Case of Hydrophobia.

On Monday, as Sterling Frock, 14-year-old son of Mr. Theo. Frock, of Union Mills, was returning home from work he was attacked and severely bitten in the arm by a large dog owned by Ex-State Senator T. Herbert Shriver. It developed that the dog had been bitten a few months previous by a dog thought to have had hydrophobia. On Sunday the dog bit a number of dogs and acted in a peculiar manner, but little attention was paid to him until he bit young Frock and attempted to bite other persons and members of the family. Then young Frock was taken to the office of Dr. G. Lewis Wetzel, who cauterized the wound and directed that the dog be tied and observation made of his actions. This was done and the dog was siezed with convulsions later, which continued until he died. Thursday morning, Dr. Wetzel then had the brain and spinal cord of the animal sent to the Pasteur Institute in Baltimore, where Dr. Kierle, director of the institute, made examination of the brain and cord and sustained the diagnosis of hydrophobia. Young Frock was thereupon hurriedly taken to the institute and put under treatment in order to prevent the dread malady.

The services at the church were conducted by Rev. Ambrose Burgess. Rev. E. O. Ewing conducted a short service at the house. Interment was in the church cemetery. Messrs. James M. Stoner & Son were funeral directors.

Francis J. Classon.

Mr. Frances J. Classon, an aged carpenter of this city, was fatally injured by a fall froml a scaffolding at an addition being erected to the factory of the Farmer's Fertilizer Company, on Saturday morning last, and died about 11.30 o'clock, Monday night. Mr. Classon was at work on a scaffold, three feet wide, erected at the gable end of the building, 28 feet from the ground, setting the frame of a window. He fell to the roof of the main building, bounded off and struck the wires of a telephone line before reaching the ground. He was cut about the head, his collar bone and several ribs were fractured and it is supposed that he sustained internal injuries. He was taken to his home on Pennsylvania avenue, where he was attended by Drs. J. H. Billingslea and C. R. Foutz. Mr. Classon was in his 69th year. He was a respectable and worthy citizen and a faithful member of St. John's Catholic Church. He leaves a widow and one grandson, aged about 15 years, but no children. Funeral services were held at St. John's Catholic Church, yesterday morning by the pastor, Rev. Jos. H. Cassidy, and interment was in the church cemetery. Mr. F. C. Sharrer was funeral director.

Harry E. Crout.

Mr. Harry E. Crout, who had charge of the Hotel Westminster, this city, from the time it was first opened for the reception of guests until about a year ago, died with startling suddenness, in the Gayety Theatre, Baltimore, on Monday afternoon. With him at the time were Dr. Joseph T. Hering, Messrs. Wm. P. Hall, E. E. Thompson and Wm. Lynch, the last named of whom is clerk of the Club Hotel of which Mr. Crout was manager. As the City Hall clock was striking 3, Dr. Hering, who sat next to Mr. Crout, felt him lean heavily upon his shoulder and was horrified to see him gasping for breath. Mr. Crout was at once carried to the lobby of the theatre, where it was found he had already expired. His death is attributed to sudden dilation of the heart. His wife, who had come to this city in the morning to visit friends and expected to remain until Tuesday, was told that he was seriously ill and returned home by the 4.15 train. She was utterly prostrated when she heard of his death.

Mr. Crout was a son of the late John E. Crout, of Reisterstown and was about 43 years old. For the last twelve years he was in the hotel business in which he was very popular and had made many friends. He leaves a widow but no children. His mother, three sisters and four brothers survive him. Deep sympathy is felt here for his bereaved widow, who has many warm friends in this city and vicinity.

Mr. Crout was a member of Door to Virtue Loge, A. F. and A. M., of this city, and at the request of Mrs. Crout he was interred at Reisterstown, on Wednesday afternoon, with the burial rites of the order, conducted by the lodge.

Robbed by Highwaymen.

Russell Snoemaker, the young school teacher at Bish's school, near Deep Run, about a mile from the Pennsylvania line, was assaulted and robbed by three highwaymen, on Monday evening, about twilight. He was returning to his boarding house, one mile from the school, and, midway between the two places, was accosted by the men, strangers, who stepped from behind a clump of bushes. After a few words of conversation, they suddenly seized him. He resisted. His assailants beat him over the head and slashed him with knives. His collar and his coat from neck to waist were cut. He was fortunate in escaping with a bruised head and a slight cut in the arm. While two of the men held him, the other went through his pockets and robbed him of his watch and fob and a sum of money. After the assault, he walked to his home near Harney, sixteen miles, and, on Tuesday, with his father, came to this city and reported the matter to State's Attorney Reifsnider and Sheriff Townshend. He described one of his assailants as dressed in overalls, and another as without a coat. The officers will make every effort to arrest the criminals, though at present they have no clue to their identity.

Garrett at Mt. Airy.

A splendid audience greeted Mr. Robert Garrett, at Mt. Airy, last Saturday night. Mr. Garrett made a masterly address, especially notable as an unanswerable argument, showing Mr. Talbott's unfitness to longer represent the Second Congressional District in the House of Representatives.

