The date for his execution was set for sometime in August but the Governor granted a stay, until October 18. His case, however, is to be taken up by the Board of Pardons for investigation, and as that does not meet till October 17, the time will be too short to make proper inquiry into the facts and circumstances of the murder, and it is understood the board will ask the Governor for a further stay, but it is probable that Fowler will eventually meet his death in the electric chair.

LAST CHANCE TO REGISTER.

Registration of voters in this county will close at 7 o'clock, Tuesday night. No Republican voter should fail to have his name on the list.

Not much seeding and corn harvesting have yet been done in this county, the season being backward. Eyster, formerly pastor of Manchester charge, Lutheran Church, now pastor of the First United Evangelical Church, Baltimore, was about to leave a barber shop, in that city on Saturday night he discovered that his coat and hat had been taken and a shabby garment and tile left in their stead. It is a stretch of charity to suppose that the exchange was a simple mistake. It was probably a theft.

Make way for the rural mail carrier. The postmaster general has issued a ruling to the effect that the rural mail carrier has the right of way on all roads, and that carriages and conveyances of all descriptions must make way for him on the public roads. In other words it must contain the name of the addressee.

Rev. Arthur G. Null, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, Fairmont, W. Va., writes to the SENTINEL that he is arranging to take a picture of the clerical and lay delegates to the Maryland Synod, which will be in session at Emmitsburg, 17th to 20th inst. The proceeds from sales of the pictures will be for the benefit of the church, which is a mission. Rev. Mr. Null is a native of Frizellburg and has many friends in this county to whom he appeals to buy copies of the picture.

Mr. L. M. Bushey, one of the most progressive and successful farmers of the State was a caller at the SENTINEL office on Monday. Speaking of the corn crop of this year, he described his experience in cutting his crop. He used a corn harvester, riding one of his mules, sixteen hands high. The corn was so tall that on many of the stalks there were ears on a level with his shoulder, as high as on the mule. By the way Mr. Bushey is a member of the present Legislature and a candidate on the Republican ticket for re-election.

Prohibition Meeting.

A Prohibition party mass meeting was held at the Odd Fellows' Hall, Westminster, last night. Mr. Emory Ebaugh, of Carrollton presided. After prayer by Rev. Dr. P. H. Miller, Mr. Ebaugh introduced Rev. Charles M. Elderdice, of Baltimore, State secretary, who introduced the speaker of the evening, Hon. Oliver W. Stewart, the only man ever elected as a Prohibitionist to the legislature of the State of Illinois, and for four years National chairman of the Prohibition party. The Carrollton quartette sang several selections during the evening.

After the mass meeting was dismissed, a convention of Prohibitionists was held, in secret conference. It is understood that a partial ticket was named, but those present at the convention withheld information as to its personnel until those nominated shall have consented to serve.

The Public School Question.

It seems as if the Milton Academy in Taneytown will go out of existence as a school. Recently County Superintendent S. Simpson and Commissioner Fred. D. Miller went to Taneytown and purchased the furniture in Milton Academy for the public schools of the county and much of it will be used to fit up the new rooms added to the Taneytown public school by the addition of a second story on the two front rooms.

Letters to the county superintendent from Mr. Frank I. Lewis and Mr. John Klee, of Mt. Airy, indicate an increased attendance in the public school, and diminishing interest in the subscription schools of that town. Mr. Lewis and Mr. Klee ask for an additional teacher in the Mt. Airy public school.

In Westminster the turning of patronage from private to public schools has run the number in the High School from 225 to over 425 pupils, and the School Board has under consideration the problem of relieving this crowded condition, and will give the relief as soon as it can find its way to do so. It would seem that private schools are rapidly diminishing, and public schools are expected to do the work.

Mr. Clarence Seabrook on Home Coming Week.

