AMERICAN SENTINEL.

WESTMINSTER, - MARYLAND.

W. L. W. SEABROOK, WILLIAM L. SEABROOK, } Editors.

Entered at the Postoffice at Westminster, Md., as Second-class matter.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1908.

The Board of Aldermen of New York has appropriated $156,000,000 as the amount required to run the government of that city in 1909. That is approximately $40 per capita. If the cost of the government of the United States were at the same ratio, expenditures would be about $3,400,000,000 per annum. Democrats are much in the habit of commenting upon what they are pleased to term Republican extravagance in National affairs; but here is a Democratic municipality showing a degree of prodigality in expenditures about triple that of the highest government figures.

The story that Hon. George A. Pearre of the Sixth Maryland District, intends to introduce a bill in Congress, at the beginning of the coming session, December 7, to appropriate money to construct a Lincoln memorial boulevard from Washington to Gettysburg, through Frederick, has been revived and is probably correct. Congressman Lafean, who took the initiative in the project will, without doubt introduce his bill to construct the boulevard on a direct line to this city and hence to Gettysburg. If Mr. Pearre has a proper sense of courtesy he will not attempt to take precedence of Mr. Lafean in presenting the project to the House. After that he can properly seek to have the route proposed by Mr. Lafean changed, but as the Westminster route is the preferable one, it is not likely the effort will succeed. It is probably that, if the boulevard be decided upon by Congress as the proper memorial, it will come this way.

Election Contributions.

Reports of the chairmen of the various party committees, local, state and national, are now being made public. They are really of little value, however, as evidence of the actual expenditures, as much money may be expended which never goes into the committees' treasuries.

George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, reports contributions to the amount of $1,655,578.27. The committee expended $1,035,368.27 and turned over to State Committees for use in their own States, $620,150. The list of contributors numbered 12,330. The largest contribution was by C. P. Taft, brother of the president elect, who gave $110,000.

Herman Ridder, treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, reports 74,000 contributions, amounting to $620,644.77, and disbursements amounting to $619,110.06.

In Maryland, Chairman Parran, of the Republican Committee, reports contributions at $29,752.21, and disbursements $29,292.37.

Chairman Vandiver, of the Democratic Committee, says he received $15,056.12 and expended $13,994.01.

Doubtless much of the money received by committees of both parties was wasted but there is no evidence that any of it was improperly used. It was largely a campaign of education and vast amounts were expended in the preparation and distribution of campaign literature. No doubt stacks of this literature never got out of the original packages and the money spent in providing it was simply thrown away.

The laws requiring reports of this character impose extraordinary labor upon party officials, but the system thus inaugurated is salutary and its effect must be to lessen the improper use of money to prevent a full, free and honest expression of the will of the voters. Something more, however, will be necessary to reduce crime of that sort to a minimum. Whether such additional safeguards against corrupt political practices can be devised remains to be seen. That they can be is a possibility and good citizens will hope that such a result may be eventually realized. Everybody knows that existing law on the subject is inadequate, but let us be thankful for it, defective as it is, and set our faces persistently toward its improvement and ultimate perfection.

Two tornadoes swept over Arkansas on Monday, one going south and the other north. Numbers of hamlets or villages and the country in the track of the storm were badly damaged, buildings, trees, fencing &c., were blown down, upwards of twenty people were killed and many injured. Property valued at $1,000,000 was destroyed.

Meeting of Bee-Keepers.

In the local in last week's SENTINEL in reference to the attendance of Rev. H. H. Flick and Mr. John M. The date for the meeting has been changed to Thursday, December 3. It may interest apiarists in this county to learn that a carefully prepared program has been arranged for that occasion and that, in addition to the discussion of various and important phases of Apiculture, addresses will be delivered on pertinent features of the subject.

The first of these addresses will be delivered by Prof. T. B. Symons, State Entomologist, on "Need of a Bee-Keepers' Association in Maryland." Dr. E. F. Phelps, in charge of Division of Apiculture, U. S. Department of Agriculture, will speak on "The Present Status of Apiculture in the United States;" Dr. G. F. White, specialist U. S. Department of Agriculture, on "How to Detect and Control Bee Diseases," and E. R. Root, editor Gleanings in Bee Culture, Medina, Ohio, on "The Handling of Bees."

Patapsco Items.

The butchering season is with us and our local butchers are in demand this week. Some fine hogs have been slaughtered, giving us plenty of sausage and "pon hoss" for the inner man.

Mr. Randolph Taylor has moved from Carrollton Station to his son's property on the Bethel road, and his son moved to the house vacated by his father.

IN MEMORIAM.

BYERS.—In sad but loving remembrance of our dear son and brother, Nathan D. Byers, who was killed November 17th, 1908.

Time cannot heal our wounded hearts
Nor fill the vacant chair;
We miss thee at all times,
We miss thee everywhere.

Jesus, whilst my heart is bleeding,
Over the loss of my dear one,
Help me, O, my blessed Saviour
Calmly say: "Thy will be done."

Thou knowest my life is sad and lonely,
Yet I try so hard to endure the pain;
Oftimes I think my poor heart's breaking
To think I'll never see him on earth again.

Think not, my loved one, that thou art forgotten;
For by me thou shalt never be;
As long as breath shall warm my frame
My thoughts will be of thee.

By his Family.

We Are Ready For CHRISTMAS

The Great Toy Store Is Ready

BOYS, girls, do you hear the word you have so anxiously awaited—our great Toy Store is ready. The surprises we began preparing for you away back last January—the wonderful things that we've gathered from all over the world—are now spread before you. And what a multitude! The Toy Store, occupying greatly enlarged quarters, can scarcely hold them. Tables, counters and shelves are fairly groaning under the load of wonder and mystery they bear. Most all our own importation.

"What is there to see?" Ask us something easier. How in the world can we give you even a faint idea? There's so much of interest—practically all the treasures of Santa-Claus-Land. Here, all that the fairy books tell about—all your childhood happy dreams—have sprung to joyous life. Everything that Santa Claus ever had, and hundreds of things that he never saw before. You can't think of a thing for playtime's hour that isn't here—Noah's Arks, drums, rubber balls, horses and wagons, horns, engines; all sorts of toys that do things; dolls, doll houses—but, goodness, gracious! what's theuse of trying to give a list when the number is almost endless, And, besides, it's a whole lot better to see them for yourself than to read about them. So come; this word was merely intended as a personal invitation to every child whose eye it meets. Bring your parents with you. They'll enjoy the show. Isn't any young person, be he or she months or eighty-six years of age, who won't.

IN THE BASEMENT YOU WILL FIND A COLLECTION OF

China And Bric-A-Brac

(OF OUR OWN IMPORTATION)

Equal to the largest City Stores. We have made extraordinary preparations this year, expecting to do the largest business in our history.

MAKE YOUR PURCHASE EARLY, SHOP IN THE MORNING AND AVOID THE RUSH.
