you, I only knew one thing, that I held you in my arms; and I only thought of one thing, that I wanted to hold you there always!'

Judith looked up and there was a great light in her face. 'Then I must make a confession, too. I—I didn't faint, I think I lost consciousness for only a moment. I knew you were holding me and—'

The professor came quickly around the table. 'Judith!' he cried.

Between them on the floor lay the forgotten Chemistry, half open with its leaves fluttering in seemingly protest, and above it stood Judith with outstretched hands, and as the professor clasped them his foot touched the book and it closed with a sound that seemed like a sigh. The lesson was finished.

TIT FOR TAT.

Young Stevens was on his way north to spend the week-end with his parents, and he felt in a particularly jovial mood.

The train in which he was traveling had stopped at a small village. As a farmer who was sauntering up and down the platform came opposite Stevens' compartment he was asked by the youth if he knew that the duke of Devonshire was on the train.

Immediately the man showed great interest and said:

'No! Is he?'

'I think he is not,' answered Stevens. 'I only asked if you knew that he was.'

The farmer said nothing, but continued his walk on the platform. As he came opposite the window again he remarked that their town had been experiencing some excitement.

'What's the matter?' asked Stevens.

'The authorities wouldn't let some folks bury a woman,' replied the farmer.

'What was the reason for refusing?'

'She wasn't dead,' was the laconic reply.

And then he strolled away, leaving young Stevens biting his lips.—Judge's Library.

Let the Girls Know.

What right has a girl to marry and go into a house of her own unless she knows how to superintend every branch of housekeeping? And she cannot properly superintend unless she has some practical knowledge herself. Let girls have a share in the housekeeping at home before they marry; let each superintend some department by turns. It need not occupy half the time to see that the house is properly swept, dusted and put in order, to prepare puddings and make dishes, that many young ladies spend in reading novels which enervate both mind and body and unfit them for everyday life.

Women do not, as a general rule, get pale faces doing housework. Their sedentary habits in overheated rooms combined with ill-chosen food, are to blame for bad health. Let the present generation add to its list of real accomplishments the art of properly preparing food for the human body.

Don't begin to wonder how other people can afford so many things that you can't afford. That is a big step in the direction of growing envious and sour.

We have noticed that people who do exactly as they please, whether their friends like it or not, get along about as well as those who are always trying to please.—Atchison Globe.

About all some men get for their efforts to be dignified is a reputation of having the swelled head.

Your sons probably please you as well as you pleased your father.

THE BIBLE.

"Within this awful volume lies
The mystery, of mysteries.
O happiest they of human race
To whom our God has given grace
To hear, to read, to fear, to pray.
To lift the latch and force the way.
But better had they ne'er been born
Who read to doubt or read to scorn."
—W. Scott.

An Embarrassing Question.

Some little while ago a popular writer visited a jail in order to take notes for a magazine article on prison life.

On returning home he described the horrors he had seen, and his discription made a deep impression on the mind of his little daughter Mary.

The writer and his offspring, a week later, were in a train together, which stopped at a station near a gloomy building. A man asked:

'What place is that?'

'The county jail,' another answered promptly.

Whereupon Mary embarrassed her father, and aroused the suspicions of the other occupants of the carriage, by asking, in a loud, shrill voice:

'Is that the jail you were in, father?'—Tit-Bits.

Within Her Rights.

A very black woman in a silver gray automobile coat was seen a few mornings ago hauling an unwilling and disreputable looking yellow dog by a leather thong.

A friendly disposed policeman asked casually: 'Why don't you turn the dog loose? He don't look able to run off, and nobody'll want to steal him?'

'Ain't I a 'oman?' was the tart query.

There was no disputing the fact.

'Ain't dis heah a dog?'

Patent fact.

'Ain't dis heah New York?'

Obviously true.

'Well, ain't I got a good right to walk on dese heah streets and put on all the style I choose?'

No disputing a self evident proposition.—New York Times.

Parson Johnson, of the Blackville Church, paused after examining the contributions, and then said: 'Will de brother who dropped a five-dollar gold piece in de box by mistake fo' a suspender button please step forward and git his money?'

Ten men stepped toward the pulpit. Looking at them closely, the parson exclaimed: 'I'se sorry—but dar wuz no gold piece in de box. I only wanted to find out who put in dem ten suspender-buttons. I will now pray fo' your souls.'

Westminster Cemetery

The Westminster Cemetery is situated at the east end of Church street, and within the city limits of Westminster, Maryland.

MAIN ENTRANCE TO CEMETERY.

This section is elevated, being about one thousand feet above tide-water.

No fears need be entertained of coming into contact with water in the excavation of vault or grave.

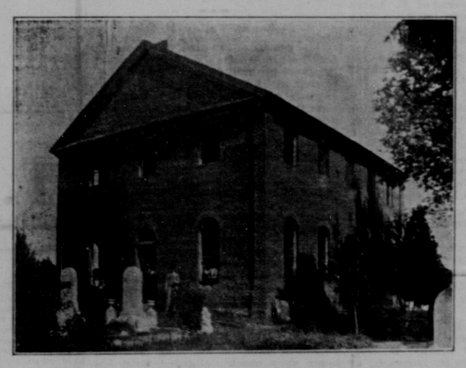

The soil varies, much of it being sandy, while occasionally clay or rocky substance is found which is easily removed.

