What is supposed to have been an attempt to wreck a train on the Western Maryland Railroad, on a heavy grade near Wingerton, occurred on Tuesday. Fortunately the engineer of a freight train discovered it in time to stop his train before reaching the spot.

In the case of Shugars vs Shugars, the wife of James L. Shugars died many years ago seized and possessed of a house and lot and some other land at Hampstead. Of course these descended to her children; subject to her husband's life interest. Subsequently the children conveyed all their interest in the property to their father. Some years ago, and before this deed was placed upon record, one of the children obtained possession of and destroyed it. The father then filed a bill in equity to compel the children to execute a new deed to him. The lower court passed a decree appointing a trustee to convey the property to the father and this decree the Court of Appeals affirmed. Charles E. Fink, Esq., was attorney for the plaintiff, and E. It was very dry, however, and it is hoped that the damage to fruit will not be extensive.

Governor Warfield has decided to advertise the case of Clarence Albaugh, who, in 1898, was sentenced to 10 years in the Penitentiary, having been convicted by the Carroll County Court of larceny and assault. From Mr. Charles J. Yingling, of Tiffin, Ohio, formerly of this city, we have a large card containing halftone pictures of the scholars in the primary department of the Methodist Protestant Sunday School of Tiffin. It is really an Easter card, appropriately embellished with pure white lilies and bearing the faces of 97 children all showing very distinctly and presenting fine likenesses. While sending no word of explanation Mr. Yingling evidently anticipates that the card will be its own interpreter. It is certainly an expressive picture or series of pictures and makes it plain that no half way business attaches to the school. It will, without doubt, be a memento in years to come, to the children belonging to the department.

Mr. Stocksdale carried a large stock of general merchandise, farming implements, etc., and his loss is estimated at $6,000 or more. The property was insured. Mr. Stocksdale formerly resided in the neighborhood of Finksburg, this county.

Brown, the company's surgeon at that point, was notified and after examination ordered the man sent to Baltimore, where he arrived about 11 o'clock and was sent to the St. Joseph's Hospital by the company. An amputation was started by Dr. D. Z. Dunott, chief surgeon for for the railroad company, but the man died before the operation was completed. He is said to have made a statement before he went under the knife to the effect that he did not know how he came to be injured, but that on the way home Saturday night he had gotten intoxicated and knew nothing more. His widow, Ellen Davis, notified the Baltimore office of the road that she desired his body sent home. Davis was about 33 years old and was employed as a laborer near Union Bridge.

The C. E. Convention.

An item in the SENTINEL of last week concerning the Carroll County C. E. Convention, which will be held in Union Bridge next month, does an injustice to most of those who have the matter in charge and are arranging for the convention.

The meeting of the executive committee, which was held in the M. P. Church, Union Bridge, on March 16th, was not for the purpose of setting the date and electing the three officers mentioned, as was stated in the SENTINEL's item; but was called by President Birnie for the purpose of submitting the program and to hear reports as to how convention work was progressing.

The date for the convention, May 9th and 10th, was determined upon at a meeting of the joint committee of the M. P. and Lutheran C. E. Societies held during the winter. In place of three officers for the convention, it will be seen that there is a much larger force, as shown by the following list, and these officers were appointed long before the meeting on the 16th.

The C. E. convention is being entertained by the two societies of the M. P. and Lutheran Churches, and the services will be held as follows: First day and evening, in the M. P. Church; second day, in the Lutheran Church; second evening in the M. P. Church; Junior Rally, in the Town Hall.

The convention committees have the following chairmen:

Chairman, Rev. Edgar T. Read; Secretary, Miss Jessie S. Hollenberger.

The home of Mr. James M. and Mrs. Flora Wentz, at 214 East Third street, Lewistown, Pa., was the scene of a happy occasion on Thursday evening, March 28th, when their daughter, Miss Viola M., was married to Mr. Bertram T. Strevig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. R. Strevig, of Lineboro, Md. Promptly at 8 o'clock the sweet strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin rang from the piano, under the deft touch of Mrs. E. T. Rhodes and immediately the bride appeared leaning on the arm of the groom. The pastor of the bride, Rev. E. T. Rhodes, met the young couple in the parlor and performed the ceremony which made them husband and wife, using the beautiful ring ceremony of the Reformed Church. After the ceremony congratulations were extended to the happy pair, while the pianiste rendered Mendelssohn's march. After the congratulatory period was ended, the guests repaired to the dining room, where a sumptuous supper awaited them. The bride wore a gown of white silk and the groom the conventional black. Miss Annie Green.

