others as there is plenty of time to do them in. The great wonder is, how you have managed to do so much in such very limited time, and with so many other things which had to be done. We are so much obliged to you for writing about dear Mary's baby. I am so glad to hear she is so very well & bright. I wish you & Mary could see our dear little baby. He is very sweet, & to-day he has been as good as possible. Mrs Londenbeck is still with Mrs Ingersoll, but is coming here on Saturday on which day Mrs Fiske is obliged to go. Dr Morris drank tea with us last night, he was looking well & seemed very bright. He brought little John a beautiful Bible as his offering, and such a good note for him to read when he is old enough. I am sure it cannot fail to do him good. The Dr told us there would be
