DEFERRED LOCALS.

A Relic of the War.

The following is a copy of an original order or pass exhibited in this office by Mr. George W. Roop, a son of Charles F. Roop deceased, who was a son of the late David Roop to whom the pass was issued. Mr. Charles F. Roop late of Keysville, this county, was a Union soldier and while stationed with his regiment on Maryland Heights at Harpers Ferry was taken very ill. His father went to Harpers Ferry and applied for and received the following pass. It is well preserved and will recall to some of our veterans the days from 1861 to 1865.

Headquarters U. S. troops at Harpers Ferry, March 1, 1863.

Pass Mr. D. Roop, a citizen, to upper battery on Maryland Heights to see his son who is ill.

A Letter from Illinois.

Ashton, Ill., March 5th. 1910.

The Sentinel.

Westminster, Md.

Enclosed find $1.000 for which extend my subscription for another year. I would not want to do without it as it seems like a letter from some dear old friend. I would not be without it for three, yes, ten times the price.

We surely have had a long winter out here and the snow is just now leaving us. We have had fine sleighing ever since the first week in Dec. I have been out mornings this winter, hauling corn, when the thermometer has been down to 35 below zero. Now that may seem very cold to you folks but it is just nice weather for us.

Feed is very high, also hogs and cattle, I hauled off a load of hogs the other day for which I received $9.90 per hundred, live weight. Wishing you and your paper success I am,

Yours truly,
Paul A. Leister,
Ashton, Illinois.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of this Westminster Citizen is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains.
Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault.
Backache is really kidney ache;
That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.
Many Westminster women know this.
Read what one has to say about it:
Mrs. Elizabeth Gardner, E. Main St., Westminster, Md., says: "I suffered from kidney trouble for many years, having a dull, steady ache in my back. At times, I became so weak and tired that I could hardly do my work. My kidneys were disordered and the secretions passed too frequently. Not long ago I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and was so impressed that I procured a box at C. W. Moore's Drug Store. They soon drove away the trouble. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other sufferers of kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents.

HOG LOST 100 LBS.

About Christmas time John Blanchar of Windsor, Wisconsin missed a hog weighing about 150 pounds.

Its disappearance remained a mystery until it was discovered wedged in under the feeding platform. It was so emaciated it weighed only about 50 pounds. As to what kept his hogship alive during two long months, Mrs. Blanchar says she noticed their puppy with an ear of corn in his mouth on several occasions going under the platform, and it is thought the hog was kept alive by the food thus provided.

AN APPRECIATIVE CLIENT.

A young Concord lawyer had a foreign client in police court the other day. It looked rather black for the foreigner, and the Concord man fairly outdid himself in trying to convince the magistrate that his client was innocent.

The lawyer dwelt on the other's ignorance of American customs, his straight-forward story, and enough other details to extend the talk fully 15 minutes. His client was acquitted.

In congratulating the freed man the lawyer held out his hand in an absent though rather suggestive manner. The client grasped it warmly.

"Dot, was a fine noise you make" he said "Thanks. Goo by."—Concord (N. H) Monitor.

LETTING ONESELF GO.

(Columbia (S. C.) State).

It very often happens that we have a thought, but are afraid to express it, est it seem absurd to others. A song begins to sing itself in our heart, but we hush it, lest our friends say, "what a trifling thing, to be sure." We have in our soul the prompting of a generous act, but we hesitate and forego it, for fear we may appear sentimental. When, if we had been true to ourselves, and uttered the thought, sung the song, done the generous thing, we, too might have won the applause of men no less than that higher reward, the approval of our own nature.

The sincere man trusts himself. What he thinks he is confident is at least worthy of expression, and what he is prompted to do he is certain must be right. He acts promptly and frankly and courageously, and so lives his own life and permits his soul its own effloresence and fruiting. He lets himself "go."

After all, we are and can be only ourselves. If we are to advance or to be anything, we must let ourselves "go." We cannot by taking thought add a cubit to our intellectual stature. What we are we are, and we can only make the most of ourselves by letting "go" and going as far as possible.

IN ANOTHER'S PLACE.

(Charleston News and Courier.)

