FRIDAY, JULY 8, 1910.

As the loser in the late prize fight got $250,000 "'twas better to have fought and lost than never to have fought at all."

Fight fans and gamblers generally care nothing about a fighter's color, race or previous condition of servitude. The prize ring is one place where the constitutional provision is respected.

As might have been expected the prize fight at Reno, Nevada, has stirred up a whole lot of race prejudice. The fight simply demonstrated that an athlete who quits for 8 or 10 years cannot accomplish the same results he could have accomplished before his retirement.

The London press calls our attention to the fact that a prize fight on the 4th of July, the most sacred day in our civil calendar, is given more prominence by our daily press than anything relating to the sacredness of the day. The English press wants to know if our 4th of July has lost its glory.

We are sorry to acknowledge the sins of our daily press but we are hopeful that it will see the error of giving so much prominence to unseemly matters and paying so little attention to matters of such vital interest to the welfare of our country.

Our present strenuous city authorities have started out to make this city one of the best in the State as a place of residence and we sincerely hope they will succeed. This city, for its size, is one of the richest in the State in all that goes to make an ideal place of residence. In worldly goods we make a very favorable comparison with any town of its size in the State.

Keep up the good work even if you do have to hold a "council of war" nearly every night. Boss Shepherd of Washington, D. C., was the most abused man in the town while he was making the improvements, but when he died the citizens wanted to erect a monument to his memory. He needed no monument because he had them all over the city. If you are successful in the present undertaking you will eventually get your monument, but if you make a miserable failure of the job why—well, we don't care to talk about unpleasant things.

The daily press has, for more than a year, been filling column after column of its papers with news of the prize fight which took place at Reno, Nevada, on July 4th. It seemed to be bending all its efforts to stir up an interest in the fight and it certainly succeeded. It condemned the fight in one breath and in the next gave out all the news that a corps of well trained reporters and correspondents could collect. It rammed the news down the throat of every newspaper reader in the country. It was served to the reader before breakfast and after supper. Every one who read a daily paper became saturated with it. Stirred up by the press, the white people wanted the white man to win and the black people wanted the black one to win. To the experienced in such affairs there never was any doubt about the black man winning as he was the younger and the better conditioned of the two.

Now, when the whole affair is over and the white man is down and out the same newspapers are writing long articles calling upon mayors and governors to prohibit the exhibition of the fight in the moving picture theaters, because, as they say, it will stir up race prejudice.

We think it comes with very bad grace from the daily press to open its mouth on the subject of race prejudice. If it had published nothing about the fight, if it had ignored it entirely, very few people would have known anything about it. The race prejudice has been kept at boiling heat for over one year and when the fight ended in favor of the black man, the pot simply boiled over and some people are getting scalded.

The press should be a moral uplift in every community, but how can we expect people to become angelic when the daily press is constantly feeding both young and old with the details of murders, suicides, gamblings, prize fights, drunks, &c. In fact every bit of so called "news" that is calculated to lower the moral tone of the community.

Street Improvements.

The city authorities are proceeding in the only proper way in the matter of the Main street improvement. They have asked the National Government to aid them in the matter and it has gladly furnished them with an experienced road builder, free of all costs. By this means the city will get the benefit of the knowledge of the government experts and the government will also ascertain the actual cost, per foot, to repair an old road or street under the local conditions.

We are informed that the authorities expect to begin work about August 1st, and continue the same until the whole of Main street has been properly repaired. The present intention is to dig up the present macadam, level the street with the old and some additional new stone, cover the same with a mixture of tar and asphaltum and then roll the same with the ten ton steam roller until it is perfectly solid. After which a light coating of what is known as stone chips will be spread over the street and then again rolled. The chips are intended to give the street a rough or gritty surface in order to prevent horses slipping in icy weather. Trap rock will be used throughout as the government representative claims that lime stone will not stand the large and ever increasing traffic of Main street.

In order to make a good job of it some property holders on Main street will be requested to make some improvements in the curbing in front of their properties. They should make no objections to doing so because the improvement, for which the whole town is being taxed, will greatly enhance the value of their properties.

Primary Date Fixed at Last.

Congressional primaries will be held throughout the state on Tuesday, August 30. Chairmen Hanna and Vandiver reached an agreement on Tuesday. Last week the head of the Republican organization advised Mr. Vandiver that either August 23 or 30 would suit him and offered his choice. Tuesday, Mr. Hanna was notified by telephone that the Democrats preferred the later date, whereupon Mr. Hanna acquiesced, and the agreement was reached then and there.

It was thought that the congressional elections would be complicated by reason of the submission of the question of direct voting to the five counties which were excepted from the law, but in an opinion rendered by the Attorney General the referendum does not become effective until next year, because the provision of the act fixing the time for submission specifically set forth that it shall be at the first primary election at which county officers are to be chosen, hence the primaries next year in the counties of Howard, Somerset, Worcester, Wicomico and Washington. The nominations will be held under the auspices of the two organizations.

As construed by the Attorney General the law does not except the five counties for congressional nor judicial nominations, the outlaw section setting forth that "the provision of this subtitle" requiring the nomination of candidates by direct vote shall not apply to the nomination of such candidates for county officers, state senator and members of the House of Delegates in the counties of Howard, Somerset, Washington, Worcester and Wicomico, except as hereinafter provided, and then follows the referendum feature, so that when the Attorney General decided that the act applied to congressional nominations it brought in the five counties which must join the others in voting directly for candidates.

Nor is this all. Next fall when the judicial nominations are made they must also fall in line, for these are no more excepted than are congressional nominations. The Attorney General stated on Tuesday that this assumption is correct.

The decision of the Attorney General has upset the calculations of politicians in various parts of the state.
