has done and is doing on the Pacific Coast, where distress was wide spread, thus giving encouraging words to the members of Manchester Rebekah Lodge No. 18, who were present and participated in the exercises.

At the annual election of Daniel and Jacob Lodge No. 23, I. O. O. F., the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Noble Grand, T. D. Hare; Vice-Grand, John W. Burns; Rec. Sect'y., H. F. Leese.

The horse and buggy of Mr. Bud Hare were stolen on Monday from the alley in the rear of Ex-Sheriff's Wilson's residence, where they had been left to stand. Mr. Hare at first supposed some one was playing a joke on him, but realizing that the team had disappeared and learning that it had been driven in the direction of Hanover, followed and recovered it. The horse was running at large and the buggy had been traded.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bubb and daughter, of Glen Rock, Pa, were here on Thursday of last week and left for home after a thunder shower had passed. When they reached Pennsylvania they got into a section in which hail had fallen and lay to a depth of two inches on the ground. They drove through the hail belt for a distance of two miles and found grass and grain badly damaged.

Misses LaRue and Eva Herr and friends, of Westminster, were guests of the Misses Trump.

Mrs. Seranda C. E. Shaffer, of Glen Rock, is visiting friends here.

Our medical students, Messrs. Denner, Miller and Masenheimer, are home for the summer vacation.

B. F. Crouse, Esq., of Westminster, was here on Monday among friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Everhart entertained Mr. Geo. P. Panebaker and family on Monday.

The Sunday School convention met in Trinity Reformed Church of this place on Tuesday evening, Rev. S. M. Roeder conducting the devotional exercises. Mr. J. P. Garner, of Linwood, county secretary, then took charge of the convention and introduced Dr. Babcock, of Baltimore, who spoke from the Text, "And Jesus called a little child, &c." State Secretary Nock then led the closing exercises. On Wednesday morning the convention met at 9.30. Mr. Theodore Shearer, of Grave Run, conducted the opening exercises. Secretary Garner then introduced Rev. S. M. Roeder, who welcomed all in a most pleasant address embodying in it the very keynote of the meetings, which was responded to by Secretary Nock. Social questions were presented for discussion, as follows: Rev. Flick, How can we interest members of the church to become workers in the Church and Sunday Schools? Answer by Rev. Babcock. Supt. J. W. F. Burgoon, How can we get persons of the S. S. to read the Bible? Answer by Secretary Nock. [illegible] Answer by Secretary Nock. [illegible] Answer by Secretary Nock. [illegible] Mr. T. Shearer, How to teach little folks from 5 to 9 years to the best advantage in country churches?

The convention met in the Lutheran Church on Wednesday afternoon. Supt. J. W. F. Burgoon conducted the devotional service. Pres. Garner then introduced the subject of The Teacher—On his knees, by Rev. H. H. Flick; In his study, by Pres. Garner; Before his class, by Sect'y. Nock; Between Sundays, by Mr. George W. Yeiser, of Union Mills. Round Table work on school problems was conducted by Sect'y. Nock and questions discussed by Revs. Babcock, Zuse, Flick and Thomas. The evening session was largely attended. Rev. Zuse conducted the devotional service. Rev. Babcock, Ph. D., then addressed the audience on the subject, "The Sunday School an Evangelizing Agency." The plea for Home co operation was practically given by Sect'y. Nock. Districts No. 3 and 6, of this county, were made into a S. S. district and Mr. George M. Yeiser was chosen president, with power to appoint his own officers. After a vote of thanks to the ministers and friends for their kindness and entertainment the convention adjourned.
