1860 January - May Casper Morris Incoming Letters 1994

she felt very comfortable, & about 20 mins. past 6 on Sunday morning, almost imperceptibly, breathed her last. Some of her children at a distance had not time to come to see her; but in calmly looking back upon the circumstances, we must think acknowledge the mercy of God in sparing my mother not only from physical suffering, but also from the mental one of parting from those she loved.

My mother's life needed no dying testimony to satisfy those who were left behind as to her faith and hope.

Thomas buried on the 23rd in Friends Burial Ground Kendal. I make no apology for sending these particulars as I know how interest in all that concerns us. Since my mother died my sister Anna who has been increasingly delicate during the last 2 yrs, has been gradually sinking, and 2 days ago I was summoned from London under the apprehension of her speedy dissolution. She has since slightly rallied but the medical man who attends her says there is no real amendment to believe
