be answers it by going to Baltimore.

Fortunately the sheep have not been sold so that I have them to fall back upon. But do not be uneasy about us it will soon be hog killing time. I fear that I shall have some difficulty about the two tables but I try to get things as comfortable as I can, have we not some coarse table cloths some where? I can't find them.

I would like very much to have Jane Jones' daughter myself if I could afford it and let Billy go out of doors he is the mere name of a waiter. Lottie has no one I believe but I fear the girl would not be satisfied so far from home. Lottie could not get Charity at first but had some old woman who said that to her that some babies had symptoms that were a sure sign of death and she saw them about Charlie, which made her very nervous so the Dr sent for Charity that she must come. But I must now bid you good bye Harry joins me in much love to all

Your affec daughter
