FRIDAY, JANUARY 29, 1909.

On Wednesday, 29th inst., State Auditor Ash reported to Governor Crothers' Cabinet that the sheriff of Baltimore City received in 1907, in addition to his constitutional salary of $3,000 allowed him, $10,275, which he did not turn over to the State. His report raised the question as to whether sheriffs, clerks of courts, and other officers throughout the State, have been making proper return to the Comptroller of the Treasury of fees received in excess of legitimate salaries. Governor Crothers at once announced that suits must be brought to recover such sums as may be due the State from these officials, illegally retained. It is admitted that the sheriff of Baltimore City in 1907 but followed the example set by his predecessors. Attorney General Straus, if correctly reported in the daily press, takes, to say the least, a strange ethical view of the situation, when he says: "I do not want to be put in the position of harshly criticizing this alleged retention of fees. It is illegal but not immoral. It has for many years been sanctioned by custom and the men did it though they had no right to do so. They had no right, but the thing had grown into a system, and each sheriff thought he was justified in doing as his predecessors had done." The further statement made by Mr. Ash that the recommendations made in his recent report to the Governor's Cabinet had been repeatedly made before, but they had never attacted attention nor were they taken up by any of the authorities, indicates that not only have the sheriffs of Baltimore City acted illegally in the retention of money to their own use, belonging to the State, but that some one higher in authority has been derelict in the discharge of his duty. Governor Crothers has directed Auditor Ash to tabulate all data in his possession and submit the facts as soon as possible.

This he will do in a few days.

The expectation that the investigation ordered by the Governor would embrace all fee officials throughout the State is negatived by Mr. Ash's latest statement that he has discovered no shortage in the accounts of public officers in the counties, and that he has no data indicating that any clerk of the court has retained fees to which he was not legally entitled.

This statement of Mr. Ash and the facts on their face indicate the manifest unfairness of the criticism in the daily press of Mr. David P. Smelser, Clerk of the Circuit Court for this county, in which it was said that "He received in 1907, $21,830.82. There is no record of a return of a doliar to the State treasury. Here is the itemized statement of his disbursements: State licenses, $8133.38; school commissioners, $4,904.38; clerk's salary, $3,000; deputy clerks, $4,600; postage, stationery, expressage etc. $418.07; retained for unfinished work, $794.90." On its face this statement is unfair to Mr. Smelser in that $8113.38 was for licenses and was paid into the State treasury; $4,904.38 came from liquor licenses and was paid to the school commissioners; leaving instead of $21,830.-82 only $8,813.06 for salaries and expenses of the clerk's office, which was applied as above stated. The sum of $794, collected in excess of salaries of clerk and deputies, was not turned over to the State, but under authority of an act of the Legislature, expended in indexing the equity records of the county.