The Baltimore American of a recent date, in its notes on Home Coming Week, had, among other things, the following:

Mr. Clarence Seabrook, of Syracuse, N. Y., who was formerly a prominent newspaper man of Baltimore, wrote a personal letter to Secretary Burroughs, in which he gave some interesting details of Syracuse's annual festival, which has just closed, and in which Mr. Seabrook was a leading figure. He said, in part:

The Mystique Krewe is a permanent institution made up of hustling business men, whose shibboleth is "The Greater Syracuse," whose civic pride has been well developed, and who have, in and out of season, preached the gospel of extension. Each year a week is set apart for revel and spectacle. With a population less than a fifth of that of Baltimore we succeeded this year in collecting and spending for the celebration $40,000, and that with little effort. The spectacular features were odd, unique and beautiful, and on Friday night there was presented a school parade in which 8,000 children participated in striking and original floats.

But, my dear Burroughs, proud as I am of this little city of my adoption, there is not—there can never be—another Baltimore. I am prouder that I am a Marylander than of anything else, and I am preaching Old Home Week all I can.

Gamber Items.

Repp, New Windsor, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, on Wednesday last, on the occasion of the marriage of their daughter Miss Anna Mary Repp and Dr. John Sterling Geatty. The bride's pastor, Rev. G. W. Baughman, performed the ceremony, using the beautiful liturgy of the Lutheran church. The guests were near relatives of the bride and groom. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful presents. After the serving of refreshments, Mr. and Mrs. Geatty left on the four o'clock train on a wedding trip to St. Louis, Mo. Dr. Silas Nelson Gorsuch, for many years well and widely known as a prominent physician at Gamber, this county, died at his home at that place at 10 o'clock, yesterday morning, at the age of 62 years. His death was caused by apoplexy with which he was stricken on Wednesday night. Dr. Gorsuch located at Gamber soon after his graduation as a physician and for many years and up to his death practiced his profession with skill and success. He was a genial, affable gentleman and had hosts of friends throughout this county who will deeply regret his death. He was a son of the late Thomas Gorsuch, a leading and prominent citizen of the Fourth district. While assiduous in attention to his professional duties, Dr. Gorsuch took an active interest in public affairs. He was an ardent Republican and was frequently a delegate to conventions of his party, though not himself an office seeker. In the line of his profession he was for a time a member of the board of pension examining surgeons for this county. He was a prominent member of Providence M. P. Church, near Gamber. Our correspondents are requested to send in their regular letters earlier in the week. Any news of special importance can be sent in a second letter or by telephone.

REPUBLICANS

who require transfers to enable them to vote at the election in November, should not fail to get them on TUESDAY NEXT.

Fall Openings.

Probably no other place the size of Westminster in this State can boast of general and department stores of such magnitude as are to be found here. These stores would, indeed, be creditable to cities many times larger than this.

Their advertisements this week, to be found in the columns of the SENTINEL, tell of the final preparations for the fall trade, on a scale never before surpassed and with goods at prices that do not allow a margin for extravagant profits.

Readers of this paper who need goods of almost any description are advised to consult these advertisements where they will gain valuable information.

At the Miller Bros. Co. popular cash stores, Saturday, Oct. 5th, will be the last of their fall opening days for the display of millinery and fall and winter goods of all kinds. Their stores are beautifully decorated and the color effect is most pleasing. This is especially true of the millinery department, where, illumined by the sky light, garlands of autumn leaves, covering walls and chandeliers, form a bower of beauty. Mr. Vernon Crouse, son of Mr. O. M. Crouse, was the decorator, and the result of his work is worthy of highest commendation.

The Babylon & Lippy Company will have no formal opening, but, celebrating its second anniversary and entering upon its third year in business, its wealth of beautiful garments, winter cloaks and dress goods has been arranged with special view to exhibition at this time, and the large stores present a most attractive appearance.

T. W. Mather & Sons announce their opening day tomorrow, Saturday, October 5th. In their windows there is a beautiful display of ladies' coats, wraps, hats and new dress goods, and in their millinery department many charming combinations of color make a pleasing picture. They are at this time sending out to their patrons a catalogue descriptive of their stores.

The Strawbridge Tree.

