by to make her cross as she sleeps badly in the day time unless some one is near to rock her. But will not Hannah need hers ~~to~~ could you not borrow Aunt Elizabeth's? I expect it would be best to go to Philadelphia as soon as possible on account of the weather but there are some things which must be done before I can go I dont know what to do about the mangoes but think the best plan will be to offer Aunt Sally half of our melons if she will stuff ours for me I sending all ingredients except the horse radish which I cannot get. This seems like such a long day without any Church

I hope by next Sunday Mr Dillon will be well enough to have the afternoon service. Uncle James spent Friday with us, he said he was very much alarmed on Sunday thought for some moments Mr D. was gone and thinks if he does not rest himself more he will be liable to paralysis. He says that after he fell from his horse he got up and was so much jarred that he fell backwards and hurt his spine and has quite a lump on the back of his neck

Uncle had been to Tulip Hill that morning was very graciously received and pressing invitation to return to dinner and Cousin Sally went last evening to Lothian and expects to spend to night at Cousin Mary's so she seems to have got over her feeling towards them and as she has not been here I suppose intends turning it all upon us. Do you think I ought to go there again I believe however that they go on Thursday. I hope that you ~~spend~~ had a pleasant time on Thursday I am sure you had a nice dinner. I am very glad to find that Deedie is getting old enough to understand a little about her Heavenly Father but
