DEATH OF DR. JOHN WATSON.

Rev. Dr. John Watson, an eminent English Presbyterian clergyman, died in an Iowa town early this week, of blood poisoning, following an attack of tonsilitis. Dr. Watson was known to many thousands of the people in this country and throughout the civilized world, as Ian MacLaren, the author of "Beside the Bonny Brier Bush," one of the best works of fiction ever written. He was of Scotch descent and the scene of the story is located in Scotland, and the story thereof is told in the Scotch vernacular. To orthodox Christians it is simply entrancing. Dr. Watson wrote numbers of other books, but probably none equal in interest to the one referred to. He was a man of great ability, splendid character and pure, simple life. His death robs the world of one of its most useful and best men. He had an engagement to lecture in Baltimore tomorrow night, but his tongue is silent and those who hoped to hear him speak are saddened and bitterly disappointed.

TAFT POPULAR IN OHIO.

Secretary Wm. H. Taft is very popular in ohio, if the opinion expressed in a private letter to the editor of the SENTINEL, written by a citizen of Dayton, Ohio, who is a commercial traveler and has for years been familiar with a large territory in which he operates, is correct. He says:

"We had Secretary W. H. Taft with us in Dayton on Sunday last, April 28, at the corner-stone laying of our new Y. M. C. A. building, a structure which will alone cost about $350,000. His address was good.

"I wonder if you Eastern people think as well of him as we Ohioans do. I believe in the section I cover he would, in a fair contest, get 3 to 1 votes against Foraker for President. Some other portions of the State may be different, but except for the spoilsmen politicians I think he is strong all over the State."

This is the opinion of an intelligent and well informed gentlemen, who has had abundant opportunities to ascertain the drift of public sentiment in Ohio in relation to the contest which seems to be on in that State between the friends of Secretary Taft and Senator Foraker. There can be little doubt that among the masses of the Ohio Republicans the secretary is the much stronger man. According to the opinion of the writer of the letter from which the aforegoing quotation is made Judge Taft would, upon a fair showing, sweep the State against Senator Foraker. It goes without saying that outside of Ohio the senator will have no chance whatever for the Republican nomination for President against the secretary.

THE BALTIMORE ELECTION.

The result of the municipal election in Baltimore on Tuesday last was a Democratic victory, as was fully anticipated by those who had given the situation close attention. There seemed to be absolutely no division among the Democrats, their party not having been in as good shape for many years. Then the Democratic ticket had the warm support of both the Baltimore Sun and the Baltimore Evening News, the former of which has often heretofore been lukewarm, while the latter has generally been on the Republican side. On the other hand it was feared, and the vote in the downtown wards seems to confirm the suspicion, that Republican disaffection would materially diminish the chances of success Most of those wards show a large falling off in the Republican vote, though without corresponding increase in the Democratic vote. Under these circumstances a Republican victory was not anticipated by close observers.

The Democratic victory, however, was not as great on the general ticket as was expected by the party bosses. Mahool received 47,994 votes for mayor, while McLane, the Democratic candidate four years ago, recived only 1142 less. The vote for Timanus, Republican was 43,426, while Wachter four years ago received 46,288, upon the face of the returns, although entitled to a much larger number. This shows a falling off in the Republican vote of 2862. The figures are significant. In 1900, the registered vote of the city was 119,577 and there must now be a much larger number of voters, as the population has grown rapidly. But Mahool's vote is 11,765 short of one-half the number of voters registered in 1900. The absentees from the polls numbered not less than 30,000. Who can tell to which party most of them belong?

The vote for City Comptroller and for president of the Second Branch, City Council, varied somewhat from that for Mayor, but neither of the Democratic candidates polled as many votes as Mahool.

The Democrats were successful in a large majority of districts for the Second Branch, City Council, which will stand 7 Democrats to 2 Republicans, and also in 17 out of the 24 wards for members of the First Branch.

Andrew J. McCormick, aged 40 years, formerly a member of the Baltimore Fire Department, who has been confined at Springfield State Hospital, near Sykesville, for some time, escaped from that institution on Saturday by mounting a horse on the grounds and riding along the Liberty road for some distance at a furious pace and then turning into another road leading toward Owings Mills. Near the latter place he boarded an electric car for Baltimore, after turning the horse loose. In Baltimore he visited his home, but his family having been absent he disappeared.

