It does not seem to be generally known that private mailing cards entitled to pass through the mails with a one cent stamp affixed must conform closely to the government postal card. They must be of the same material and not exceed in size the largest of the regular postals. Postmaster Baughman informs us that the leather cards in use are liable to postage at letter rates.

Mr. A. P. Frizzell, whose barn was struck by lightning on the 11th inst., and destroyed, is already preparing to rebuild, and has a sawmill at work getting out the timber for the new structure. The loss on barn and contents was very promptly adjusted by the Dug Hill Company, in which the property was insured, and just one week from the day of the fire Mr. Frizzell received a check from the company for $2,399.70—$1200 of which was for the barn and the remainder for the contents.

We notice that Chaplain Hicks, of Dorchester county, has been appointed to a scholarship at the Maryland Agricultural College, and incline to the opinion that he is a grandson of Gov. Thomas Holliday Hicks, whose course as executive of Maryland in 1860-61 probably prevented the secession of the State. Gov. Hicks youngest son was named Bond Chaplain and the name has a familiar sound to those who were intimate with the Governor's family at that time.

Church at Mt. Airy Destroyed.

The Methodist Episcopal Church South, at Mount Airy, was destroyed by fire about midnight on Sunday last, causing a loss of about $4,000 upon which there was insurance of $2,500. The church cabinet organ and a few books were saved. The fire originated in a singular manner. After the evening service the sexton attempted to lower the chandelier to extinguish the oil lamps, and the rope broke and the chandelier fell and was smashed. Burning oil set fire to the floor, but it was extinguished. A sharp projection at the bottom of the chandelier pierced the floor, through which some of the oil ran, and it is supposed that a sheet of flame went through and ignited the timbers under the floor. The fire ran along these to the wall, catching the woodwork in the wall and communicating with the roof several hours later. The pastor, Rev. S. A. Parker, states that the church will be rebuilt without delay.

About a mouth ago, accompanied by his wife, he went to Concord hoping to have his health benefited by a change of climate. He had been suffering for a long time with disease of the liver. Mr. Bradford was a member of the Baltimore bar and his home was 917 McCulloh street. He was a man of ability but of retiring disposition and therefore took little if any part in political affairs. His remains were brought to Baltimore and after funeral service at his late home, interred in Greenmount Cemetery.

Mrs. Brown was a member of St. John's (Leister's) Lutheran Church and a very estimable woman, whose many friends were greatly shocked and saddened by her sudden death. Great sympathy is felt for her bereaved husband and children in their severe affliction. Her funeral took place from St. John's Church yesterday morning, her pastor, Rev. R. W. Doty, officiating. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Joseph Stoner, Jesse Snyder, John Schweigart, John C. Hively, Jacob Wantz, and George Bell. Mr. F. C. Sharrer was funeral director.

Rev. James R. Cadden.

Rev. James R. Cadden, who was known to many persons in this county nearly fifty years ago, died on Friday last at his home at West Arlington, near Baltimore, in his 79th year. Mr. Cadden was a clergyman of the Methodist Episcopal Church and a son of Rev. Robert Cadden, one of the early preachers of that denomination in this country. He was born at Shepherdstown, W. Va., January 19, 1828, and was educated at Dickinson College. One account states that he entered the Baltimore Conference in 1858, but some of the older citizens here state that he was junior preacher on the Westminster Circuit before that date. Whether that be correct or not it is a fact that he was one of the pastors on the circuit at one time and also served the Liberty Circuit which is said to have been his first charge. Other stations and circuits of which he was pastor are Gettysburg, Pa.; Mount Vernon, West Harford, North Baltimore, Hereford, Piedmont, W. Va.; Woodberry, Govans, Hill Street, Baltimore; New Windsor and Patapsco.

Mr. Cadden was a man of strong and earnest convictions and bold and courageous in maintaining them. He was twice married, we believe, and his second wife, who was a Mrs. Stouffer, of New Windsor, survives him. He leaves two daughters—Misses Bessie B. and Isabelle Virginia Cadden—three sisters—Mrs. Robert D. Thompson, Mrs. Anna R. Hause and Miss Frances M. Cadden, and one brother, Mr. Joseph H. Cadden, of Washington, D. C. He had been retired from the active ministry for the last 15 years. Funeral services were held at his late home on Monday, and his remains were interred in Loudon Park Cemetery, Baltimore, Rev. Harry France and Rev. Wm. H. Chapman officiating.

Tyrone Items.

Our farmers have finished gathering in their crops of rye, barley, oats and wheat, all of which have been garnered in good condition. Very little threshing has been done here yet. Mr. G. C. Harman has had his crop of wheat threshed, which averaged twenty-eight bushels per acre. We have reason to believe the crop just housed is a very good one and the farmer will be richly remunerated for his labor.

