The SENTINEL has received notices from numbers of its subscribers giving information of the R. F. D. routes upon which they are located under the new adjustment of the service which went into effect on the first instant, and some of the carriers have also given similar information. In all such cases the paper will be mailed to the new address. It is hoped, therefore, that having this knowledge and with the co-operation and assistance of postmasters and carriers patrons will receive their papers promptly. It is very desirable, however, that the mailing list should be made up accurately throughout and subscribers are, all who have not yet done so, respectfully requested to inform us of the numbers of the routes upon which they are located under the new arrangement, and in doing so, to state the numbers of their routes heretofore. It is probable that some changes will be made in the present arrangement, as an inspector of the P. O. Department is now in the county endeavoring to correct obvious mistakes.

While Miss Ethel Streaker, daughter of Mr. Ambrose Streaker, near Daniel, was on her way home from the Good Templar's picnic, in that vicinity, on Saturday evening last, she was struck on the head with a stone thrown by some unknown person, and narrowly escaped fatal injuries. There were several persons in her company when the stone was thrown. She and two other ladies, one of whom is her sister, were walking together; her father and another gentleman were a few steps in advance of them and her mother and others a short distance behind them. The stone must have been thrown with great force and murderous intent, as it cut through a heavy braid of her hair and made a long wound in the scalp penetrating to the skull. The noise of its impact with the lady's head was so great that some of the persons in the party thought a pistol had been fired. The stone struck near the top of the head and back of the ear. Dr. E. D. Cronk, who attended the wounded lady, is quoted as saying that if the blow had been near the temple the skull would have been crushed and the injury fatal. As it was, Miss Streaker was in a semi-conscious and dazed condition for some time, but is improving. A stone, which is supposed to have been the one thrown, as it was bloody, was picked up in the road and found to weigh about a pound. If the miscreant who threw it could be discovered he should be convicted of assault with intent to murder and be sentenced to a long term of imprisonment in the penitentiary. Miss Streaker is an estimable and highly respected young lady and no cause for the assault can be conjectured.

On Friday evening of last week lightning struck the barn on a farm owned by Ex-Judge Wm. Y. Frizzell, set it on fire and completely destroyed it, with its contents, consisting of wheat, hay and farming implements. The farm is tenanted by Mr. Charles E. Corbin, who was the owner of the personal property burned. The loss on the barn is about $700, upon which Judge Frizzell had $500 insurance in the Dug Hill Company. Mr. Corbin's loss, amounting to $500, is fully covered by insurance. The barn was near Warfieldsburg.

Promoted.

The friends of our former young sailor townsman, Mr. Harry Huber, will probably be glad to learn that the young man has recently been promoted to chief electrician in the Navy. He is still on the cruiser "Maryland," now lying off New York. In a letter to his father he furnishes the itinerary of the forthcoming cruise of his squadron abroad. It covers Gravesend, Eng.; Cherbourg, France; Lisbon, Gibraltar, Naples, Malta, Algiers, Suez Canal, Aden, Colombo, Singapore, China, Japan and the Philippines. The squadron will leave for the cruise about the 24th of September. Harry says that his present enlistment will expire before the end of the cruise. Colored Odd Fellows.

Brotherly Love Lodge No. 6047, Grand United Order of Odd Fellows is the title of an organization which is quietly doing a good work in its efforts to raise the standard of morality and conduct among the colored people of this city. Its doors, we are informed, are tightly closed against the turbulent, unruly and intemperate element of the race, but open promptly to any who are seeking to lead reputable and worthy lives, whatever their past may have been.

The lodge, on Sunday afternoon last, had a public parade and held a meeting at Odd Fellows' Hall; which was largely attended by colored men and women and also by a number of prominent white citizens. A number of the officers of the Grand Lodge of the order, and others from a distance were present, among them twenty-one swords of Patriarchy No. 9, Baltimore, under the command of Capt. Harry Franklin, who joined in the public procession.

The meeting at the hall was opened with prayer by Rev. Perry G. Walker and a sermon was delivered by Rev. G. D. Johnson, pastor of Westminster Circuit, Colored M. E. Church, while addresses were delivered by Ex-District Grand Masters Alexander Hemsley, Julius C. Johnson, of Baltimore; District Grand Master Joseph H. Garrett, of Arbutus; District Grand Secretary Jesse L. Nichols, of Govanstown; District Grand Treasurer Alfred A. Mitchell, of Baltimore; District Grand Director John A. Williams, of Hagerstown; Capt. Harry Franklin, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Mary Burkett, of Reisterstown, governor of the Household of Ruth, No. 1484.

The exercises were interspersed with music by a choir led by Miss Nettie Walker, organist, assisted by Miss Edna Cooper. Miss Walker and Miss Hattie Brightful sang solos. Edward Waller was master of ceremonies. The stage was handsomely decorated with the national colors and otherwise.

The officers of Brotherly Love Lodge are: N. G., Thomas W. Bruce; V. G., Jabez Powell; E. Sect'y., Ernest Warfield; marshal, Wm. Morgan; N. F., Harold Harden; P. S., Edward Waller; chaplain, Elmer Cross.