A building at Graceham, Frederick county, owned by the Western Maryland Railroad and used as a depot and warehouse, and in which was also located the general merchandise store of J. C. Pyles, was destroyed by fire on Saturday. The creamery plant of the Hanover Produce Company, adjoining the warehouse, was also destroyed, and a hay barrack nearby caught several times, but was saved by hard work. The fire is supposee to have started from sparks from a passing locomotive. The railroad company's building was valued at $2,000, and Mr. Pyles' loss on his stock of goods is estimated at $3,000.

The Gwynn Brook Distilling Company, situated near Owings Mills, is building a large warehouse on its premises, with a capacity for holding 16,000 barrels. Mr. Samuel Grabfelder, of St. Louis, is president of the Gwynn Brook Distillery.

The annual meeting of the Maryland State Teachers' Association will be held in the vicinity of the Jamestown Exposition grounds, June 25, 26, 27, and 28,

COL. TOM DAVIS, OF WEST VA.

Chas. O. Clemson, Esq., of the Westminster Bar, who spent Friday and Saturday of last week at the home of Colonel Thomas B. Davis, Keyser, West Virginia, gives us the following for publication, at our request:

Everyone speaks familiarly of Mr. Davis as "Colonel Tom" or "Mr. Tom." The gallant colonel is a Chesterfield in manners, a typical Virginia gentlemen to the manner born, with the added benefit of having been actually born in Howard county, Maryland, and transplanted to the mountains of West Virginia. Colonel Davis was born almost eighty years ago and has lived since about 1833 in West Virginia.

In the development of the coal, coke and railroads of West Virginia, Colonel Davis and his brother, former Senator Henry G. Davis, candidate for Vice-President on the democratic ticket in 1904, have been the chief factors. They built and developed the West Virginia Central which they recently sold to the Wabash system. Since the sale of the West Virginia Central the Davis Brothers have turned their attention to the Coal and Coke Railroad from the Elkins region to Charleston, of which road, including branches, about one hundred and seventy-five miles have already been completed. This road traverses a section of wood and coal land of from 100,000 to 150,000 acres belonging to the Davis Brothers and which they intend to open and develop.

Colonel Davis went to Keyser when it was but a village, and has seen the town grow to a city of over 5,000 people, with extensive carwork shops and manufacturing industries, pressed brick streets, electric lights, artificial and natural gas both for heat and light. The colonel owned the greater part of the land on which the town now stands. He retains for himself a fine residence in the center of the town where ample lawns add much to the beauty of the old mansion. West Virginia University Preparatory School, the gift of Colonel Davis, stands on a high hill overlooking the town, and is a large and handsome building of brown stone and brick. On every hand about Keyser are evidences of the colonel's generosity. He has distributed over two millions of dollars among his near relatives and given generously to many of his acquaintances of early manhood in Howard county and elsewhere. Above all, Colonel Davis is a modest and unassuming man, quick of thought and untiring in action. He rises before six in the morning and is busy all day at his bank, about the farms, keeping appointments with his secretaries from the mines and other industries with which he is identified, and his abstemious habits have apparently created the West Virginia atmosphere and Old Dame Nature in rewarding man for the loss of comfort to be had by smoking and drinking. The colonel does neither.

Colonel Davis' last visit to Westminster was made during the time when the county fairs were held here. On that occasion he brought two trotting horses, a good one for the big race and another for any sort of a race. His horse won second place in the big race and first place in the other. The old City Hotel at the corner of Court and Main streets was then the most popular stopping place and the colonel stayed there while in town. He has not given up his love for trotting horses and has now in training in his fine stables at Keyser a string of a dozen or more trotters and pacers with records of 2.06, 2.08, 2.10, 2.20, &c., and himself drives for pleasure on the roads a gay youngster that can reel the miles off at a very fast gait.

Dr. Joshua W. Hering, of whom the colonel spoke as "the former comptroller," meaning Comptroller of the Treasury of Maryland, and in the colonel's opinion excellent gubernatorial material for the democrats of Maryland this fall, was among those of whom the colonel inquired particularly, as also our weekly republican editor of the SENTINEL, Colonel W. L. W. Seabrook. Many of those whom Colonel Davis knew here have long since gone from among us, as Granvile S. Haines, former president of The First National Bank, the late Chief Judge Charles B. Roberts and others.