Rev. Harold M. Rider, pastor of Centenary Methodist Episcopal church, this city, is the owner of both the "Strawbridge Tree" and the site upon which it grew. The Baltimore Methodist says: "Methodism will owe very much in the future to this energetic young pastor when it comes to understand how he came into possession of the land. Nearly 100 years ago the tree, with great difficulty was cut down. Papers have been signed by Mr. Englar and wife conveying to Brother Rider the wood and enough ground to have the site suitably marked. There are several valuable rights guaranteed in the transfer, such as the right of way to this site. Intelligence will come with pleasing force to the Methodism of the world, as it is the intention of our young friend to see to it that the site of this historic and now prostrate oak comes ultimately into the possession of the American Methodist Historical Society. The site is within the bounds of the New Windsor Circuit, Rev. L. E. Bennett, pastor. It is not far from Stone Chapel, around which cluster so many precious memories of early Methodism. Following closely upon the announcement of the purpose of Brother David E. Stem and wife to deed to the Historical Society the site of the Old Log Meeting House, this cheering intelligence concerning the Strawbridge Tree brings great gladness." The Baltimore Methodist gives its title page to a picture of this historic oak, under whose wide spreading branches Robert Strawbridge preached as early as 1759 or 1760, and invites suggestions as to what disposition shall be made of its wood, and asks: "What about pulpits, chairs, communion plates, canes, gavels, napkin rings, pen holders, many interesting souvenirs to be made out of this tree?"

The dedication of the church was originally scheduled to take place next Sunday, but the ceremony had to be postponed a week because of a fire which broke out in the cellar of the new edifice a few days ago, causing damage amounting to about $1,000. Repairs were begun immediately after the blaze.

Union Bridge Items.

The political pot has not yet commenced to boil in our neighborhood. It is thought that the man on the ticket who accepted an office to which he was not honestly elected, but was dishonestly counted in, will not receive as many votes as he did previously.

The officers of registration met on last Tuesday at the Firemen's Building for the purpose of revising the list. Candidates are beginning to stir about, and will soon commence to shake hands with the "horny handed sons of toil."

The M. P. Church, which has been undergoing repairs for several weeks, was opened for communion services on last Sunday morning.

The festival held in the lecture room of the M. E. Church last week was a decided success. The congregation of this Church expect to commence the improvements of their church building some time this month.

People at Middleburg speak in high praise of the United States troops who encamped near that town while en route to Gettysburg, Pa. Some of the soldiers complained of the attempt to extortion on them at Frederick. Why they should pay $22.00 per ton for hay at Frederick and but $16.00 at Middleburg was a conundrum not easily answered.

There will be preaching in the Methodist Episcopal Church, Union Bridge, next Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Manchester Items.

The heavy rains of last week caused quite a crowding in the work of the farming people. Much of the ground ready for seeding became too wet, while potato digging and hay making were also interfered with, but the fair weather of this week is causing a regular push and we notice some of our farmers have commenced cutting off corn though at many places it is still quite green. Judging from the loads of fertilizers that have been hauled from the stations the seeding acreage will be large in this section. The corn crop seems to be above the average.

Rev. H. H. Flick, assisted by the Rev. Shaub, held communion services in Emanuel Lutheran Church of this place on Sunday last that were largely attended.

The new home of Mr. Albert Brilhart, on South Main street, has gone up as if by magic and is now under roof and laying the floors well under way.

Mr. Snyder was the eldest son of the late Samuel Snyder, of Cranberry, and was well known throughout a large territory in this and other counties as a seller of fruit trees. His wife was Miss Ovie Garrett, a daughter of the late Daniel Garrett, near town, and with several sons and daughters survives him. He also leaves six brothers and two sisters.

Our registers on Tuesday last seemed to be in a registering contest, as at the close of the days work they were a tie. Messrs. Rohrbaugh and Miller in precinct No. 1 enrolled 21 and Messrs. Miller and Lippy in precinct No. 2 the same number.

Mr. C. D. Lippy and family, with their personal effects, left on Tuesday for Shrewsbury, Pa., where Mr. L. will continue his merchant tailoring business, while his father, Mr. Oliver Lippy, will continue the business here.
