The State Forester, Mr. F. W. Besley, with an assistant, is now in the county mapping the woodlands and classifying them as to their stand of timber and general condition. This forest survey of the State by counties has been in progress for the last three years and will be nearly completed this summer. The purpose of the survey is to determine as accurately as possible the forest resources of the county, the condition of the woodlands, and information in regards to the amount of lumber and timber of the various kinds that is being cut and its uses. It is hoped by this study to be able to offer practical methods of forest management that will improve the woodlands and increase their productiveness. When this work is completed a forest map of the county will be published accompanied by a report dealing with forest conditions and suggested methods of woodlot improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Brehm left on Wednesday morning for Abingdon, Illinois, where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Glaser, the latter of whom is a sister to Mrs. Brehm. Reed, of Larned, Kansas, another sister to Mrs. Brehm. Mrs. Brehm, whose maiden name was Fickle, has never seen her brothers and one of her sisters. Her parents formerly resided near Tannery and when she was quite a child the late Wm. Struth took her to raise and her parents went West. Her mother later died, her father remarried and the boys are the result of the last marriage. The boys and one of the girls, who have never seen Mrs. Brehm, have often expressed a desire to see her, and when Mr. and Mrs. Brehm arrive in Illinois there will be a happy reunion of the Fickle family.

Our smaller cities and towns are awakening to their possibilities in the commercial field. We see of late evidence of a new and commendable ambition in the leaders of the towns. This spirit is well shown in a recent editorial in the Crisfield (Md.) Times, in which a true note for progress is struck. The editorial is: "No town will become a good business center as long as its business men rely on a few merchants to make the efforts to bring trade to town. Too often the men in a few lines of trade are about the only ones to reach out after customers. Other merchants wait until those men induce the people to come to town and content themselves with trade that naturally drifts to their place. A public spirited man should ask himself if he is doing his part to attract people to come to town to trade—in helping the entire business community—and no town is a success unless all lines are working to extend the trade as far as possible and trying to bring a larger territory in the circle in which the town is the business center"

Shartle, Secretary Pennsylvania C. E. Union; and the officers of the Maryland and District of Columbia Unions. Miss Emma Post, State Junior Superintendent, will have charge of the Junior Conferences. Every morning will conclude with a stirring address by some prominent minister of Baltimore or Washington. From Washington the ministers will be: Rev. Dr. Frank T. Benson, and Rev. Dr. Donald C. MacLeod. From Baltimore will be Rev. Ezra K. Bell, Rev. T. O. Crouse, Rev. U. S. G. Rupp and others. These will deliver the addresses after the morning services and in the Auditorium in the evening. Each evening will have a stirring Praise Service under the direction of Mr. Richard A. Harris and a strong inspirational address.

A series of games have been arranged for the afternoon which will be given up entirely to recreation. All delegates, however, will be at liberty to put in this time as they please.

This is considered a great opportunity to establish a permanent Summer Institute of Religious work in Maryland and the Directors of the Maryland Christian Endeavor Union have provided for a great crowd.

She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bowers, near Bird Hill, this county, where she was well known. Her remains were interred in Baltimore on Thursday.

Robert J. Bennett.

Mr. Robert J. Bennett, one of the best known citizens of Howard county, died suddenly on Saturday of paralysis at his home at Rockland, aged 57 years. Mr. Bennett arose on Saturday morning in apparently good health.

Mr. Bennett was born in Carroll county and was educated at St. John's College. He was the son of the late Rev. Samuel and Mary Bennett, of Carroll county. He taught school in Howard county for about 15 years, and about two years ago he gave up teaching and engaged in the poultry business. He is survived by one sister, Miss Elizabeth Bennett and one brother, Mr. Wesley Bennett, a prominent real estate man of Baltimore.

David N. Henning.

David N. Henning, Esq., a son of the late David and Mary Ann Henning of Baltimore, and one of the oldest and one of the most prominent members of the bar of this county, died at his residence on East Main street, this city, on Monday morning last, aged 67 years, leaving surviving him a widow, who is a daughter of the late Dr. T. W. Wells of Hampstead, this county.

The funeral services were held at St. John's Catholic Church, in this city, on Wednesday at 10 A. M., Rev. Father Mallon officiating, and the interment was in the adjoining cemetery.

The pallbearers were Dr. William T. Wells, Bernard Wells, Dr. Horace E. Flack, William T. Henning, nephews of the deceased, and Dr. Eugene Sullivan and Edward O. Weant. Messrs. F. A. Sharrer and Son were funeral directors.