Miss Annie Green, a worthy colored woman, died of heart failure and gastritis at the residence of Mr. Frank C. Sharrer, about 12.30 A. M., Saturday, March 30th, in her 60th year. She had been a faithful, trusted domestic in the Sharrer family for 35 years and was beloved by all who knew her. She was generous, loving and ever ready to administer to the wants of her friends. She was especially fond of children and always had a kind word or something nice to give them. Funeral services were held at her late home on Monday last, 1st inst., at 10.30 A. M., conducted by Rev. L. F. Warner, of the M. P. Church. The pall bearers were Messrs. Frank C., George E., Jesse C., and George F. Sharrer, Geo. R. Babyjon and John J. Reese. The remains were interred in her lot in Ellsworth Cemetery, about 1 mile south of Westminster.

Prof. Z. C. Ebaugh.

Prof. Zachariah C. Ebaugh, principal of the Franklin High School, Reisterstown, and one of the ablest and most successful public school teachers of the state, died at 4.30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Union Protestant Infirmary, Baltimore, from blood-poisoning. The primary cause of Professor Ebaugh's death was a carbuncle, which made its appearance on his neck several weeks ago, and which caused him to relinquish his school duties two weeks ago. Upon advice of his brother, Dr. Irvin Ebaugh, he was removed to Baltimore last Sunday week, but his condition continued to grow worse from day to day.

Professor Ebaugh was born near Hampstead, this county, 52 years ago. He was a son of Mrs. Harriett Ebaugh and the late Zachariah Ebaugh. He began his teaching career when 18 years old as a teacher in the public schools of this county. A few years later he secured a position as teacher in Baltimore county, to whose public service he devoted the remaining years of his life, rising step by step to the highest position in the public school system of the county—that of county school examiner—which position he creditably filled for two years during the administration of Gov. Lowndes. For four years Professor Ebaugh was a member of the State Board of Education.

Professor Ebaugh is best known for his work as principal of the Franklin High School, of Reisterstown, at the head of which institution he had been since 1885, except the two years he was school examiner. During this period the high school increased in size from 100 pupils to more than 300, and its teaching force to 9 or 10. The certificate of the Franklin High School is now accepted for admission into several of the leading colleges of the East and among its graduates are some of the most successful business and professional men of the state. Outside of the city of Baltimore it is one of the oldest and best known high schools of the state.

Professor Ebaugh leaves a widow, who was Miss Elizabeth Gessford, of Baltimore county, and six children (Miss Harriet Ebaugh, teacher of mathematics in the Eastern High School; Miss Jessie Ebaugh, a teacher at the Franklin High School; Miss Mary Ebaugh, a senior at the Woman's College of Baltimore; Miss Minnie Ebaugh and Charles and Frank Ebaugh, who live at home). He is also survived by his mother and the following brothers and sisters: Prof. George Ebaugh, a group principal of the Baltimore public schools; Dr. Irvin Ebaugh, 1701 Pennsylvania avenue, Baltimore; Mr. McKendrie Ebaugh, of Orangeville; Mr. John L. Ebaugh, of the New Orleans Times-Democrat; Mr. Albert Ebaugh, of Pittsburg; Mrs. Dr. William S. Love, of Baltimore; Mrs. Frank Mason, of Easton, and Miss Effie Ebaugh, a public schoolteacher of Orangeville. Prof. Newton Ebaugh, who was formerly connected with the Baltimore City College and who died suddenly in Brooklyn last Thanksgiving Day, was a brother of the deceased. He is also survived by the following half-brothers and half-sisters: Messrs. Jeremiah and Joel Ebaugh, of this county; David Ebaugh, of Baltimore county; Henry Ebaugh, of Peoria, Ill.; Mrs. Ellen Armacost, of Hampstead, and Miss Susie Ebaugh, of Baltimore. Of a family of 21 children 16 survive. All but four or five of the 21 children have been engaged at some period of their lives in teaching.

M. the lecture room was crowded to its full capacity. A short entertainment was given, after which a general pleasant time was spent.
