almost they seem to give it up, but perhaps it is for the best. I do trust God to order all things according to His own will and to give us grace to be content with what He appoints us. I have had no opportunity yet of attending to your wants and wishes but hope soon to do so. I wrote about what was left here about what I think nothing yet but some faint echo that you did allude to some bill besides that of Cowell's but I have my money.
There is no special disease prevailing just now. but the Ague consumes our boys in quite considerable I had a letter yesterday from Father very kindly affectionate — He desires his love to Aunt & Harriet & wishes to you they do not think of returning soon I believe. Isaac is quite better but says everything crooked and double yet. I think it not improbable that Cornelia may be benefitted by a good dose of Calomel followed by Lime Juice — I have no doubt the Calomel would be of use to her

SIDE TWO

I am glad to find you are all so much interested for Mr Dillon and hope you may succeed in keeping him and making him comfortable. I can not say any thing about our means here just now — we must wait till the first of the year perhaps. There may be something we can appropriate to that purpose also. — Anne Frost has certainly gained during her visit to you. July 6th The day is warm. there are rains of all kinds and degrees — I have just dined all before you yet will finish my letter. I am just sent quite tired today & design going to Atlanta City tomorrow to remain quite monday when I will make a visit to Brother Sean Lizzie & Lizzie. — I shall take tea this evening with Cousins Emily who was abroad when I called there this morning. She was sadly fatigued by the journey home Sally went with her & shared the night & yesterday to Bobbins. I shall make an effort to get there soon but find my time fully occupied. I have just finished the last sheet to the memoir of Dr Caspar Wistar, & shall now take up that of dear old Dr Samuel and then I have no work for my pen on hand —