The deceased was a native of Baltimore where he received his education. He was admitted to practice law in 1867 in the Superior Court of Baltimore. He was delicate in his youth and in the hope of building up his health took the advice of his friend and boon companion, the late Dr. Winfield Fringer, who was then a medical student, and came to this city to practice his profession.

He immediately took an interest in politics as well as law and in 1875 was nominated by the Democratic party for the office of State's Attorney, a position which he filled with eminent success for four consecutive terms. During his incumbency of the office an enormous amount of criminal business was disposed of and the deceased was so eminently successful in conducting prosecutions that the Circuit Court for this county got to be known among criminals as the "sure road to the penitentiary."

While he was diligent in performing the duties of his office he was, at the same time, as tender hearted as a woman. If he felt that the prisoner at the bar deserved tender treatment he would not hesitate a moment to move his acquital, but if he thought a great wrong had been done the State his efforts for a conviction were doubled.

His tender and kind solicitation for the success of the younger members of the bar was very well known. If he could, without violating his oath, let up on a prisoner in order to allow a young member of the bar win, perhaps his first case, he would gladly do so and then turn around and congratulate the young member. Many of the members of the bar who have now reached middle life well remember his kindness to them in their early professional life.

His love for children was intense. He had none of his own but he took children belonging to his wife's deceased sister and supported and educated them, one of whom is Miss Nannie Coonan Henning and the other Dr. Thomas J. Coonan, both of this city.

In early life Mr. Henning had a decided talent for art and medicine. His late home is adorned with many of his efforts in art and his knowledge of medicine was valuable to him while acting as prosecuting attorney for the county.

As a civil lawyer he ranked among the best in the State, and but for his over generous disposition, and an affliction of the throat which kept him physically weak, he would have been a power in the State. While he was known and counted a Democrat he was very independent. He refused to swallow the recent amendment, advocated by his party and often took a stand against what he claimed was unwise and unpatriotic measures advocated by it.

In 1882 he was nominated for Associate Judge of this circuit but was defeated by the late Judge John E. Smith. After the election he was the first person to congratulate his successful opponent, and his love and affection for him in after life was well known. About 10 years ago Mr. Henning was injured in a driving accident and never fully recovered from its effects.

Judges Brashears and Forsythe, the members of the bar, and all the officers in the Court House attended the funeral in a body, and the Court House was closed during the same.

Mr. Henning is also survived by one brother, William Henning, of Baltimore, and three sisters, Mrs. Amelia Standiford, of Towson; Mrs. Jane R. Martin, and Mrs. D. A. Jones, of Baltimore.

The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful.

Gipsy Band Arrested.

The arrest of an entire band of gipsies by Sheriff Kemper and Deputy Sheriff Shearer in this city on Monday and their arraignment before Police Justice Edwin W. Shriver caused excitement and drew a large crowd. The specific charge against the gipsies was plying their business without having obtained a license, as required by the Act of 1904, chapter 485. There are a half dozen or more women in the band and they were entering offices and residences and importuning people to have their fortunes told.

In some cases, when they found a customer, they practiced what is known as the flim-flam game. One lady was told to remove her rings, and after the gipsy who told her fortune had disappeared, a valuable ring was missing. One of the women espied several gold pieces in the hand of a genleman, and exclaimed "Eagles, pretty gold, let see!" and was permitted to handle them. The gentleman discovered after she retired that a $5 piece had gone with her. He would have had her arrested, but the women are so much alike in appearance that he failed to identify her. The incident, however, led to the discovery that the band was without a license, and the arrest followed.

The case was settled by the payment of a fine of $10 and costs, amounting to $22.10, and a license was procured at a cost of $50.50, making a total of $72.60. State's Attorney Reifsnider represented the prosecution, and Edward O. Weant the gipsies.

The band has no distinctive name, but is said to be composed of Brazilian nomads, though several of the women said they were Choctaw Indians.

The chief of the band, a stalwart and swarthy fellow, who evidently rules with an iron hand, says his name is Amiel Mitchell. The band has six wagons and 14 or 15 horses. It numbers well nigh 40 persons, many of whom are children, including a number of babes in arms. The license issued by the clerk of the Circuit Court authorizes the band to encamp in this county and ply its business until May 1, 1911. The license becomes void if, in the meantime, the band goes out of the county. They left on Wednesday saying they were going to Washingtgon City.

The judgment of the Commissioners and the experts who under the Board have made careful examination is that there should be some repairs to the roof and floor of the house in Gamber.