This section is rich in scenic effect, affording wide and restful views.

It is a beautiful rolling country, with excellent soil and perfect drainage.

The initial improvements on the property include the laying out of roads and walks, entrance gates, urns, etc. Also a large and commodious lodge for the superintendent. The entire property is enclosed within a beautiful hedge fence.

It is not only our intention to provide a cemetery which will be a credit to the City of Westminster, County of Carroll, but to offer its facilities at reasonable rates. Intending purchasers will find it to their advantage to confer with the management before purchasing elsewhere. Lots may be selected from the plat which may be seen at the superintendent's lodge, or the secretary or superintendent will take pleasure in showing you over the premises.

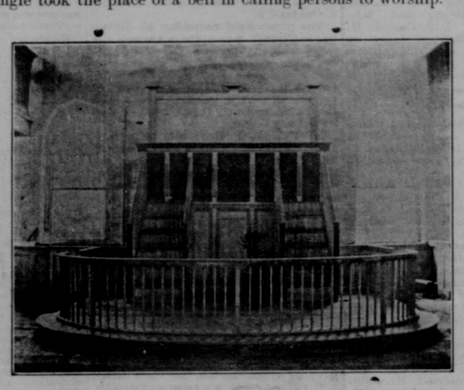

THE OLD UNION MEETING HOUSE BUILT IN 1760.

The first record of its institution is that of an Act passed by the Legislature of Maryland, May 24th, 1813, entitled an Act to incorporate the Trustees of the Westminster General Meeting House in Frederick, now Carroll County, Md. The incorporators named in the Act were Isaac Shriver, David Fisher, James McHaffie, Joshua Gist, Francis Hollinsworth, James Cannon and William Durbin; all of Frederick, now Carroll County, Md., who were also made Trustees.

About the year 1760, a large brick church had been built by lottery and was known by title as the Old Union Church and general meeting house. All denominations were permitted to worship within its portals.

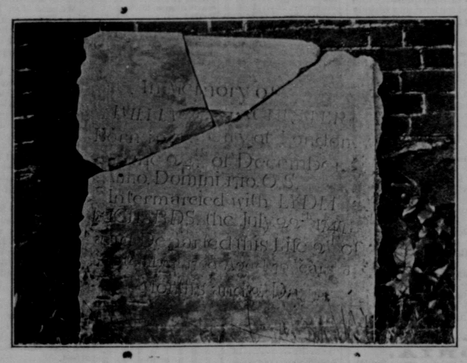

Lorenza Dow, an eccentric itinerant minister, it is said, preached for one week within its walls with services beginning at 5 o'clock, A. M. His method of calling his listeners was with the aid of a very large tin horn, which he blew loud and long. Large crowds assembled to hear his discourses. The belfry on the church was an unique affair, and a large steel triangle took the place of a bell in calling persons to worship.

CHANCEL AND PULPIT OF OLD UNION CHURCH.

A gallery extended around the church on three sides, and a ladder was used to ascend into the belfry, where a man sat, and with a hammer struck the triangle to produce the sound, which was as loud as some of our largest bells.

A plat of ground containing about 1½ acres, adjoining the church, was used as a burying ground, and many of our oldest inhabitants are buried therein, the oldest having no date except the figures 1707, and the letters S. L., indicating that the burying ground was in existence fifty years or more prior to the erection of the church.

THE ORIGINAL STONE OF WM. WINCHESTER, THE FOUNDER OF WESTMINSTER.

The Winchesters, "founders of our beautiful city," also the Fishers, Cockeys, Stansburys, Yinglings, Reeses, Smiths, Shrivers, Websters, and many other noted families made this their last resting place.

The legislature of 1864, February 18th, passed an Act empowering certain persons to purchase from the estate of John Fisher, deceased, 12½ acres of land adjoining the Old Union Burying Grounds, and on June 17th, 1864, a Stock Company was formed under the name of the Westminster Cemetery Company. Mr. Geo. E. Wampler was elected President and William Reese, Dr. J. L. Warfield, Jos. M. Parke, John K. Longwell, J. Henry Hoppe and Alfred Troxel, Board of Managers; E. K. Gernand, Secretary, and H. L. Norris, Treasurer.

URN AND CIRCLE.

The stock was sold at its par value, ten dollars, and the land paid for.

The last share of said stock was purchased from the holder and cancelled by the Company, December 10th, 1887.

An Act of the Legislature, approved February 7th, 1884, gave to the President and Board of Managers full power over the old burying grounds, same as the other, provided they set apart a plat of ground for free burial. This has been done and is situated at the North Eastern part of said cemetery grounds.

The old church having become dilapidated and dangerous to the public, the Board of Managers, after published notices given, sold the same July 20th, 1891, for the sum of one hundred dollars.

The church stood on the spot where now stands the large urn immediately in centre of circle, at head of main driveway.