Miss Elizabeth Little, of Westminster, has been visiting friends and relatives in this community.

The Baust Church Sunday School will hold its annual celebration in the grove of Mr. Jacob Rodkey, Jr., near Tyrone, on Saturday afternoon and night, August 11. The Pleasant Valley Band will furnish the music. Prominent speakers have been engaged.

Mr. George C. Harman, who has been a sufferer on account of his old wound, received at the battle at the Weldon R. R., Va., in the summer of 1864, is not improving any, but has the consolation to know that he is not forgotten by his friends and neighbors. Up to the present time 75 have visited him. Last Sunday not less than 18 were to see him during the day. This is very encouraging to him and speaks well for the people of this community in which he resides. Mr. Harman passes his time and has adopted this as a daily rule: In the morning he reads several chapters in the Bible, after which he breakfasts, which is brought to his room. Then he reads a chapter or two in the "Life of Christ," and several other good books that have been kindly loaned to him by his friend, Mr. D. H. Hahn. Then he reviews his former school books, especially that of Book-keeping. Friday of each week brings him the National Tribune, and Saturday the contents of the good old Sentinel are devoured with a relish. So he contrives to while away his time that would otherwise be monotonous, and says he is glad that he early formed the habit of seeking society in books.

Rev. Martin Sweitzer will preach at Baust Church next Sunday morning, at 10 o'clock. The Baust Church Reformed choir has been billed to sing an anthem at the reunion, to be held at Taneytown, on August 16. That, however, will depend on the condition at that time of Mr. Geo. C. Harman, the leader.

A game of baseball was played here on Saturday that carried with it more than a passing interest. It was to have been Patapsco against Manchester, but it was really Patapsco against Patapsco. It appears that they had a dissension in their ranks some weeks ago and the Tracys and Spencers withdrew so that when the game was called on Saturday they were in line against their former fellow members. It looked very much as if it was a battle between pitchers Tracy and Chew. When umpire Baltzer, (one of our boys but now of the Scranton Commercial School, who is home on a vacation,) called the game, the following lineup responded:

Patapsco		Manchester
Chew	p.	Tracy
Barnhart	c.	Theiret
Flater	1 b.	Folgert
Taylor	2 b.	Miller
Bean	3 b.	Spencer
Zepp	s. s.	R. Spencer
Oursler	l. f.	Hoffman
———	r. f.	Wink
Spencer	c. f.	Wells

The score was 8 to 9 in favor of Manchester.

The ladies of the 1906 Sewing Circle had an outing and picnic on Thursday of last week at Morelands spring, east of town, when a good social time was enjoyed by all, in laughter, song and fun in general. A plentiful supply of things to tempt the appetite was placed upon the cloth about 6 P. M., and 74 persons enjoyed a sumptuous supper, with hot coffee, after which all were grouped and photographed.

Wentz's Union S. S. has made a new feature in the matter of festivals. The festival on Saturday evening, the 31st, in Crumrine's grove, will start at 5 P. M., thus giving the small children and those not wishing to remain for the night a chance to enjoy themselves.

Anyone who has not yet purchased one of Noah S. Zepp's books should send him a dime and they will not regret it. Address him at Melrose, Md.

Mr. Jesse Leese dropped in to see your correspondent one day last week. He had been repairing the old pipe organ in the Catholic Church in Manchester. He says the organ is one of the oldest in the community having been built in England, over 100 years ago. In the course of our conversation we learned that Mr. Leese was one of the men who helped to organize Wentz's Union S. S. nearly 60 years ago, and was superintendent of the school for a number of years.

Mr. Nathaniel Shaffer was recently puzzled to know why so many eggs disappeared from his hens' nests, even the nest eggs going. He set a trap and next morning was rewarded by seeing something in it that his dog wouldn't tackle. The animal proved to have been a fine specimen of the skunk family. It will eat no more eggs.

Sterner Bros., of Black Rock, have made the sawing and threshing business a success. They have purchased a new Geiser engine and a new threshing outfit for the summer season's work. Imprisoned under a tree that had fallen upon him in the mountains, near Sabillasville, a few days ago, Benjamin Law begged his companion, Frank Wise, to take an ax and chop his legs off. Instead, Wise hurried for a physician. When Law had been liberated it was found that while both his legs were broken and badly crushed, they may be saved. Dr. Wachter believes that eventually Law may regain the use of them. Law and Wise were after honey when the accident occurred. It was while they were cutting into the tree that it fell and caught Law.
