SIDE ONE

My Dear Doctor

I received your letter yesterday morning and saw Harwood at once, he promised me to get the money from Bank and attend to the business to-day. I hope he has done so, and that you will have no further worry about Lockerman and affairs. He has ample means to pay his board, and it is a shame that the family allow themselves to be indebted to the Hospital for back accounts. At Mrs Lockerman's death the whole property came into the hands of Harwood & a sister of Lockermans, and I know to my cost that the cash thus fan received has not been appropriated as it should have been, at least had accountable for his board, as I gave you notice there a year ago of Mrs L's death, and that Mr Harwood was the Trustee who would from that time have control of his affairs, & I understood from you subsequently that you were entirely free from any responsibility on his account. Please to let I know know as soon as you are released or what obstacle may be in the way of being released.

Yr Sincerely
Ro Ridout
