POWER HOUSE FOR SPRINGFIELD

New Improvement at Hospital for Insane Will Cost $75,000

The board of directors of Springfield State Hospital for the Insane met on Wednesday in Governor Crothers' office in the Union Trust Building and selected Mr. Henry Adams, the engineer, to prepare plans for a new central power house and heating plant to be erected at the institution at Sykesville. It is estimated that the improvement will cost about $75,000.

Bids will be asked for a new three-story brick ward building which will accommodate 150 patients. Dr. J. Clement Clark, superintendent of the Hospital, reported that the present wards are crowded, there now being over 1,000 patients confined in them. Dr. Clark said that the demands for admission are numerous.

WESTERN MARYLAND MAKES FINE SHOWING

Indications Are Company's Gross This Year Will Be Nearly $8,000,000

The fiscal year 1910-11 has begun auspiciously for the Western Maryland Railway, and if July is a criterion the indications are that the Company will earn in the current 12 months gross of nearly $8,000,000, against $7,072,000 in the fiscal year ended June 30 last.

In July, according to the report issued today, gross earnings amounted to $635,116, and even if this record is maintained, the total for the year will be $7,621,396. But July is one of the lean months, and the management confidently expects much larger receipts from traffic in the fall, winter and early spring.

The July results, however, were very satisfactory, showing as they did an increase in gross revenue of $90,059, or 16.5 per cent. Expenses necessarily were greater than they were a year ago, owing to the greater amount of traffic handled and higher wages paid to trainmen, but despite the increase in these items the ratio of operating expenses to gross earnings was only 57.8 per cent., against 59.5 per cent a year ago.

To put it another way, gross earnings increased 16.5 per cent, expenses 13.1 per cent and operating revenue 21 per cent. In four years, which covers the period President Bush and Vice-President Robertson have operated the system, gross per mile has increased 29.4 per cent, net per mile 48 per cent, maintenance of way per mile 19 per cent, and maintenance of equipment per mile 21.6 per cent. Operating ratio has been reduced 5.13 per cent of gross earnings, notwithstanding an increase of $512 per mile in maintenance expenditures. Cost of conducting transportation has been reduced 2.7 per cent of gross earnings.

The figures for July, compared with those of the corresponding month in 1909, are as follows:

	1910	Changes
Gross earnings	$635,116 Inc.	$90,059
Operating expenses and taxes	386,703 Inc.	45,485
Net earnings...	$248,413 Inc.	$44,574
Other income ..	13,985 Dec.	19,705
Total income...	$262,398 Inc.	$24,869

TO CONSERVE BIRDS

Uncle Sam Urged to Guard Migratory Flocks.

New York, Sept. 25.:—Following the recent recommendation for federal protection of migratory birds by the National Conservation Congress at St. Paul, farmers, sportsmen and landowners throughout the country are today joining a general movement to urge Uncle Sam to conserve his valuable feathered resources. Under the leadership of the National Association of Audubon Societies it is planned to enlist every man who tills an acre or carries a gun, as well as every bird lover, in this campaign for the preservation of the insect and rodent eating and game birds of the nation. Unless migratory bird life is soon made safe by the federal authorities from one end of the country to the other by a uniform protective statute, leading ornithologists here are now united in predicting speedy extermination of many species of the game and wild birds of the land.

From delegates in every section of the continent reports are being received at the headquarters of the Audubon organization in this city which show strong sentiment for the federal bird guardianship that was unanimously made a plank in the platform of the St. Paul congress. Irrespective of party policies, it is declared that the people of every locality now stand ready to urge congress to empower the nation to protect the migratory birds that are being destroyed through lack of uniformity in the laws of its several states. The recent action of the National Conservation Congress is a practical endorsement of the principle contained in the Weeks Bill, now pending at Washington, it is pointed out, which gives the federal government authority to regulate the killing of migratory game and non-game birds.

No interference with state laws for strictly resident birds would be involved in federal protection, according to authorities that have been consulted to-day by leaders in the new movement, while the interests of the people of every section of the country would be served by proper protection of the migratory flocks upon which every citizen of the United States must depend for agricultural prosperity. Though the National Association of Audubon Societies has succeeded in urging thirty-seven states to protect their insect-eating birds by fairly adequate laws which may be changed on the impulse of any succeeding legislature, William Dutcher, president of the organization, declared today that in federal protection alone lay the hope for all Americans to preserve their commercially valuable bird species. Until the government authorities at Washington were able to guard the nation's migratory birds at all points within its borders, he asserted, the present wholesale destruction of these winged assets would continue to the point of extinction.

COMPLAINTS ABOUT THE NEW STATE ROADS

Complaints are general that on the state roads already improved and under improvement the State Roads Commission has not availed itself of the authority conferred by law to have trees planted and to have water troughs for horses and other animals located and maintained at suitable points. Here is the section of the law which conveys the authority to provide foliage and troughs:

The commission shall keep all state highways reasonably clear of brush and maintain same in good condition; shall cause suitable shade trees to be planted thereon, if practicable, and may establish and maintain watering troughs upon said highways. No opening shall be made in any such highway, nor shall any structure be placed thereon, nor shall any structure which has been placed thereon be changed or renewed, except in accordance with a permit from the commission, which shall exercise complete control over such highways, except as herein otherwise provided. No state highway shall be dug up for laying or placing pipes, sewers, poles, wires or railways, or for other purposes, and no trees shall be planted or removed or obstruction placed thereon without the written permit of the State Roads, Commission, or its duly authorized agent, and then only in accordance with the regulations of said commission. Said commission may give suitable names to the state highways and may change the name of any highway which becomes a part of a state highway. They shall erect suitable guideposts at convenient points along state highways.

Each county in which a state highway, or any section thereof, lies shall at its own expense keep such highway sufficiently clear of snow and of other obstructions, except ice, to be reasonably safe for travel. The county shall have police jurisdiction of and for all state highways within its limits, and shall forthwith give notice in writing to the State Roads Commission of any defect or want of repair in such highway or highways.

The Famous Angle Lamp

Never smokes or smells whether turned high or low like gas. It is not merely an ordinary lamp improved. It is an entirely new method of oil lighting. For simplicity and convenience of operation it is the closest rival of gas or electricity. For splendid reading it is unrivaled. For artistic general illumination it is the superior of either. The angle at which the flame burns throws the best light from its most brilliant surface directly downward. The effect of the light is doubled, producing a reading light with which no other system can even compare. Yet the Angle Lamp is the most economical of all lighting methods. Costs less to burn than even the ordinary lamp—fully ⅓ less. But call and see it or write us for full description booklet.
