EXECUTION OF ROYAL FOWLER.

From the Dayton, O. Journal.

Columbus, O., Nov. 1.—Perfectly composed and resigned to his fate, Royal Fowler walked to the death chamber in the penitentiary this morning and met his end bravely.

As the condemned man entered the death chamber he glanced about the room and his eyes settled upon Attorney Al Fiorini, of Dayton.

As the apparatus was being adjusted, Fowler looked directly at Fiorini and said in a firm voice: "Good-bye, Fiorini." Warden Gould then asked Fowler if he had anything to say before the laws of the State of Ohio were carried out and he replied: "I have nothing to say only that I trust all to God." The black cap was then adjusted and the current applied.

The first shock coursed through his body at 12:03½ and was applied intermittently until 12:07 when Dr. Thomas, surgeon of the penitentiary, pronounced Fowler dead.

The execution was one of the most successful that has ever taken place in the big prison.

There was no hitch and the condemned man made no resistance. Fowler spent his last day in the annex in the company of Chaplain Starr, of the penitentiary, and Rev. F. N. McMillin, of Gayton, who came to the prison at the request of the condemned man. He read the Bible with the ministers and prayed frequently. When he met death Fowler was a converted man and had embraced religion.

Fowler was neatly attired in a black suit of clothes and, upon the left lapel of his coat, he wore a red rose which had been given to him by a friend during the day.

He made no demonstration, but walked to the chair cooly and met his fate bravely.

Rev. McMillin, of Dayton, stated that the condemned man showed a remarkable coolness during his last hours.

He discussed the details of the execution with the minister and stated that he believed that when the first current was applied that it would kill him instantly and he would never know what was going on.

An example of his composure was displayed when he called the attention of the death watch to the fact that they had neglected to make a slit in his trousers' leg so that a contact might be made when he took his seat in the chair. He even offered to cut the trousers himself.

Fowler gave to Rev. McMillin a package of letters which he had received from his mother during his incarceration in the annex with the request that they be returned to her hand. He sent his love and a request for forgiveness by the minister.

When Warden Gould entered the Annex and prepared to read the death warrant Fowler waived him away and refused to listen. This is the first time in the history of executions in the Ohio penitentiary this has occurred.

Fowler ate a hearty supper and asked for no stimulants. He was satisfied with his spirituel contentment and was prepared to meet his fate.

During Fowler's last hour he admitted that he still loved Mamie Hagerty, the girl whom he so ruthlessly killed, and stated that he hoped to meet her in heaven.

To Chaplain Starr, of the penitentiary, Royal Fowler gave the following written statement Thursday afternoon:

"I believe all these words of God's Book. I believe in Jesus Christ, the Son of God, and take him to be my Redeemer and Saviour now and forever. I believe in the Holy Spirit of God and take him to renew and sanctify me forever. As to my own experience I feel assurance that through the mercy of God, revealed in our Lord and precious Saviour, I am saved. I went to God as a sinner and confessed and repented of my sins and asked Him to forgive me and save me from all my sins. I went to God humbly, sorry for all my sins and ashamed of them all.

"I could do no more, and God had mercy on me and delivered me from bondage and fear and now I say, 'Glory to God in the highest, peace on earth and good will toward men.'"

The remains of Royal Fowler were taken in charge by Undertaker Wm. Hibbler, of Dayton, and conveyed to the establishment of the Egan Undertaking Company and prepared for burial. They were shipped to Dayton on an early train Friday morning.

Police Surgeon McKemy, of Dayton, witnessed the execution and assisted Dr. Thomas in his examintaion after the electrocution and was the first to pronounce Fowler's death.

Although it was expected that an effort would be made Thursday to see Governor Harris and secure a stay of execution, no one called and there was no request for an interference.

Fowler saw none of his relatives Thursday, having bid his mother and brother farewell Wednesday afternoon when they visited him in the Annex.

Fowler was condemned to death for the murder of Mamie Hagerty, his sweetheart, at Dayton, in the summer of 1906. Ever since his incarceration in the death cage Fowler has been apparently indifferent to his fate. A final appeal was made in his behalf by his mother, Mrs Anna Arnold, today, but the governor, though sympathizing with the woman, declared the circumstances of the crime did not justify clemency.

Fowler deserted a family in Pennsylvania for the Hagerty woman. He shot her as she stood on the porch of her home. Jealousy is supposed to have been the motive.

Fowler was three times respited. Prior to this crime he served several sentences in the Dayton workhouse and was regarded as a degenerate. Since coming to prison he has professed conversion and became deeply religious.

DAY OF THANKSGIVING NAMED BY PRESIDENT.

Washington, Oct. 26.—President Roosevelt today issued his Thanksgiving proclamation, through the secretary of state, naming the last Thursday in November, the 28th.

The proclamation follows:

"Once again the season of the year has come when, in accordance with the custom of our forefathers for generations past, the president appoints a day as the especial occasion for all our people to give praise and thanksgiving to God.

"During the past year we have been free from famine, from pestilence, from war. We are at peace with all the rest of mankind. Our natural resources are at least as great as those of any other nation. We believe that in ability to develop and take advantage of these resources the average man of this nation stands at least as high as the average man of any other. Nowhere else in the world is there such an opportunity for a free people to develop to the fullest extent all its powers of body, of mind and of that which stands above both body and mind—character.

"Much has been given us from on high and much will rightly be expected of us in return. Into our care the ten talents have been entrusted; and we are to be pardoned neither if we squander and waste them; not yet if we hide them in a napkin; for they must be fruitful in our hands. Ever throughout the ages, at all times and among all peoples, prosperity has been fraught with danger, and it behooves us to beseech the Giver of all things that we may not fall into love of ease and of luxury; that we may not lose our sense of moral responsibility; that we may not forget our duty to God and to our neighbor.

