1869-1870 Cooper Morris — Incoming letters MS 1794 fatal drives and plowing I manage charming excursions on donkeys into the mountains. The temperature is very equable the thermometer ranging from 44° to 60°. Though we were much that we enjoyed in England we are glad to have escaped the great storm which has prevailed there during all this month. Father is quite as well as he was there - very little cough good appetite and sleeps well.

We are now looking forward to paying a short visit to Rome about the last of March returning by Florence and Pisa to Paris about the first of May.

We hope to spend some time in London in May when I shall be very glad to obtain any information I can for you regarding the persons you mentioned in your first letter to my Father.

Unfortunately in the confusion incident to our leaving Naples the letter that letter was mislaid so I must ask you to send again a statement of the names and dates. We were very glad to learn of Dr Chester's happy marriage having heard many pleasant accounts of the lady from our Baltimore friends. I hope you are not the worse for the unseasonably mild and unhealthy winter you appear to have experienced which seems to have been fatal to so many whose names and deeds will not soon be forgotten in the community.

With much love from all to Mrs Morris and yourself I am very truly Yours
E. H. Yarnall