The Taneytown Grange Picnic.

The principal event at the farmers' picnic in Ohler's grove, near Taneytown, on Saturday, last was the address of Governor Warfield, the most interesting feature of which was his review of the State finances. He told how, in its liberality toward internal improvements, the State had piled up a debt of many millions of dollars until, in the early 40s, a repudiation sentiment was developed, but was suppressed by the election, in 1844, of Thomas G. Pratt as Governor. After giving in detail the several objects for which the debt of the State, which in 1851 exceeded $15,000,000, was contracted, Governor Warfield was able to assure his hearers that the debt at this time only amounts to about $6,000,000; that against this the State has $3,000,000 in its sinking funds, and receives an annuity of $90,000 from the Northern Central Railway which he believes can be sold for not less than $3,000,000. These assets are, therefore, sufficient to wipe out the entire indebtedness and the Governor is in favor of pursuing that policy.

Congressman Talbott, who is the Democratic candidate for re-election, was present at the picnic also, and made one of his characteristic speeches to the entertainment and amusement, if not to the enlightenment, of the audience. He had the bad taste, not to say impudence, to introduce a political subject before a promiscuous assemblage.

A Heavy Rainstorm.

About the heaviest rain storm experienced in this locality since the Johnstown flood in 1889, occurred yesterday. Copious showers fell at intervals beginning at a very early hour and continuing until 8 or 9 o'clock in the evening. Most of the streams throughout the county overflowed their banks, fields and roads were badly washed and damaged and travel for the time being interrupted.

Trains on the main line of the Western Maryland Railroad were delayed by the washing away of a trestle at Union Bridge, and no mails were received by rail in this city after the early morning. No train came from Baltimore after the noon hour until 8 o'clock P. M., and none went to that city after the early morning. It was currently reported during the day that a washout of the track between New Windsor and Linwood had occurred, but this morning the report was denied. A report was also current that the track in the neighborhood of Arlington was flooded and damaged and that no trains were able to pass over it after that which arrived here at 8 o'clock.

Other reports are to the effect that water in Little Pipe creek, at Union Bridge, usually 10 feet below the trestle washed away, rose 12 feet, far higher than the record high-water mark, it was reported, and was surging and swirling over the bridge, bringing with it huge trees and pieces of timber, making passage impossible. The "meadow," as the valley is known, is half a mile wide at this point and the entire country was inundated.

The entire country about Union Bridge was flooded, small streams of 12 and 15 inches depth were small rivers, with 10 and 15 feet of water. The farms are badly damaged and the road about Union Bridge is lined on both sides by streams and in many places covered with debris washed from points for miles. The "meadow" valley was a small sized bay and the creek was at least 12 feet, washing over the bridge, which has been jacked up from the buttresses of stone preparatory to rebuilding.

No damage was reported on the Harrisburg division and through trains were shunted to that line, but, for some, reason were delayed for a long time in transit.

Two washouts on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad between Baltimore and Frederick were reported. One occurred between Relay and Ellicott City, and one track was completely blocked. Several local trains were delayed by having to be shifted to the open track.

The other was near Frederick Junction, where 50 feet or more of embankment slid down on the tracks. The company sent special crews to the washouts, and it was thought that before the night was over the tracks would be open.

At Ellicott City the Patapsco rose to within four feet of the mark made at the time of the Johnstown flood.

The river at Alberton was dammed up by debris at a late hour, and it was feared the dam would give way. The Patapsco mills had to shut down at 2 P. M. because of water in the engine rooms. Water covered the Frederick road from the Baltimore and Ohio depot to Grays.

The town was in darkness because the water flooded the plant of the Patapsco Electric Light and Power Company.

At Ilchester the Baltimore and Ohio railroad bridge was covered with debris which floated down the stream. The tunnel at Ilchester and Oella were reported damaged.

After the hurry and bustle of another busy harvest season our farmers are breathing more freely and enjoying a short period of off time with wheat, hay and oats under shelter, and corn growing out of sight giving promise of a large yield. With quite a good lot of fall plowing done they are in good trim for campmeetings and picnics that are now attracting every community of this section to the large gatherings week after week.

On Monday evening a company of friends enjoyed a moonlight strawride to Maple Grove and Greenmount and about 9 P. M. stopped at the home of Mrs Maggie Fuhrman, on York street, where arrangements were made for a corn roast that was much enjoyed. It was followed later by refreshments of cake, coffee and fruits, all well enjoyed with plenty of fun until a late hour, when the good nights were said.

On Tuesday evening Mr. Lippy came into town with a large wagon well filled with straw and drove to the home of Mr. John E. Masenhimer where his Sunday School class and a number of friends embarked for a straw ride to the home of Mr. Dora F. Stricklin, east of Maple Grove, at which they enjoyed a bountiful supply of his fine ice cream. The drive was then continued to Hampstead amid the music of horns and song which the misses of the class much enjoyed. The midnight hour was fast coming in sight when home was reached.