Mr. Frederick Tawney died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Sallie Selby, July 11th, 1910, aged eighty-six years. He had been a sufferer from stomach trouble, being confined to his bed for several months. He was a man highly esteemed, living a life in our midst that was a worthy example for us to follow. He was a devoted member of The Church of God, and had been a member here for sixty-nine years and was always ready to contribute of his means to the support of the Gospel. He was twice married, the last wife dying some years ago. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Emma Glanville, and three sons: Carlton of Baltimore; Albert of Laurel, Md.; and James of near Hanover. He was a member of I. O. O. F. and a veteran of the Civil War. Funeral services were held in the Bethel, Tuesday at 2 P. M., by Revs. L. F. Murray, V. K. Betts and J. Staub The ministers of the town were also present. Burial in the Hill cemetery. The pallbearers were Wm. and Wesley Rodkey, Jesse Billmyer, Ezra Garner John Stuller and George Slonaker.

The M. P. Sunday School will hold its annual festival on the church lawn, July 23rd. A band of music will enliven the occasion, whilst the children enjoy their treat.

The Willing Workers of the Lutheran Church are busy planning for a bazaar to be held on the school grounds August 4th. The proceeds will be for benefit of cemetery funds. The Pleasant Valley band will favor the audience with its fine music during the evening.

The Good Templars of this place are obliged to change their picnic date for this year because of Grand Lodge picnic. Enterprise hopes to hold its picnic on Thursday, July 28 instead of Saturday, as in other years.

The Temperance picnic is one of the most popular in this vicinity and it is hoped the change in date will make no change in attendance.

The many friends of Mr. Noah L Snider were grieved to hear of his death on July 5, at the residence of his brother at Washington C. H., Ohio, following an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Snider's parents reside in this village and on his several visits here he endeared himself to everybody by many admirable qualities. The funeral services were said to be sad beyond words, with the wife too ill to be present, prostrated with grief and only comforted by her little fatherless baby, a son not two weeks old. Mr. Snider was very prominent in Y. M. C. A. work. He was buried by the Masons. The sympathy of all go out to his parents and to his home which is rendered desolate by his death.

For the Sentinel.

Forest and Stream Club Encampment.

The Forest and Stream Club of Westminster is in the midst of mighty preparations for its annual encampment which is to be held July 27th to August 6th, on the Monocacy river near the Western Maryland Railway bridge.

It has set aside Wednesday, August 3rd, for Ladies' Day. On this day the wives and sweethearts of members and friends are welcomed in camp.

The members expect this to be their largest and most successful camp.

There is considerable talk about organizing an orchestra or a band, in addition to the Glee Club which renders such beautiful vocal music along the banks of the Monocacy river from 7 P. M. to 2 P. M. each night.

The Club has elected two members this year.

Bass, we hear, are plentiful and it will only take good weather to make fishing ideal.

You don't have to shoot or fish. The camp, the tent, the big rim of the horizon, the trees, the grass and the open air, is all you want. Take it. It's yours. A king can have no more.

The Club met last night at the studio of Mr. James D. Mitchell, to arrange for the encampment. Fifteen of the thirty members were present, and the meeting was very enthusiastic. It was decided to name the camp "Camp Seabrook" in compliment to President W. L. Seabrook.

This Is St. Swithin's Day.

According to tradition, to-day will determine those regions of the world that will be wet and those that will go dry for the next 40 days from July 15. It is St. Swithin's Day, and many years ago its poet wrote of it:

St. Swithin's Day, 'gin it be fair,
For forty days 'twill nae mair;
St. Swithin's Day, 'gin it do rain,
For forty days it will remain

This way of forecasting the summer weather does not come from the modern weather bureau, but goes back ten centuries St. Swithin was chaplain to Egbert, King of England, and was tutor to Egbert's son, Ethelwulf. He was afterward Bishop of Winchester, and died in 862. He was buried, according to his own wishes, outside the cathedral of Winchester, where the rain of heaven could fall upon his grave.

But when the Bishop was canonized as St. Swithin, about a century after his death, the monks thought his grave too lowly for so great a man, and they prepared to move his body to a handsome crypt inside the cathedral. July 15 was the day set for the removal of his remains, but on that day a heavy rain set in and prevented any attempt to move the body.

The rain continued intermittently for 40 days, and the monks took this as a sign of the displeasure of Heaven at the proposed removal and allowed the body to remain where the saint had decreed and requested before his death.