Mr. Garrett said:

"A few days ago, I challenged Mr. Talbott to state under oath and before election day the sources of his large campaign fund and the occupations of those who have contributed to it. At Mt. Washington, on Wednesday night, he referred to this subject and said, according to the report of the meeting in the 'American Star', that it had not been customary for him to make such a statement of HIS PERSONAL AFFAIRS under oath, and he did not think it was desired of him by the people.

"The public would not bother their heads about it if Mr. Talbott didn't spend a mint of money at election time, but it is generally believed that he does, and since he is supposed not to possess very much money which has been inherited or earned, the people DO want to know the sources of his large campaign fund.

"He affirms that it has not been customary for him to make such a statement of his personal affairs. Of course it has not been customary,—we all know that. But we also know that if it had been, he would not be the candidate for Congress of the Democratic party today, and he would not be allowed to remain the 'boss' of Baltimore county. That is just the point. He is supposed by many to have habitually received contributions from corporations and from individuals who need political assistance of one sort or another from him.

"This is the kind of thing the people object to, and they will not permit it much longer. This is just the sort of thing that caused a reluctant Legislature to pass a Corrupt Practices act in response to the demand of the people. That act, in my judgment, is not a good one in some particulars, and I think it will not be thoroughly effective; but it is distinctively a step in the right direction.

"Mr. Taboltt calls the subscriptions to his campaign fund 'his personal affairs.' There's the great, all-powerful 'boss' for you! 'His personal Affairs'! What astounding views of our supposedly honest, free, open, representative government does a real, genuine, autocratic 'boss' hold! It doesn't concern the people, does it, as to whether or not Talbott receives a contribution of $1000 from a corporation or an officer of a corporation needing his assistance in Washington, or in Annapolis, or in his throne-room at Towson. Of course it doesn't concern the people that a road supervisor whose salary is paid out of their pockets is assessed $100 each year to support Mr. Tablott and his ring! Why, it is absurd to suppose for a moment that it's any business of the people as to whether or not a saloon keeper has to pay to one of Talbott's lieutenants $20 every Monday morning in the year as protection money,—money paid over to the ring in return for being allowed to keep open on Sunday contrary to the law! Oh no! it doesn't concern the people one particle how Talbott conducts their public affairs,—why he's their benevolent despot,—he's their king of kings,—he dispenses favors to his worshipping subjects as he sees fit,—and of course, as is best for them, for he knows better than they do what they need!

" 'Shall the people Rule?' is a cry that we hear resounding through the land today. An echo comes from Baltimore county: "Drat that man Bryan,—why don't he keep quiet,—what does he know about the American scheme of government anyhow? Why didn't he see me first like these sensible, tamed, corporation lions, and these pets of mine that I tamed years and years ago? Say, Duke,—say John, and you, Carville, Mike and Little John, my knights of the inner ring,—shshsh,—the people are beginning to wake up, go softly, don't make a noise, let's get up some more schemes to fool 'em, it don't matter about the truth,—say, boys, let's tell 'em that Garrett's a rich man,—though he doesn't use as much money in elections as I do, not by a long shot,—tell 'em he has no sympathy with the poor,—tell 'em any old rot so long as the people will believe it,—anything, just so it will fool 'em again, and by the way, go see Guy Steele up in Carroll and tell him to spread it about that Garrett is opposed to having the Lincoln Boulevard built through Carroll,—of course he hasn't said so, but that don't matter. And say, I almost forgot another thing—go see Charles Wise and George Davis, our election supervisors, and tell them to get up some more tricks,—you remember the ones we worked two years ago, when we put the blank space over Garrett's name, and put my name at the bottom of the ballot,—and then you remember the thin paper we had,—it was so thin that our judges could see just how the people were voting, and some fellers were afraid to vote against me because they knew we'd catch on and they'd lose their jobs. Go ahead now, get all these things straight, we've got the devil of a fight on hand this time, but we've got to win no matter what has to be done to bring success.'

"Hold on now, Mr. Talbott, the people understand you pretty well finally, and they won't stand for all this trickery any longer. You have fooled some of the people all the time, you have fooled all of the people some of the time, but I'll see to it that you don't fool all of the people all of the time!

"All over the country the people are striving for better things in business and in public affairs. Here, in the 2nd Congressional District, we have conditions not one whit better than the things that have been exposed to the shocked gaze of the whole country.

They are of a piece with them and they must also go down. I bespeak for the people a better order of affairs. We seem to have lost sight for awhile of the high standard of honor and integrity that we Americans pride ourselves upon. But it has been only for a short time, and now the people are coming into their own."

Green hats, green stockings, green neck ties etc. are all the rage. The only trouble is, the demand is so great that manufacturers cannot keep up. We have just received a new lot of green hats for men in the newest and nobbiest shapes, real beauties, and if you want to be up with the times you just must have one. Prices $1.50 and $2.00.

Also new lots of men's hose and men's neckwear in the new shades of green. All at popular prices. Let us show you these new things.
