My dear Ann

I am obliged to trouble you once more to send me the plaster you used for your breast those you sent me some years ago, had the happiest effect on my friend I got it ~~for~~ so much so that now a Physician whose wife has her breast in a bad state wishes me to procure it for her, this time I will take the name of it and the direction where to procure it, down in a book, and then I will not trouble you again, this Spring I was for a few days at Dover, Mary Merry with
