Dear Mrs. Morris,

I can hardly believe that only last Sunday we were with you, for it seems as if we have done a great deal in the past week. So much, indeed, that this is the first opportunity I have had of writing to you. Though had I not known that you would hear from us through Mr Conquest, I would have made out to find the time in some way. Annie bore the journey very well, though the night was close, and she felt the difference between the fresh country and the city air. Pale met us in Baltimore having arranged about the mail car

Know how grateful we all feel - and not only did our visit give us both the greatest pleasure, but I trust and believe that it has been of great benefit to Annie. Oh I hope that when we next see you, she will be quite well again and will we not enjoy our Saturday evening meetings again? How is darling little Dudie? Give our love to her and her "little sister baby." The Dr. paid Annie a visit while I was at church this morning and said he had told Dale he must not go out today as he was not fit. He has not been well this week and has been very lazy, so his Father thought he might to rest today, and so far he has been a good boy. Annie joins me in much love to you, Mary, Harry & the children. Ever yours sincerely H. Pent.