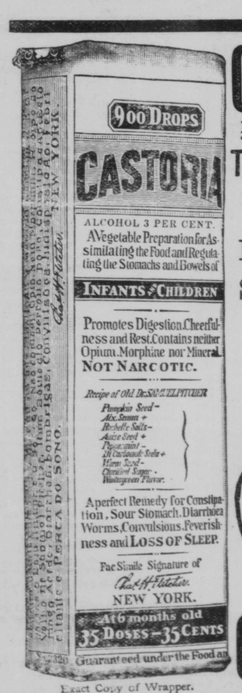

The human heart is a continuing problem; its mysterious depths have never been fully explored and what in others often seems inexplicable to us is but the result of the natural workings of that person's heart. If one could read the signs aright and always be in position to know in advance exactly what everyone else would, do much of the charm of social intercourse would be lost, for the very uncertainty of action and the stimulus of surprise help to make life intersting. We may persuade ourselves that we can read a certain person "like a book," but the time is almost sure to come when we realize that our judgment has been at fault, and as if to make amends we immediately condemn his actions and assert what we would have done in his place, when the probability is that in similar circumstances we would have acted precisely as he did.

Thinking ourselves into another's place is one thing, and actually trying to fill that place is another. The world is such a big place that no one figure is essential to its existance. When a life goes out in darkness the gloom is almost immediately dissipated by the thousands of lives burning brightly all around, and it is only in the little circle that sat in the light cast by some one particular life that his departure is really noted, and only upon the hands that take up his parted threads and try to join them is his place in the world rightly valued.

HOW MEN DRINK FARMS.

We were "twiched" a little Monday by a good farmer friend upon the "strong" character of our local option editorial last week under the caption of "It Won't be drowned." Our friend declared that we were "living in a glass house," and that we were "growing idealistic." Well we'll try it again under another proposition: while you are stirring up the sugar in that 10-cent glass of gin, let us give a fact to wash it down with.

You said you are in love with the independent life of the farmer—if you only owned the farm! You admitted that you could have owned one, if you "had been more careful." We are glad for the opening argument you unconsciously gave us. For several years you have been drinking a good improved farm at the rate of 100 feet a gulp. If you doubt this statement, figure it out yourself. An acre of land contains 43,560 square feet. Estimating, for convenience sake, the land at $43.56 per acre, you will see that brings the land to just 1 mill per square foot; 1 cent for 10 square feet. Now pour the fiery dose, and imagine you are swallowing a strawberry patch. Call in five of your friends and have them help gulp down that 500-foot garden. Get on a prolonged spree some day, and see how long a time it requires to swallow a pasture large enough to feed a cow. Put down that glass of gin, there's dirt in it 100 square feet of good rich dirt, worth $43.56 per acre. —Littlestown, Pa., Independent.

GREAT BASE BALL AHEAD.

(Wasinhgton Herald.)

Unless our exceedingly interesting and good friends, the sporting editors, and others of their ilk are fooling us—and we are slow, of course, to believe for one moment that they would—we are to have a great baseball season this year. Teams are being picked with more than usual care, and players are to be held down to a line of conduct absolutely in keeping with the game at its best.

A curiously significant feature of the progress of baseball in this country is the constantly growing number of minor leagues. Every year sees the old ones continued, and some expanded, and numerous new additions made. There is hardly a hamlet in the entire nation nowadays that has not its base ball team; and no matter where you may drop down for the day, there you may see a game well worth while, as a rule.

The popularity of base ball never wanes. On the contrary, it increases with the years. The telegraph wires keep the nation in immediate touch with the situation from Maine to California, because the public demand is such that it will be satisfied with nothing short of that. Young and old, male and female, every American must have his daily baseball "dope!" Baseball is the great national game, indeed!

POWER OF WILL.

(Ohio State Journal.)

There are three powers of the soul according to psychology—thinking, feeling, willing. To the first or the intellect we pay most attention, so much so, that it affects to depise the other two, and especially the feeling or emotional part. As to the will, that is almost read out of the trinity.

And yet the will is the most important of all. Of course, its relation to the intellect and feeling is very close but it provides the condition that gives them any value. The will is the moral basis of human nature. A man may feed his intellect with infinite mathematics and his heart with endless poetry and nature beauty, but after all, he is a mere worm if he cannot direct his thought and his desire. It is the manly part which is sustained by courage, self-denial, toil and suffering.

The true values of this word do not drop into the lap; they come through the exercise of the will that makes sacrifice and work its ministering angels. The old Roman saying was, "Where there is a will there is a way," The reality of life is left to the will and so is everything that is good in conduct, religion, business, education. How to strengthen the will is every one's foremost problem.