Tuesday evening we had the first act in the backward move of the R. F. D., which our people enjoyed for six years. It was the taking down of the mail boxes on the street and the crushing under foot of the free delivery in town. Six years ago the kickers and growlers who imagine they own the town were cursing the officials and any one who favored the advanced movement. Now they are chuckling up their sleeves that by misrepresentations they brought about the doing away of something that every good citizen enjoyed. We do not see the glory in it, but, no doubt they think it will be a jewel in their crown of bossism. The Melrose early mail is cut off and No. 26 is now a star route with Mr. H. N. Burgoon continued as the carrier at a reduction of $220 for the same service. Uncle Sam must be hard up to ask one of his servants to do the same labor for so much less money. Why make fish of one and flesh of another? We think we see the "nigger in the wood pile."

Rev. and Mrs. S. M. Roeder and son visited friends in Pennsylvania last week, Mr. Roeder remaining during Sunday.

Mr. Harry Beltz and daughter, of York, with Mrs. Dr. Bardwell, of Baltimore, are visitors at the home of Mrs. B's. sister, Miss Emma V. Shower, on York street, Miss Emma is very much indisposed at this time.

Mrs. Luther Shaffer, of Woodberry, is visiting her cousins, the Misses Bixler, on North Main street.

Miss Edna Baker is visiting her sister and friends, of Thurmont.

Mrs. Chas. Lippy and daughter, of Westminster, are visiting friends here, Mr. L. being engaged in taking stock in his Snydersburg store.

Mrs. J. M. Motter is visiting the family of Mr. H. T. Weaver, of Gettysburg.

Dr. J. H. Preston was attacked with dysentary on Friday last that has taken him from his professional duties.

Miss Lela Albaugh and aunt, Miss Mary Bixler, are visiting friends in York.

Mrs. N. W. Sellers, of York, is visiting her sister, Miss Laura Burns, who has been ill with bronchial trouble.

The families of the Messrs. Burgoon, Claude R. H. Hoffman, Lewis Deinst, Misses Lynerd, Brilhart and Wink, and Mrs. Berry, of this place, are tenters at Penn Grove Camp.

Should a stranger pass along our streets he would be led to believe that this is a dogless town. The authorities have changed the dog ordinance of a year ago and set the mill so close that none can escape. No dogs are allowed to run at large even after they are tagged and licensed, under a penalty to the owner of $5.00. It went into effect on the 1st inst., and the streets are deserted. The regular dog loafers are somewhere in hiding while many owners are saying words not suitable for a Sunday School class. Yet the world moves on.

Workmen are improving the house of Mr. Rob Shower by putting in large windows with a large bay window over the front door.

Mrs. Kolcher and son, of Baltimore, are visiting Mrs. K's. sisters, Mrs. H. R. Rohrbaugh and Mrs. W. Burgoon, and with Mrs. Rohrbaugh spent Wednesday with their sister, Mrs. H. T. Wentz, Lineboro.

The parents of Mr. David Myers have been informed that he is employed in a pulp mill, at Horton, Va., at present, but has not yet decided to make Va. his home.

Dr. Foutz, of Westminster, was in town last week looking after the sanitary conditions of the same along the alleys. He found the slaughter house conditions O. K., but some pig-pen conditions were subject to notice to the proprietors.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins Granger, of Baltimore, were visitors at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Dr. J. H. Sherman, last week, Mrs. G. remaining this week.

Our people were divided in attendance at the picnics of Millers and the Hampstead Firemen; 23 members of our fire company in full uniform were in the line of march on Saturday morning, headed by a Hanover Band.

WEDDING BELLS.

Hoffmaster-Hoffmaster.

Mr. Thomas Hoffmaster and Miss Bessie M. Hoffmaster, both of Granite, Baltimore county, were married by Rev. Vernon N. Ridgely, at Emory Methodist Episcopal parsonage, on Wednesday. Mr. Hoffmaster, father of the bride, gave her away.

Emory Grove Camp Meeting.

Emory Grove camp-meeting will open on the 9th inst. and continue until the 24th. Rev. A. F. Campbell, formerly a pastor of the New Windsor circuit, will have the direction of the services and in securing talent therefor our county people figure very largely. For the Junior Hour, Mrs. Saml. K. Herr, Miss M. Test Buckingham, with a sextette of instrumentalists from Westminster; Mr. Pearce Snyder, of Union Bridge, and Mr. U. G. Heltibridle, of New Windsor, will certainly add much to the attraction for this year.

The W. M. R. R. is granting concessions to those who are going to camp.

Dr. Gilbert, of Berwick, Pa., will lecture and preach the first Saturday and Sunday, while on Saturday, the 18th, the Epworth League will have entire charge of the day. No doubt the Methodist young people will have a great rally.

Dr. C. M. Boswell, of Philadelphia, will preach on the 18th at 11 A. M.

The opportunity to hear Evangelist J. A. Davis, of New York, and Prof. F. A. Mills, the great singer, ought not to be missed. Prof. Mills directs the music for the entire camp, while Evangelist Davis can be heard each night and Sunday afternoons.