"A great democracy like ours, a democracy based upon the principles of orderly liberty, can be perpetuated only if in the heart of the ordinary citizen there dwells a keen sense of righteousness and justice. We should earnestly pray that this spirit of righteousness and justice may grow ever greater in the hearts of all of us and that our souls may be inclined ever more both toward the virtues that tell for gentleness and tenderness, for loving kindness and forbearance one with another, and toward those no less necessary virtues that make our manliness and rugged hardihood, for without these qualities neither nation nor individual can rise to the level of greatness.

"Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, do set apart Thursday, the 28th day of November, as a day of general Thanksgiving and prayer, and on that day I recommend that the people shall cease from their daily work and, in their homes or in their churches, meet devoutly to thank the Almighty for the many and great blessings they have received in the past, and to pray that they may be given the strength so to order their lives as to deserve a continuance of these blessings in the future.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

(Seal).

"Done at the city of Washington this twenty-fifth day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and seven, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and thirty-second.

(Signed) THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

"By the President:
"Elihu Root,
"Secretary of State."

MARYLAND NEWS.

A large freight barge turned turtle in the Baltimore harbor and eleven freight cars, loaded with eleven thousand cases of tomatoes went to the bottom.

The Easton jail had only four prisoners last week, all negroes. On Thursday night all escaped except one, who preferred to stay. They got away by picking the lock and opening the door.

George Poe, aged 104 years, died at his residence on St. George's Island, St. Mary's county, last week. He was the oldest man in St. Mary's county, and probably the oldest in the State.

The eighteenth anniversary of the founding of St. Mark's Lutheran Church Hagerstown, was celebrated last Sunday. The anniversary sermon was preached by Rev. George S. Bowers, of Winchester, Va., a former pastor.

The new Western Maryland Railroad shops at Hagerstown have been completed. All the buildings are of brick, with concrete foundations and cover an area of 25 acres. The new shops will add about 200 men to Hagerstown's population.

A $150,000 bond issue of the Washington, Frederick and Gettysburg Railway Company has been disposed of to a syndicate of 25 professional and business men, of Frederick. The money this secured will be used to complete the road to Thurmont.

Mr. Henry Bishop, widely known as "Bishop, the Bird Man," died at his home, in Baltimore, last Sunday, aged 61 years. He has been called by many the father of the Zoo at Druid Hill Park, as its establishment was largely due to his influence.

John Thomas, colored, lashed two iron bedsteads together, used them as a ladder, climbed to the wall of the Elkton jail, and with the help of a rope made of bed clothing jumped to freedom. William Rambo, living near the jail, saw him on the wall and gave the alarm, thus preventing the escape of other prisoners.

Rev. George G. M. Brown, pastor of the Lutheran Church, Mercersburg, Pa., died on Sunday night, at the home of his mother, in Waynesboro, Pa., of kidney trouble, aged 45 years. Mr. Brown was a native of Washington county. His widow, who was Miss Mary Schindel, of Hagerstown, and one daughter survive him.

J. W. Warring, a constable of the third district of Anne Arundel county, had a narrow escape from drowning, on Saturday night. He had been "drinking a little", in Annapolis, during the day. He left a saloon about 9.30 o'clock, saying that he was going home, but drove down Prince George street, straight out on the Tolchester wharf, and off the end of the pier into the harbor. Capt. Lambdin, of the tug Princess, of Baltimore, and his crew rescued him, but his horse was drowned.

Mrs. Jones—That old maid next door is the worst borrower I know!

Mrs. Brown—Indeed.

Mrs. Jones—Yes. Why, only yesterday she came over to inquire if she could borrow my husband for an hour to mow her lawn, thrash a man who had insulted her and discharge her cook.

A Test Of Faith.

They were cross-examining, in a Chicago court recently, a bookmaker who had been caught in the toils for playing some other game than his own. The third subassistant district attorney was intent upon a conviction, however, and was doing his best, none too successfully, to shake the testimony of the defendant.

"You're sure of that?" he yelled, as the bookmaker stuck to an assertion that did not suit the case of the State.

"Sure, I am certain," came the answer.

"You remember that you are under oath?"

"I do that."

"And you'd swear to this statement of yours?"

"Swear to it? Why, Mr. Lawyer and Judge, your honor, I'd bet a hundred on it any day."—Saturday Evening Post.

Prophet Says Mild Weather.

This winter will be a mild one, if the prediction of John Peterman, the hornet nest prophet, of Franklin county, comes true. Peterman has many followers in this county. He says the insects are building high, which means that there will be no real cold weather. The prophet says that if the signs are for a severe winter they build on the ground where the snow drifts cover them to protect the larvae from the cold. If they select a place high for their nests they prophesy a warm, open winter. The corn husks too tell of a mild winter, says the hornet nest prophet.—Hanover, Pa., Herald.

Little Bobby was saying his prayers at his mother's knee, but so rapidly that she asked him why he did not speak more slowly.

"Because, you know," he replied, "it would keep all the other children waiting!"

An English daily had the following advertisement: "Wanted—A gentleman to undertake the sale of a patent medicine. The advertiser guarantees it will be profitable for the undertaker."

We are constantly adding wings to castles in the air.

It is estimated that at least 45,000,000 people will be dependent upon the government for the relief which is being arranged for. Relief was given to 11,000,000 in 1899, at a cost of $75,000,000.
