writing to you till I am compelled to do it so hastily as to preclude the possibility of any expression of feeling or sentiment. and too often to prevent the pen saying all that I should say about our interest I have heard nothing yet from Mrs Manni and shall not for a week or two I think.
Mrs Sally has gone to Dr Kennards - The company in the house is very pleasant cheerful but not gay & free from any pretence or assumption of style or manner. I shall send some medicine from Brandt Miller in Harrys boots. yesterday Mamma I sent your lamp down with my letter in a small package what I hope reached you safely and unopened. I am almost afraid it might yesterday Mamma I drove to Green Hill but found there was no one at home - The yesterday afternoon I received your very acceptable letter. You need not be afraid of overdoing the matter unless it be to your own injury and tell them I love them both very much though to tell the truth I am sometimes inclined to think I do not love any body - I do hope you may all be favoured with good health and prosperity -