In speaking of his experiences in politics Colonel Davis recalled his campaign of three years ago when he redeemed his own district in West Virginia, formerly Judge Dayton's district, and won a Democratic victory by nearly 1,000 majority in a disirict that is Republican by 2,500 to 3,500, and the colonel merely added, "Well, you see, the people just thought they would not like to see me beaten and they elected me, but I do not want to serve another term in Congress." There is little doubt that the colonel could have been re-elected to succeed himself if he had desired, whereas the Democratic candidate in his district to succeed him was beaten by nearly 5,000 majority. A coincidence in Colonel Davis' life was that he had never been within the chamber of the House of Representatives until he went there a member, although during the time that his brother was Senator and during the terms of his cousin, Senator A. P. Gorman, and of his life-long friend and legal adviser, Governor, now Senator, Whyte, he had often visited the Senate chamber. His advice to young men who have aspirations to be Congressmen is to go early in life.

On Monday last ten different localities in Texas were swept by tornadoes and much property was destroyed, though only a few lives were lost. Among the places visited by these terrific storms were Deport, Halesboro, Sulphur Springs, Antioch, Bird Wright, Calin, Riding Away and Birthright. Near Sulphur Springs a man named Barzil saw the storm approaching and ran with his wife and seven children for a storm cellar. Five of the children reached it safely, but Barzil was killed and his wife and two children seriously injured.

Cards have been received by members of St. John's Episcopal Church, at Walkersville, Frederick county, announcing the marriage of Rev. J. Geo. Carl, a theological student, who for the last year has been in charge of the Catoctin parish, and Miss Mildred Ruth Bemis, daughter of Mr. Henry E. Bemis, of Ellicott City. The wedding took place in Ellicott City June 1, 1905, and has since been kept a secret.

The annual commencement of McDonough Institute will take place June 1. Prizes will be distributed, after which a competitive drill for a silk United States flag will take place. Mr. M. Bates Stephens, state superintendent of public education, will be the orator of the day.

The 26th annual convention of the Supreme Council of the Catholic Benevolent Legion will be held in Baltimore, beginning Tuesday next. It is said that about 6000 members of the legion, from the various cities of the country will be in attendance.

Co. B, First Regiment, I. M. N. G., of Hagerstown, is preparing to celebrate the Fourth of July, at that place, with a great military parade and other appropriate events. Co. H, of this city, it is said, will be one of numerous organizations to participate in the parade.

The personal property of the late I. Freeman Rasin, of Baltimore, as appraised by the Orphans' Court appraisers of that city, amounts to $329,621.55. He also, it is said, had large real estate holdings and was probably a millionaire.

The one hundredth anniversary of the University of Maryland, Baltimore, will be celebrated, with appropriate events, from Thursday, 30th inst., till Saturday, June 2nd.

Commencement exercises at the woman's College, Frederick, will begin Friday, June 7, and continue till the following Wednesday.

Littlestown Items.

Last Sunday was a day of special interest at Bart's U. B. Church, in Union township, near Littlestown. The congregation is preparing to erect a new structure and farewell services were held in the old building previous to its being torn down. Rev. Lewis Kohr, of Hanover, who had served as pastor of the church for twenty years, at three different periods, was present and preached in the afternoon. Rev. J. Perry Koontz, the present pastor, preached in the evening. Since Rev. Koontz's pastorate began the membership has increased so much that a larger building is needed.

The public schools of Littlestown held their annual exhibit and commencement last Friday afternoon and night. Both were very largely attended. The exhibit was an entirely new feature in public school work and the excellent work of the pupils elicited much favorable comment from the throngs that passed through the building. At the commencement, County Supt. Roth presented diplomas to fifteen pupils of the schools who successfully completed the common school course. Prof. Oscar G. Klinger, of Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, delivered an eloquent address on "Knighthood, the Old and the New." From the Harrisburg, Pa., West End Reporter of May 3rd, 1907.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of my dear father, F. T. Davis, who died one year ago, May 10th, 1906.

Yes father dear I have sighed for thee
When none but God did know,
My sadness of heart no one could see
Nor my tears and bitter woe.

Oh, 'tis hard dear father to give you up,
No human tongue can tell
How loath we are to drink the cup
In uttering the last farewell.

By his daughter, Sarah Jane Gosnell.

MARRIED

On May 5th, 1907, by Rev. S. M. Roeder, Mr. Henry F. Bailey and Miss Amelia M. Frank, both near Lineboro, Md.
